SENATE PASSES HOUSING BILL IN LIMITED FORM

New York Loses Out by Amendments.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—The 726 million dollar Wagner housing bill, mutilated by restricting amendments which changed its primary purpose from a measure intended to benefit New York City to one which may give New York nothing, passed the senate this afternoon by a vote of 64 to 16. The bill, which is on President Roosevelt's "must" program, now goes to the house of representatives.

The senate moved to quick passage of the so-called slum clearance measure, which it had debated for five days, after Senator Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.) and other administration leaders had endeavored unsuccessfully to eliminate the Byrd amendment restricting the cost of housing projects to $1,000 a room or $4,000 a family unit.

Reconsideration Loses.

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] moved to reconsider the vote of 40 to 39 by which the amendment of Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] had been adopted, but Senator Byrd promptly moved to table McCarran's motion. The motion to table carried 44 to 39, showing a net gain of three votes for the opposition.

Twenty-eight Democrats joined 15 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Laborite in voting to retain the Byrd amendment, while 37 Democrats, 1 Farmer-Laborite, and the radical Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin voted to eliminate it.

Senator Wagner, one of the most powerful forces in the Roosevelt administration, was broken-hearted by his failure to get away with a scheme denounced by some of his colleagues as a bold and "fraudulent" raid on the treasury to build $7,000 homes for New York slum dwellers and let the government subsidize the rent.

Rebuked on Floor.

Wagner yesterday was rebuked on the senate floor for distributing propaganda saying the Byrd amendment would defeat the purpose of the act because "low cost" housing projects would cost up to $7,000 a family unit.

Today Senator Byrd presented figures from the Federal Housing administration showing that it had insured the mortgages on 4,977 private-ly constructed homes which, even including the land, the landscaping, and a reasonable profit to the contractor, cost only $4,641 a family unit. The Byrd $4,000 restriction excludes the cost of the land.

It is conceded by the opponents that the $4,000 unit limit will prohibit the construction of homes of the type Wagner contemplated in New York City, where construction costs are high, but they maintain that $4,000 is enough to spend on houses for slum dwellers. It would not be "low cost" housing if any more money were spent, and persons of the so-called "low income group" making as low as $50 a month certainly could not pay the rent, the opponents argued.

States Shares Limited.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], who charged on the senate floor that New York City would get virtually all of the proposed expenditure under the terms of the bill as originally presented, obtained adoption of an amendment limiting the share of any one state to 20 per cent. Thus New York could get no more than 140 million dollars of the proposed total of 700 million dollars in loans, and could get no more than 7 million dollars a year of the proposed total of 20 million dollars in rental subsidies.

Senator Tydings also put in an amendment requiring local sponsors of public housing projects to pay 5 per cent of the total cost and 5 per cent of the annual rental subsidies.

Another amendment proposed by Senator Marvel M. Logan [D., Ky.], which Wagner vehemently opposed, makes a mere bureau in Secretary Ickes' department of the interior of the proposed housing agency instead of an independent five man authority.

The bill authorizes an appropriation of 26 million dollars for the first three years of the housing program and a bond issue of 700 million dollars over a three year period. Proceeds from the bond issue are to be loaned to public housing agencies for

Wild Huzzas Greet Rubinoff Magic.

He'll Play Here Again!

Announcement was made last night at Grant park that Rubinoff has accepted an invitation to play his violin at the Chicagoland Music Festival. The festival, annually attended by thousands, will be held in Soldiers' field on Saturday night, Aug. 21.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Rubinoff and his violin came to Grant park last night, and for a while it looked as though neither would ever get away.

A crowd that overflowed the park greeted them there, cheered them with wild huzzas, tried to engulf them and to get more and more and more of the music emanating from the inseparably coupled man and his violin.

The mighty multitude of tens of thousands never for one moment let its attention wander from a heavy set little man with little hair but dancing eyes, who put on an hour's show as only a David Rubinoff could do it.

Wriggles His Hips.

Sometimes, fiddle tucked under his second chin, bow flashing, he was a clown, as he wriggled his hips to the rhythm of "Is It True What They Say About Dixie?" gave his middle a reverse swing at each crash of the brasses or winked out naughtily from above his violin.

Or again he was solemn, somber, fierce with his own music, his brown eyes grave and engrossed, as he played his composition, "Danse Russe." Here he was the soulful artist.

Again, he was an eager little man, as human as any one in his vast audience, peering out from the wings of the brilliantly lighted bandshell as eagerly as they peered up out of the dark at him.

Eager to Please.

Most of all, he was eager to please, eager to play.

"You folks," he called out once to the multitude, half of whom could see him only through the use of pack saddles or pocket mirror periscopes, "You're not in a hurry to go home, are you?"

"No!" came a mighty roar.

"All right," he said happily, readjusting his beloved Stradivarius until the jeweled Rubinoff crest glittered out from the tail piece. "That's all I wanted to know."

And once as the applause became so loud that even under those wide skies it seemed surely determined to shatter the bright star over the Field museum, he came back to the microphone, and cocked an attentive ear.

Ready to Give More.

"If you folks want more," he shouted back at them, over and above their shouts, "you will get more." And they did.

In expectation of the vast throng, park officials had installed thousands of extra seats. These seats were filled by 7 p. m., although Rubinoff wasn't to appear until 9, and still the people came. At 8 o'clock the mighty space before the bandshell seemed full. The great sweep of turf was covered with people, old, young, single, and in couples, seated on newspapers.

And again still they came.

The Audience Arises.

But at 9 p. m., when Norman Ross, announcer, called out—"And here's the moment we've been waiting for!" and Rubinoff strode swiftly, nervously, onto the stage, a notable change took place. That enormous portion of the audience which had been seated on the grass arose with one movement to stand and silently crane. And it remained standing.

Occasionally there were shouts of "Down in front!" "Sit down!" but only rarely were they heeded. Apparently the only request any one bothered about was "Shhhhhhh!" and after a while even this wasn't necessary.

Rubinoff himself at first seemed oblivious of the crowd. He admitted, before going out on the stage, as he toyed uneasily with his fiddle, that he was nervous.

"I've been doing this twenty-five years," he said, wiping perspiration

German Court Frees Pastor in Church Row

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—The Rev. Dr. Otto Dibelius, prominent leader among Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] pastors who are fighting Nazi domination of church affairs, was acquitted today for lack of evidence on a charge of violating the Nazi law for protection of the party and state and of insulting Hans Kerrl, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's minister for church affairs.

After an all day session in an extraordinary court in Moabit prison, the trial judge ruled that "it could not be proved that the Rev. Dr. Dibelius acted carelessly or maliciously. He was moved by anxiety for the fate of Christianity and the German people." The judge assessed the costs of the trial against the state.

History of the Case.

The case dates back to March 2, when the Rev. Dr. Dibelius, who at one time was a favorite preacher of Kaiser Wilhelm II., made public a letter he had sent to Kerrl charging the minister with attempting to prevent the teaching of the gospel.

In his letter Dr. Dibelius quoted the Nazi minister as having said the recognition of Jesus as God's son was "ridiculous and unimportant." The pastor also reiterated his belief that Jesus was a Jew.

The church minister, who appeared in court to testify against the pastor, charged that the latter had distorted his [Kerrl's] statements. He told the court he did not remember making any remarks about Christian dogma, but that if he had used the words "ridiculous and unimportant" he was not referring to the question of dogma, but to the efforts of the Catholic bishop of Muenster and the Protestant Rev. Wilhelm Zoellner to convert him to their views.

Kerrl Waxes Indignant.

Kerrl, who has a small mustache similar to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's, held that the Rev. Dr. Dibelius had no business writing open letters about church matters, because he was retired.

"Furthermore," he said, "one does not write open letters to a minister of the third reich."

The judge asked Kerrl whether he had read Dibelius' letter. Kerrl replied with some heat:

"Naturally, I read all incoming mail."

He added that he had not felt the need of replying to Dibelius' pamphlet.

37 YEAR FIGHT FOR 3-20 OF ACRE OF ROCK WON FINALLY BY NAVY

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 6.—(AP)—After 30 years' litigation and seven years' delay the navy took possession today of Mission Rocks, two tiny islands in San Francisco bay with a surface area of 3-20 of an acre.

Lieut. Harry Bolles, who ran up the flag, said he didn't know the purpose of the acquisition.

In early days the Rocks were used as a grain shipping terminal, operated by a private concern which resisted a presidential order in 1899 transferring island ownership to the government.

The United States Supreme court ruled in 1903 the company should retain title to the submerged portion of the Rocks but the navy should have possession of their surface. In 1930 the federal courts issued a decree of dispossession, ending litigation.

MRS. ZIONCHECK FAILS TO SCORE SHOT AT PEEPER

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Ruby E. Zioncheck, widow of the late congressman from Washington, got her gun and took the situation into her hands today after police sought in vain for a prowler she reported.

Mrs. Zioncheck reported a prowler in the yard, but officers searched without result.

Two hours later police received a call that there had been a shooting at the home of Miss Page Ayres, Mrs Zioncheck's aunt.

Officers rushed back and into the house. Gun in hand, Mrs. Zioncheck stood looking at a hole she made in a window blind when she shot at what she said was the prowler.

Another search failed to produce him.

Preacher Charged $2,500 for Theft of Affections

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Rev. Farris Kelley was assessed $2,500 today on a charge that he stole the love of Mrs. Fay Drake, one of his parishioners and the mother of five children. Superior Judge Charles D. Ballard found for Paul S. Drake, radio entertainer, who charged the minister alienated his wife's affections.

Dr. J. L. Miller of U. of C. Dies on Ranch Visit

Dr. Joseph Leggett Miller, 69 years old, clinical professor of medicine at the University of Chicago medical school, died suddenly of a heart attack yesterday at a mountain ranch near Great Falls, Mont.

His body was removed to Great Falls by means of stretchers, boats, and wagons, and prepared for transfer to Chicago. Mrs. Miller was with the doctor at his death. Their son and daughter-in-law had been with them until Wednesday, when they departed by motor.

Dr. Miller was a leading physician in Chicago. He began his practice here in 1895, following his graduation from the University of Michigan and Northwestern university medical school. He served for years as attending physician at the County hospital and St. Luke's hospital. He served as a lieutenant-colonel in the army medical corps during the world war. Dr. Miller was a member of several medical associations. His home was at 5315 Greenwood avenue.

Boy Climbs Into Mail Box for Shoes; Gets Locked In

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Four year old Jimmie Banker spent 20 minutes in a mail box with a pair of men's galoshes tonight before the postman came around and delivered him to his father. Jimmie saw the galoshes through the open door of the parcel-sized collection box. He climbed in. His sister, 9, closed the door. It locked automatically. Jimmie cried and a crowd gathered. Policemen pried the door partly open so Jimmie could breathe. Finally, the postman arrived with a key.

Doc Wibrates Wertebrae of a Girl Patient

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

"Dr." E. A. Romanoski, who caters to a foreign born trade in his office and home at 1240 North Damen avenue, pretends to be on intimate terms with what he calls the astral power. He throws in a little of this power with every treatment, whether his patients ask for it or not. Just in case it isn't working, he provides lamp rays and manipulations from his own powerful hands and arms.

But when he applied the astral power to a TRIBUNE reporter, and on top of that took her into his vibrations, promising to keep her there, she failed to notice that her health was improved.

One of Twenty Arrested.

Doc Romanoski was among twenty men and women arrested Tuesday on complaint of the department of registration and education for violation of the medical practice act. He will go to trial this morning in County court.

The number under arrest was increased to twenty-two yesterday when Lee Reuter, "D. N.," or doctor of naprapathy, 4005 North avenue, and Dr. Arthur T. Taylor, 2 Chicago avenue, Oak Park, a licensed osteopath, surrendered and posted $1,000 real estate bonds before Judge Win G. Knoch of Naperville, sitting in County court here. Two others are being sought.

"Dr. E. A. Romanoski, Naprapath and Physical Therapist" reads a large wooden sign suspended from a standard over the sidewalk in front of the Damen avenue address. A card on the door reads, "Dr. E. A. Romanoski." On an inner door was a sign, "Doctor Is In."

The reporter rang the bell and walked to the second floor. A husky man in his shirt sleeves opened the door, smiled enigmatically, and silently waved her in.

"Dr. Romanoski?" she asked.

Signs in Polish, Too.

"Yes. This way," he said, and led her into a small bedroom. On the way they passed through a comfortably furnished dining room. The windows in the living room contained signs in gold lettering in both English and Polish. The English window read: "Dr. E. A. Romanoski, Physical Therapist."

A middle aged man with graying hair, pink, rotund cheeks on which was a sizable growth of beard, and blue eyes which he opened wide and fixed upon his visitor in a trance-like stare, while a half-smile played on his face, the doc did not have a convincing professional manner.

Begins with Questions.

"Do you want a treatment?" he asked, standing with hairy arms on hips, after a minute's silence. "Who sent you?"

The doc appeared immediately to be the strong, silent type. He asked few more questions but waited expectantly for the visitor to explain herself. She chattered on in the face of his smiling stare until he suggested that he could give her an all-over massage for $3. She said one on the shoulders and arms would do,

SECRET PARLEY HINTS AN END TO CUSTODY FIGHT

Ewert Eludes Police, Then Is Trapped.

Fred Ewert, a key figure in the sensational fight of two families for custody of dark eyed Donald Horst, 2½ years old, was seized by police early today as a settlement in the case between the families was reported under negotiation. Within an hour after his arrest he admitted participating in the kidnaping of the youngster which precipitated the fight.

The battle is between Mr. and Mrs. Otto Horst, 6189 McClellan avenue, the foster parents of Donald, and John and Lydia Regan, his true parents. The Regans, with the help of Ewert, took Donald from the Horst home on Tuesday. Late last night friends of both families indicated that, though there might be a stiff court fight for Donald's custody eventually, some sort of a compromise, as a result of two days of secret maneuvers and conferences with lawyers, might be reached today or Monday.

Trapped After Eluding Police.

The capture of Ewert, about 41 years old, living at 2631 West 23d street, was accomplished after he first eluded a police squad. The squad was made up of Policemen George Vasko, Frederick Janousek, and Chester Kucharski, of the Marquette station. Vasko about midnight received secret information that Ewert might be found at the home of relatives at 2155 Cermak road.

He and his partners went to the rear apartment at that address. Ewert's brother, Charles, assured them that Ewert was there, but unarmed, and that no force to arrest him was necessary. Nevertheless Ewert wriggled by them, climbed a garage roof, and dropped from it into a gangway, through which he escaped. His wife, Constance, was arrested and taken to the station. She made two secret phone calls and presumably reached Ewert, for a few minutes later he walked into a trap set by the same policemen at the 2155 Cermak road address.

Talks Freely of Case.

Ewert talked freely at the Marquette station, and told the story of the baby case from the start. Mrs. Regan gave birth to Donald at his home, he said. Dr. John A. Rose, 900 South Western avenue, for whom Ewert has worked as chauffeur for four years, attended her. Dr. Rose is alleged to have falsified the baby's birth certificate to help the Horsts stage an elaborate pretense that Mrs. Horst was the mother.

Mrs. Regan knew when the baby was born, Ewert said, that Dr. Rose was to take him away for adoption, and "she seemed satisfied." Ewert said he and Dr. Rose took the child immediately after birth to the latter's office. Ewert didn't know until six months later that Donald was given to the Horsts. He then told of Mrs. Regan's persistent efforts to recover the baby.

Tells of "Kidnaping."

"More than a year ago," said Ewert, "Mrs. Regan and Regan began coming to me and begging me to tell them where the child was. They came to me at least a hundred times. Three weeks ago they took me out to a tavern. I drank too much. They pleaded with me about the baby. Mrs. Regan begged so hard I softened. I couldn't resist. I told her his whereabouts."

Ewert said that the Regans thereafter drove by or walked past the Horst home and saw the child. On Tuesday they asked him to drive them to the Horst home to get the baby. He did so.

"But I didn't know the baby would be taken by force," he protested. He said he sat in the parked car for several minutes, and the Regans came out with Donald. He drove them away. Ewert said he stopped to telephone Mrs. Horst that Donald was safe and with "his real mother." He denied he demanded $5,000 or any sum of money from her. Since Tuesday, Ewert related, he had been sleeping away from home because of the "unexpected fuss."

Short to See Horsts Today.

In connection with the reported settlement negotiations Mr. Short said last night that he had arranged to meet today with the Horsts to determine whether he would see them through as their lawyer. If a compromise is not reached, Mr. Short said, he probably would take the case to the Circuit court on a writ of habeas corpus and also into the County court on an adoption petition.

The Horsts never legally adopted Donald. They took him into their home soon after he was born out of wedlock to Lydia Regan, who is still unmarried to the man she says is Donald's father. The attitude of the Regans was not definitly indicated last night.

Before applying to Attorney Short for legal assistance the Horsts announced they had retained Attorney John E. Johnson, an assistant attorney general of Illinois. Johnson could not be found yesterday at his office, 160 North La Salle street, but it was reported he had been in touch with the Horst family during the day.

Key Figures Disappear.

The absence of Attorney Johnson and the disappearance of nearly every other key figure strengthened the report that developments in the drama were being enacted behind the scenes, and that Donald's fate soon would be decided.

Late last night the Horsts' two servants returned to the Horst home, but they declined to talk. The other principals in the case, all of whom remained mysteriously away from their homes, were the following:

The Regans, whose basement apartment at 4539 Congress street was deserted all day. At the Stewart-Warner corporation, 1828 Diversey parkway, where Regan is a machinist, officials said he had not been on the job for two weeks.

Ask Warant for Doctor.

Steps to prosecute Dr. Rose for falsifying the baby's birth certificate were taken yesterday by Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes. Under his orders two assistants, Michael Rosinia and Milton D. Smith, appeared before Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court to ask issuance of a warant for the physician's arrest.

Judge Sonsteby requested the prosecutors to obtain more detailed information about the alleged falsification. Rosinia then told the judge he would take statements from both the Horsts and Regans. When such statements are presented Judge Sonsteby will issue the warant, he indicated.

Reported in Chicago.

Dr. Rose was visiting relatives in Batavia, N. Y., when the kidnaping occurred, but he was reported to have returned to Chicago last night. He could not be found at his home and office. Earlier Horst announced the physician was returning home to help him in the custody fight.

Another probable witness in a trial of the case could not be located last night. He is Lydia Regan's lawful husband, Fred Lavin, from whom she never has been divorced. Lavin was said to have been living at 2148 Harrison street with his housekeeper and four children, one of whom is Betty, the daughter of Lydia Regan. The family could not be found there yesterday.

In Strange Surroundings.

In fact, during the day, the whereabouts of only one of the principals in the tragic drama was known. That was Donald, who played for the second day in strange surroundings at the orphanage and was beginning to grow accustomed to them.

Nurses said the boy had been restless all Thursday night, probably because of the excitement. Yesterday he seemed more contented—as contented as any child could be under the circumstances, but he asked several times for his mommy—Mrs. Horst. He was gleefu' when he awoke to receive some of his own toys, brought to the orphanage late Thursday by his foster parents. A tawny teddy bear, one of his favorites, remained at his side all day.

Donald is being kept in the isolation ward, where he must divide attention with nine other small newcomers, each fenced off by glass partitions to prevent the spread of germs. For two weeks, until physicians are satisfied that he has no communicable disease, Donald must stay in the isolation ward.

REPORT FARLEY MAY GET MOTOR COMPANY POST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—Postmaster General James A. Farley, whose resignation from the cabinet has been persistently rumored for about two years, now is somewhat more confidently expected to resign soon after the adjournment of congress, according to close friends.

It is reported that he has been asked to become executive head of the Pierce-Arrow Motor corporation and that the post would not interfere with his work as chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Simultaneously the Pierce-Arrow company announced that it would introduce a passenger car in the $700 to $1,000 price field.

Pierce-Arrow's president, A. J. Chanter, who announced the new car and an $11,000,000 financing plan, when asked about the Farley report, said: "You will have to ask Mr. Farley.

It is understood the postmaster general promised the President to continue in office until the end of the present session of congress and also to remain at the head of the national and New York committees.

PROWLER HUNTED AFTER INVADING 3 WAUKEGAN HOMES

Police yesterday were seeking a burglar who disturbed three Waukegan families Thursday night. The prowler was driven away from two of the homes when his fumblings awakened members of the families. In the third instance he took $13 and some clothing. The burglar first appeared at the home of William Crawford, 1126 Hickory street, where the cries of Marilyn, 8 years old, drove him away. He then was seen in the home of Dewey Anderson, 810 North avenue, and fled when Mrs. Anderson screamed. He got his plunder from the home of William D. Whyte, 624 North Genesee street.

WOMEN SUPPORT HORSTS IN FIGHT FOR BABY DONALD

Only a Fourth Favor the Natural Parents.

Public interest in whether little Donald Horst should be returned to his foster parents, or sent back to his real father and mother, who gave him up shortly after his birth, mounted throughout the city yesterday. It was the favorite question wherever people gathered, and the majority opinion seemed to be that Mr. and Mrs. Otto Horst of 6189 McClellan avenue, who have had the boy all of his 2½ years of life, should be permitted to keep him.

Although many sincere persons felt that a real mother's love was preferable, and therefore Donald should be given to his own father and mother, Lydia and John Regan of 4529 Congress street, the Horst advocates outnumbered them.

Half Favor Horsts.

About half of the women asked their opinion last night thought the Horsts should have the boy, one-fourth felt the Regans had a more fundamental claim, and the other one-fourth either had no opinion, were reluctant to state it, or professed knowledge insufficient for an opinion.

The women's comment, based on newspaper accounts of the case and made without any personal knowledge of the history or character of the principals involved, follows:

MRS. JOHN J. BRYANT, stockbroker's wife, of Wheaton: So far as I can judge, I think the woman who brought up the baby should have him.

MRS. WILLIAM HARRISON CADE, civic leader: I think the mother forfeited her right when she even thought of giving up the child and I believe the people who reared him love him as their own and should keep him.

MRS. MARK W. CRESAP, wife of clothing manufacturer, of Winnetka: I have read so little about it that I have no opinion.

MRS. WALTER J. CUMMINGS, wife of the chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust company: The foster mother deserves quite a little for she has been a marvelous mother. But legally the child's own mother has the best case. It is tragic for each.

Favors Natural Mother.

MRS. BENJAMIN B. DAVIS, wife of an attorney: I think it would be cruel to deprive the natural mother of her child, provided her desire to reclaim it is sincere.

MRS. C. A. DONNEL, wife of the weather forecaster: My sympathies are all one-sided, and for the Horsts. They seem to think as much of the child as if he was their own.

MRS. THORNE DONNELLEY, wife of the vice president of the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation, of Lake Bluff: I haven't kept up with the case at all.

MRS. HOWARD FENTON, wife of the president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank: Mother love is best experienced by the love you give a baby. The parents who voluntarily assume the responsibilities of parenthood should have the child.

MRS. WILBUR E. FRIBLEY, president Chicago Housewives league: Donald should live with the family which has the best background and which can give him the most advantages.

MRS. PAUL H. HAHN, director, Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers: The mother who had Donald for all these years and has given him a home and love is entitled to him.

MRS. CORNELIUS J. HARRINGTON, wife of the Circuit court judge: No woman should be forced to give up a child she has cared for for two years and to which she has become strongly attached.

MRS. WALTER H. HERMSDORF, director of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies: While I feel sorry for the real parents, I think the baby should go to the woman who reared him.

MRS. MERRILL HUBBARD of Lake Forest: I think the foster parents should have it unless the real parents are serious about wanting the child and not interested in getting money.

Much Ado About Nothing.

MRS. EDWARD N. HURLEY, manufacturer's wife, of Wheaton: I think it is much ado about nothing. I didn't care to read the stories about the baby.

MRS. WALTER J. LABUY, wife of the Circuit court judge: A mother's claim to her own child should be superior to all other claims.

MRS. JOHN C. LEWE, wife of a Superior court judge: I feel the natural mother should have the child. It is only a human instinct for her to want it and to fight for it.

MRS. FRED LORISH, wife of the president of the Chicago Real Estate board: If you give a child as much care as the Horsts apparently have given Donald, the child becomes just like your own, while the real mother does not know what it means to have the baby.

MRS. PHILIP B. MAHER, wife of architect, 44 Cedar street: I think that getting to love a child through association is a stronger tie than the fact of giving birth to him, if after he has been born you give him up.

MRS. MICHAEL L. McKINLEY, wife of a Superior court judge: It is a natural instinct for a mother to want her own child, but its best interests should be considered. Its future home and environments are matters to be weighed.

Calls Loss Cruel.

MISS ALICE McKINLEY, retired dean of Calumet High school: It would be a very cruel thing to take the child away from the people who have had it and have become attached to him, particularly when he was freely given away by the mother at birth.

MRS. LEONARD M. PRINCE of Lake Forest, mother of a daughter of 9 years, an adopted son, and a son of her own 4 weeks old: I feel very strongly that a woman loves her adopted child as much as her own. But if she did feel that way, I cannot understand why Mrs. Horst did not legally adopt the child. It would be hard on the child now to present him with a strange mother.

MRS. SAMUEL RINAKER, attorney's wife, of Lake Forest: In the long run I think the child will be happier with the Horsts, whom he is used to as parents.

Sympathies for Horsts.

MRS. ALLEN B. RIPLEY, manufacturer's wife, of 229 Lake Shore drive: My sympathies are very definitly with Mr. and Mrs. Horst, because I think they can do the best for the baby.

MRS. JOSEPH SABATH, wife of the Superior court judge: This baby belongs to its own mother and she should be aided in her fight to regain it.

MRS. THOMAS B. STEPHENSON, member of the board of managers, Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers: Any mother will feel that the child's affections have been won by the Horsts. He would suffer if taken from them.

MRS. SAMUEL SUGAR, wife of a commission broker: It's a hard thing to say, but I guess the real mother should have the child.

MRS. HENRY F. TENNEY, attorney's wife: I hope the natural mother gets the child.

MRS. JOHN VAN WAKEMAN, P.-T. A. leader: I think a child always belongs with the real parents, but circumstances alter cases. I feel sorry for the Horsts because they undoubtedly have as much affection for the boy as the real parents.

MRS. E. E. WAFUL, Catholic Woman's league: The baby is not a child of the foster mother's body, but her heart, which is more important.

MRS. CHARLES J. WHALEN, physician's wife: His own mother didn't want the boy and it also seems that the Horsts can give him better care.

MRS. JOHN A. WOLFER, wife of a physician: The Horsts seem, to me, to be in a better position to care for the boy. The other people defied the law all along, and now they ask the law to help them!

No Matter Who Gets Him, Baby Will Be the Loser, Say Experts

Whether the Horsts or the Regans win final custody of Baby Donald, the real victim of the current drama involving the boy is Donald himself. This was the opinion of several psychologists and others last night.

Donald, although now comparatively free from unhappiness over his situation, is bound, the experts predicted, to experience unpleasant reaction later on—this because of the sensational manner in which his parentage became known.

Should be Told, Says Psychologist.

Dr. Mandel Sherman, associate professor of educational psychology at the University of Chicago, said that when Donald is old enough to understand, he should be told the entire story. It should not be dramatized.

"But regardless of the outcome," said Dr. Sherman, "the whole situation will be very unfortunate for the boy."

As a rule sociologists, psychologists, and pediatricians hesitated last night to express a definite opinion on the question of whether Lydia Regan or Mrs. Horst should receive Donald's custody.

"I don't envy the judge who must decide the question," admitted Dr. John J. B. Morgan, of the psychology department of Northwestern university. "Even King Solomon would be puzzled."

Dr. Adam R. Gilliland, head of the psychology department at Northwestern, agreed with Dr. Morgan that a just decision would be extremely difficult to make. He said that he knew of no parallel case in any text book or collection of case histories.

Favors Mrs. Horst.

On the basis of the published facts, and without knowing any of the possible intimate details of the case, Dr. Charles Gilmore Kerley, a Park avenue pediatrician in New York, said he believed that Mrs. Horst, the foster mother, merited custody of Donald. Mother love, he held, should not enter into the case.

Another expert on child welfare mentioned that a mother's feelings, however noble, are a matter of convention, tradition, association, learning and social influence.

Dr. Frank Jirka Will Quit State Post, Governor Says

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Reports that Dr. Frank Jirka of Chicago soon will retire as director of the state public health department were confirmed today by Gov. Horner.

"Dr. Jirka has done a mighty good job," Horner said. "I'm sorry he's going."

The resignation will be effective about Sept. 1. Dr. Jirka has asked to return to his private practice of medicine and also wants to be nearer his family.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Evasion of Illinois Law Is Called Needless.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Health agencies issued a word of advice and explanation yesterday to couples who are thinking about evading the new Illinois marriage hygiene laws by getting married at Crown Point, Ind. They pointed out that the cost of the tests for syphilis and gonorrhea required by the law is too small to be a reason for a wedding at the Indiana Gretna Green.

In municipal laboratories, they said, the examinations are free. Some other clinics charge $5 or less a couple for the full examination, and among private physicians none is known to charge more than from $2 to $10. This is in contrast with the belief expressed by many couples who had gone to Crown Point last week, who said they heard that the new laws made an Illinois marriage cost $20 to $30.

Urge Relief Families to Vote.

While public health chiefs were trying to remove this misapprehension, officials of the Works Progress administration urged 150,000 families on WPA and other relief rolls to vote in the poll now being taken in Chicago on the willingness of citizens to submit to free, voluntary, and secret blood tests for syphilis.

As spokesman for the federal, state, and city health agencies that are conducting the campaign to bring syphilis and gonorrhea under control, Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, head of Mayor Kelly's committee of 400 on control of venereal disease, explained the cost of the laboratory tests required by the marriage hygiene law.

"No possible reason exists," said Dr. Schmidt, "for any couple seeking to evade the Saltiel law by an Indiana marriage simply on account of expense. If the couple go to a private physician, as most of them do, they ask what the charge is, just as they would for any other service. The fees are fair, so far as is known, but of course they vary.

Many Get Free Tests.

"If unable to pay the fee, the couple can get examination at the city hall without any charge at all. We have ten to twenty couples a day. The laboratory services are free of charge, and we have one or two doctors to make the physical examination.

"Then there are the various clinics. The clinic of the Illinois Social Hygiene league at 9 East Huron street gives pre-marriage examinations free or at small cost. About 50 per cent of its work is free. If the person can afford to pay, a small fee is charged, but nobody is turned away. The Public Health institute gives complete examination for $5 a couple. So does the United Medical Service clinic."

Point Out Value of Poll.

In a joint statement, Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, and Charles E. Miner, Illinois WPA administrator, urged WPA workers and relief clients to give support to the campaign to control syphilis.

"For the first time in history," it read, "the average citizen is given an opportunity to register his opinion on syphilis in a manner which will carry weight. The poll, requiring merely a yes or no answer to the question: 'In strict confidence and at no expense to you, would you like to be given by your own physician, a blood test for syphilis' is the opening gun in a campaign to stamp out the disease.

Survey Is Voluntary.

"There is no compulsion in this matter, but we earnestly hope that the 150,000 families on WPA and public relief rolls will accept this chance to make known their views. Not until these tests are made can doctors tell with exactitude the actual hold syphilis has on Chicago. The test in itself is simple, speedy and painless."

Tabulators of the syphilis poll reported yesterday that 411,000 ballots had been placed in the mail, and that 30,863 had been returned. Of these 29,589 were checked "yes" and only 1,274 "No."

In Custody Battle

HEALYS BATTLE OVER CUSTODY OF DAUGHTER, 2

Father Sues to Stop Her Removal to East.

Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy, former assistant United States district attorney, and his divorced wife, Mrs. Julia Louise Healy, yesterday began a court battle over custody of their daughter, Patricia, 2 years old.

Although the baby was given to Mrs. Healy when she obtained an uncontested divorce May 20, 1936, by agreement the child has been with Mr. Healy for the last nine months. In a petition filed yesterday Mr. Healy seeks to keep his daughter within the jurisdiction of the court because, he asserted, Mrs. Healy is planning to marry for the third time and establish her home at Scarsdale, N. Y.

Sent to Grandmother's Home.

After the divorce, which was granted on grounds of infidelity, Mrs. Healy took the child with her to California. But, because this took the girl too far away for Healy to see her, she was sent to his mother's home in Chicago last December.

"Without warning Mrs. Healy's attorney notified me a few days ago," Healy said, "that she wanted Patricia at once as she was going to establish a permanent home with her third husband in New York. I refused, since this would prevent me from ever seeing my child."

In his petition yesterday Healy asked the Circuit court to modify the custody order, and appoint a guardian for Patricia, so that she could be kept within the court's jurisdiction. Mrs. Healy countered with a petition asking that Healy be required to comply with the terms of the original decree and return the child to her custody.

Fears Losing Child.

"When we were divorced I recognized the fact that a 10 month old baby should be with her mother," Healy said last night. "But the granting of custody does not grant ownership, and if Patricia is taken to New York I will have no opportunity of seeing her."

Judge William V. Brothers gave each parent ten days to file answers to petitions and set hearing for Sept. 20. Healy's law offices are at 231 South La Salle street.

BANDIT WOUNDED AT EDGEWATER IS NEAR DEATH

In order to be prepared for holdups, employés of the Edgewater Beach hotel who handle money are required to familiarize themselves with firearms and take regular target practice. As a result of this training a youthful robber was shot and probably fatally wounded early yesterday in an attempted holdup of the hotel, at 5349 Sheridan road.

The robber is Roderick M. MacIsaac, 19 years old, who said he was a bell boy in a loop hotel. He was shot by William Armstrong, 42 years old, night auditor of the Edgewater Beach hotel, as the youth fled after forcing Armstrong to hand over $520 in hotel receipts. At the Bridewell hospital last night physicians said there was little hope he would live.

Armstrong fired three shots, one of which struck the robber in the back. MacIsaac collapsed in the arms of the doorman, John Lofgren.

Edgewater Beach hotel officials said Armstrong, who lives at 6141 South Rockwell street, would receive a reward of $250. If MacIsaac dies Armstrong will receive an additional $250 in conformance with the hotel's policy of guarding against holdups.

CRAWLS THROUGH A TINY DOOR TO LOOT APARTMENT

A youth crawled through a service door into the apartment of Miss Loretta McAleavy at 4546 North Damen avenue yesterday, and stole three diamond rings valued at $1,500. The door through which he entered is about a foot square. Neighbors who saw the boy said he was about 16 years old, and of slight build. Miss McAleavy is an anesthetist at the Ravenswood hospital.

Mrs. Marie Thorne, 221 East Walton place, reported to police yesterday that a platinum bracelet set with 300 small diamonds was stolen from her apartment Thursday night. A prowler, who apparently used a pass key, entered her flat and took several other gems and $10, she said. Her total loss was estimated at $1,000 by the police.

HERO'S COURAGE IN LIFE BATTLE AMAZES DOCTORS

Bandits' Slayer Suffers Hourly Torments.

Physicians at the County hospital marveled yesterday at the courage and physical stamina of Lige Debowski, heroic citizen, in his fight to recover from five bullet wounds inflicted July 18 when he shot and fatally wounded two bandits.

Already surgeons have performed three operations and given him almost a gallon of blood in transfusions to check infection and give him strength. Last night his condition was reported dangerous, as his temperature again rose to nearly 104. Earlier in the day his temperature had reached 104 and then receded to 101.

Condition Definitly Critical.

Dr. Karl Meyer, medical superintendent of the hospital, said Debowski's condition was definitly critical. He ordered a close watch kept on the patient. The most serious wound, Dr. Meyer explained, was caused by one of the bullets which passed through his left thigh into the abdominal cavity.

It was necessary, Dr. Meyer said, to open the leg twice so that the wound might be drained and finally to divert a pierced intestine to cut down the chance of further infection. Once an hour the leg wound is cleansed by nurses and attendants.

Physicians also have administered gas bacillus antitoxin and tetanus antitoxin to check the general spread of a toxic condition. To offset further complications physicians have been watching carefully for any signs of pneumonia, which it appeared several days ago might develop.

For the first time since her husband was wounded Mrs. Wanda Debowski appeared despondent last evening. "I've always held hope in my heart that he would recover," she said, "but now I'm fearful. He is a very sick man.

ROBBERS GET AWAY WITH $550 OF PAY ROLL; MISS $9,250

Three armed robbers missed the greater part of a $9,800 pay roll yesterday, but got away with $550 from a temporary construction office at 445 East Grand avenue. The office belongs to the George A. Fuller Construction company and is being used during erection of a new building for the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation at the Grand avenue address. Edward H. McGorrist, superintendent for the company, was forced to lie on the floor during the robbery.

HUNT U. S. DANCER MISSING IN PARIS; FEARED KIDNAPED

PARIS, Aug. 7 [Saturday].—(AP)—Police reported today they were seeking Jean De Koven, 22 year old American dancer, after they were informed she disappeared two weeks ago and ransom letters were received by her aunt.

The letters demanded $500 from the aunt, Ida Sackheim, under threat of killing Miss De Koven. The aunt reported the girl's absence to the United States embassy, which asked the police to investigate. Detectives said a preliminary inquiry showed Miss De Koven was friendly with an unidentified young man and may have left voluntarily.

Advertisments appearing daily in the Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune since July 26 requested information from "Jean." They were signed "S." The most recent, yesterday, said: "Must have letter today your handwriting concerning us both. Toulouse."

FIND PHYSICIAN GUILTY OF RAPE; GIRL, 13, VICTIM

Bel Air, Md., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Dr. Armen Greenhut, physician, was convicted late today of statutory rape, one of two counts of an indictment charging him with attacking a 13 year old school girl. The offense is punishable by death, but the jury recommended mercy.

The 39 year old doctor, once an instructor in the University of Pennsylvania Medical school, received the verdict calmly. There was no demonstration in the courtroom.

During the trial, the girl, Ruth J. McGowan, said she first visited Dr. Greenhut with her aunt last April after she had been hurt playing ball. After a second call, she charged the doctor raped her while she was on an operating table.

The girl told her aunt what had happened. Police set a trap, instructing the girl to return to Dr. Greenhut's offices.

as that was where her pain was located.

"That will be only $2," he said, "and I will include some divine healing. I always do. I always use my power in all my treatments. I have many patients, and they are satisfied. Of course I do not guarantee, but I think I can help you."

He left the room, telling the patient to expose the back to the waist. While he was gone she examined with difficulty an array of framed documents. They were hung on the walls just below the ceiling, so high up that they were impossible to read in their entirety. Until examined minutely they appeared to be licenses and diplomas.

Diplomas—Such as They Are.

But the diplomas were all public school certificates, except one from a chiropractic college. One showed he was a member of the American Association of Medical Hydrology and Physical Therapy. This mysterious name appeared on the walls of another "doctor" under arrest.

In one corner of the room were large hooks such as seen in offices where colonic irrigations are given but the vessels and apparatus were lacking.

Doc Romanski entered and told his patient to lie on her back on the treatment table. He then approached, held up his stocky arms supplicatingly, and rolled his eyes upward. A faint grin appeared on his face, despite his apparent effort to be grim and serious. He then wriggled, heaved a sigh, and bent down, caressing his patient's arms with the tips of his fingers, lingeringly and gently.

The Power Falls on Him.

With a swaying movement, he began at the shoulders and softly trailed his fingers along her arms. As he reached the wrist, some great inward struggle appeared to be taking place within Doc Romanoski's substantial person. He shook his hands, contorted his face, and raised his body, turning his eyes upward.

"I'm getting the astral power," he said, breathing heavily, perspiration forming on his forehead. "I can see it now."

"You can?" his patient asked in alarm. "What does it look like?"

"With some patients it is little white dots. With others, colored dots. Each person has his own color."

"What is mine?" the recumbent visitor asked.

"A turquoise blue," he said ecstatically.

Flings Arms Heavenward.

He ended this phase of the treatment by flinging his arms upward, then touched his patient again even more lightly than before.

"Does that draw out the pain?" she asked.

"It helps," he said modestly. "The power is what you feel. You can feel something, can't you?" he went on, bending over her and breathing heavily.

"Yes, I can feel something," she said doubtfully.

"It's the astral power," he said with guttural intensity. "With it I can do anything that needs to be done without once giving medicine."

Prescribes Lot of Things.

He opened a little black bag such as physicians use which had been on a cot in a corner of the room and drew from it apparatus for taking blood pressure. He applied it to his patient's arm.

"It is very low," he said. "It's the blood pressure of a 5 month old baby. That's why you don't feel well. But it's nothing serious.

"I'll tell you what to do. Eat lots of hot things—pepper and hot sauces. Drink a little wine before meals, or a little whisky. But never mix them. That will make you feel better."

"Wibrates the Wertebrae."

He told his patient to turn on her stomach. Then he poured oil on her back, shoulders and arms, rubbed it in, and pressed the spine up and down.

"I am wibrating the wertebrae," he announced.

He then connected a lamp which he said gave ultra-violet rays and penetrated to the bones, which was what she needed. He turned the lamp on her arms and shoulders and gave her a lecture on fear.

"You're a pretty nice looking lady," he said, "and you want to take care of yourself. You got a delicate body, but you're strong. You're afraid. You must feel you're going to be well."

Takes Rev. Title, Too.

He handed his visitor two cards and collected $2. One card read in part: "Dr. Rev. E. A. Romanoski, pastor and divine healer, systematic and scientific treatments, Thursday and Sunday 7 p. m. and by appointment., Aryan International Divine Healing society, No. 82, Branch 3, Aryan National Temple, 109 West Elm street."

"If you don't feel better, come back to me. Or come to the healing circle at the temple some night," he said.

He showed the reporter to the door and as a parting admonition said:

"Don't worry about being ill. Don't be afraid. I will keep you in my vibrations. You will be in my power."

Vermin and a Reading.

The reporter later called at the temple. The doc was not there on the first occasion, but a large white-gowned woman gave her a reading, warned her against sitting on the divan, explaining that they had found bedbugs the previous night, and sold her a bottle of pills, insisting she take three big ones there and then.

Within a few nights the reporter returned to the "temple." A small gathering of persons fanned themselves and waited for the messages to start. In the meantime Doc Romanoski appeared in the doorway after the donations were taken and beckoned to the reporter.

"Come upstairs wit' me," he whispered mysteriously.

She followed him up a long flight of stairs to a small room at the top. He closed the door, had her sit in a chair, and stood beside her. He trailed his finger tips down her arms, over her face, neck, and shoulders.

Treated by the Shakes.

He then crouched by her side and placed one hand on her solar plexus, the other on her back, and shook them violently. He then placed one large hot hand on her stomach, the other on the small of her back. Again they shook, while the doc's face assumed a pseudo-spiritual expression and streamed perspiration.

He arose, still silent, and smiling, and let her go downstairs. Having had her massage, she remained for her message, and then departed. The doc followed her to the door.

"For you to keep under my power and in my wibrations," he said, with a mysterious smile, "you should come to see me once every week or two weeks. If you come to the Damen avenue place I give you whole body treatment."

He paused, then added: "Very special. I give to very few persons. Goodnight."

4 BOYS KILLED BY AUTOS; 3 RIDING BICYCLES

1 Dies, 2 Injured Hitching Ride on Truck.

Four boys were killed and two others seriously injured by automobiles yesterday and last night. Three of those killed were riding bicycles. The other fatality victim and the two boys injured were hitching a ride on a truck.

Failure to have a light on their bicycle contributed, police said, to the accident which cost the lives of two of the victims, Rodney Seabloom, 12 years old, of Holdridge road, north of Waukegan, and James McIntyre, 14, of 1909 Bilboa avenue, Zion, cousins.

Collide with Auto.

They were riding on a single seater bicycle north in Sheridan road, two blocks north of the Zion city limits, when they collided head on with an automobile driven by Lawrence Standridge, 17, of Winthrop Harbor. The McIntyre boy was killed outright. Standridge took him and young Seabloom to the Zion police station, where the latter died.

In Chicago, a short time earlier, Richard Howell, 9, of 7800 Euclid avenue, rode his bicycle out of an alley in front of the automobile of Douglas Turner, 18, of 8910 Blackstone avenue. The accident occurred in front of 1918 East 78th street. Turner took the Howell boy to the Jackson Park hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Hitches Ride on Truck; Killed.

Earlier in the day an unidentified boy and two companions, Kenneth Jeanes, 15, of 18 East 100th street, and Pat Dougherty, 12, of 7336 Aberdeen street, were brushed off a merchandise truck on which they had hitched a ride, by another truck at Halsted and 67th streets. The unidentified boy, about 14 years old, was killed. The others, seriously injured, were taken to Englewood hospital.

James Chesak, of San Pierre, Ind., was driving the truck on which the three were riding.

The Zion accident in which two boys were killed led indirectly to another highway death. The victim was James J. Marshall, 39, of 3104 Edinah avenue, Zion. Passing a car just north of the Glen Flora Country club in Waukegan, he collided head-on with another machine containing three men on their way to see where the bicycle tragedy occurred. The driver of the second car, Henry Korybyski, and one passenger, Ed Plenwicz, both of North Chicago, were shaken up. The other passenger, Ernest Gorley, 40, of Waukegan, suffered a skull fracture.

Lake Bluff Man Killed.

Bert E. Safford, 63 years old, a real estate dealer who was police magistrate in Lake Bluff from 1927 to 1932, died yesterday in the Alice Home hospital there of injuries suffered early Thursday morning in an automobile collision near Rondout in Lake county. He lived at 501 Scranton avenue, Lake Bluff, and operated a restaurant west of the suburb.

Safford was riding in a car driven by Clifford Murrie, 226 Noble avenue, Lake Forest, which crashed into the rear of another car at the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul railroad crossing on Route 176.

Reckless Driving Charges.

Murrie was charged with reckless driving on the complaint of Peter Gargano, 1930 Kristian avenue, North Chicago, driver of the other car.

Angelo Tizzrio, 50, of 827 South Paulina street, died in the County hospital yesterday after being unconscious since June 9, when he walked into the side of an automobile at Roosevelt road and Marshfield avenue. The driver of the car was Emmet Biddle, 44, of 5055 Wilson avenue.

William Sherron Jr., 37, of 5602 Michigan avenue, colored, died yesterday in the Evangelical hospital of injuries received when an automobile his father was driving smashed into a tree at Garfield boulevard and Racine avenue.

Boy on Bicycle Injured.

Riding his bicycle against a moving coal truck at 64th street and Bell avenue, William Madigan, 10, of 6426 South Oakley avenue, was critically injured yesterday afternoon. Police released the driver, Charles Bundzehuk, 4519 Wentworth avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 614 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. Of these 476 persons were killed in Chicago, while 13,128 were injured in the city in the same period.

HALF OF STREET CLOSED TODAY; DRIVE OPENED

The south half of Washington boulevard, in the block between Clinton and Jefferson streets, will be closed to trafic from 12:30 today until midnight Sunday while the east bound street car tracks there are being repaired. West bound motor trafic will not be affected.

The east half of Leif Ericson drive from Roosevelt road to Monroe street, which has been resurfaced and widened, was opened to trafic yesterday. Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer for the parks district, said the reopening of the street will abolish a temporary parking area in Jackson boulevard between Leif Ericson and Columbus drives. Parking will be permitted along the east and west curbs and in the center of the drive between Jackson boulevard and Monroe street.

TWO MOTORISTS LOSE AUTO RACE IN SAFETY COURT

A race on Polk street to determine whose car was the fastest was lost by both contestants in the Safety court yesterday. Judge Charles S. Dougherty revoked their driving privileges for six months, then added a five day jail sentence for one defendant, Joseph Spataro, 21 years old, 2019 Kendall avenue, and imposed a $10 fine on the other driver, Louis De Nicola, 21, of 2020 Polk street.

Judge Dougherty also revoked the driving privileges of two other reckless drivers, Roscoe Coleman, colored, 5120 Calumet avenue, and Vincent Markiewicz, 28, of 2104 Shakespeare avenue. Each was fined $10.

WOOD FINISHER HANGS SELF.

Prokop Cerveny, 71 years old, 2415 South Trumbull avenue, a wood finisher, hanged himself from a rafter in the garage at the rear of 2521 South Homan avenue yesterday.

JAP AND CHINESE ARMIES BATTLE AT GREAT WALL

Nipponese Push Drive in Northern Area.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 7 [Saturday].—The North China crisis, a month old today, appeared this morning to be headed in the direction of a real war, despite rumors of peace associated with the return to Nanking of Shigeru Kawagoe, Japanese ambassador. Kawagoe is reputed to be carrying Tokio's terms for a settlement.

The China Evening News, leading Chinese paper, forecast major fighting between Chinese and Japanese armies within a week. The fighting is expected to begin at Paotingfu, 80 miles south of Peiping, and at Tsangchow, 50 miles south of Tientsin. These towns, both in Hopei province, are likely to be the initial objectives of the Japanese troops now marching south from the Peiping-Tientsin area.

Battle at Great Wall.

A Japanese attack on the Northern Chinese lines near Nankow pass through the Great Wall south of Kalgan already is under way. The Japanese objective is the occupation of Chahar and Suiyuan provinces.

The dispatch of Japanese troops to the southern borders of Hopei province is expected to precipitate hostilities in Shantung province, where Gov. Han Fu-chu thus far has preserved "neutrality."

Lending credence to the belief that the undeclared war will soon spread throughout China, the Japanese yesterday began a mass evacuation of its nationals from the interior of central China. The evacuation centered at Hankow, several hundred miles inland from Shanghai on the Yangtze river, where Japanese marines were landed without warning yesterday and declared a state of emergency." Hundreds of Japanese civilians were loaded on steamers and started down the river to the coast.

American authorities at Hankow were reported to have advised all Americans in the district to leave. There are several hundred Americans in the area, most of them missionaries.

China Has Vast Man Power.

Unconfirmed Japanese reports said the Chinese government at Nanking is planning the early formation of a war cabinet. The national legislative yuan held a long secret session yesterday. It considered wartime legislation on military and financial affairs.

Of most consequence were the continuous, expanding conferences of high provincial militarists from all parts of the country. Many of them are in Nanking for the first time in many years. They have avoided the capital due to animosity toward Dictator Chiang Kai-shek. Their differences have now been forgiven in the face of a major danger from Japan.

Chiang Kai-shek is supposed to have a modern army of more than 300,000 men which has been trained for nearly ten years by German drill masters. In event of a genuine war, however, final dependence must be placed on the hundreds of thousands of poorly trained and equipped provincial troops. Due to their vast numbers and their long experience in domestic civil war they are considered likely to give a good account of themselves.

CAPTURE BANDIT AFTER ROBBERY OF CAFE IN LOOP

Screams of a cashier in a Harding restaurant at 21 South Wabash avenue yesterday started a chase that ended with the capture of a bandit, Peter Roberto, alias Joseph Madera, 18 years old, who said he once was a bodyguard for Father Divine, colored religious fanatic. Hundreds of persons witnessed the pursuit.

After eating a meal the bandit walked to the cashier's cage and ordered Miss Ann Seigal, 24 years old, 4355 West 21st street, to hand over the money. She surrendered $30, but screamed as he was leaving. Employés ran after him.

Roberto jumped into a cab he had hired on the south side and pressed a toy pistol against the head of the driver, F. Wolf, 5502 South Halsted street. Seeing Policeman Patrick McDonnell approaching, Wolf refused to drive. The bandit ran into a building at 5 North Wabash avenue, where he was trapped in a blind corridor.

CHINA IS BIGGEST BUYER OF ARMS IN U. S. DURING JULY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—China was the largest buyer of arms, ammunition, and implements of war in the United States during July.

State department statistics showed today that that nation spent $293,226 in this country for airplanes designed for aerial warfare. The remainder of its total expenditure of $309,870 went for rifles and carbines, revolvers and automatic pistols, ammunition, and nonmilitary airplane equipment.

Japan was one of the three largest purchasers, spending $203,578, of which $92,340 was for military airplanes and $97,415 for nonmilitary aircraft engines. Mexico spent $205,835.

Girl, 16, Aids in Robbery of Woman Bakery Clerk

A pretty girl, not more than 16 years old, helped a boy, not more than 18, commit a robbery last night. The victim was Mrs. Margaret Petkosek, 6321 North Artesian avenue, clerk in a bakery at 2305½ Devon avenue. The boy and girl, posing as customers, asked for a coffee cake, and after Mrs. Petkosek had wrapped it the boy drew a gun and forced her to give up $10. Then the two fled. They took the coffee cake, too.

GERMAN PASTOR FREED IN FIGHT WITH NAZI CHIEF

contention of their chief. Herr Muhs, secretary of state in the church ministry, was asked by a defense lawyer why the ministry had waited so long to take action. Dr. Dibelius was arrested only a few days ago. Muhs replied that he had no authorization to speak on the subject.

Dibelius Tells His Story.

Dr. Dibelius, who is 49 years of age, was calm and dignified on the stand. He explained that he had sent the letter protesting against Kerrl's statements to the minister himself with a note informing him that he was sending copies to Konstantin von Neurath, Nazi foreign minister; to Count Schwerin von Krosigk, minister of finance, and to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's chancellery.

He said he had expected at least one answer. When no answer arrived after a fortnight, copies of the letter were circulated publicly through the Council of Brethren. The pastor declared emphatically that if he had received a reply or a protest that his letter contained false charges, he would not have made it public.

"There is no sense in forgetting that we are in the throes of one of the greatest spiritual crises in German history," he said. "I have made it a point to fight chivalrously. Every Christian must, regardless of what happens, stand up for unrestricted teaching of the gospel. I am grieved to see the same lack of knowledge of the matter at hand in the speech of the prosecuting attorney as is found in many official quarters."

State Demands Prison.

The prosecuting attorney then made a fulminating speech in which he demanded that Dr. Dibelius be sent to prison for six months. He also denounced the Confessional pastors.

"They are turning their religious fight against the German Christians into a fight against the state," he cried. "If the assertions of Dibelius were true, the church minister would have to resign, which illustrates the seriousness of the situation. The punishment of Dibelius must be such that it will become known in the whole world, the same as his open letter."

When the court announced acquittal a group of Nazi officials of the church ministry who had been watching the procedure seemed stunned. Outside in the corridor friends rushed up to the Rev. Dr. Dibelius and his wife and two sons, who had attended the trial. The minister tried to escape an ovation, rushing to the pastor's small car which was parked in the street and in which he drove home with his family.

SHELLS POUR ON MADRID'S FAMED CENTRAL SQUARE

Rebel Guns Resume After Few Days' Silence.

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Aug. 6.—Living in Madrid means nothing less than gambling one's life every hour of the day and night. After a few days of silence the guns of Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel forces today resumed bombardment of this beleaguered city, which has been under siege for nine months.

The insurgents still are at the gates of the city, where 2,500 persons have been killed and 4,800 wounded as the result of air bombing and shelling since the arrival of the insurgents outside Madrid last November.

[On Nov. 5 the rebels began the first artillery bombardment of Madrid. The next day they were four miles from the city.]

Shells Rain for Hour.

Five persons were killed this morning in the famous Puerto del Sol, Madrid's central square, while a dozen were injured, some seriously. I happened to be emerging from a subway at the time, but was prevented from doing so as shell after shell kept landing in the Puerto del Sol for nearly an hour, hitting buildings and tearing big holes in sidewalks.

Several more persons were killed when shells fell in nearby streets just off Carrera de San Jeronimo, Madrid's Michigan avenue, the Calle de Alcala, and the Gran Via. A few shells fell in the Plaza de Cibeles opposite the postoffice and the Bank of Spain. The throne room in the palace of the papal nuncio was damaged by a shell.

Check Rebels' Advance.

Reports from the Teruel front, between Madrid and Valencia in eastern Spain, showed the government now has been able to check the rebels' advance on the Cuenca road by occupying the heights commanding the insurgents' spearhead south of Toril, and throwing their best forces at the rebels' right flank from Frias de Albarracin, now totally occupied by the government following a bloody encounter which cost both sides many lives.

Government guns today heavily shelled the road from Teruel to Bezas, which is the rebels' right flank. Five insurgent bombers, escorted by three pursuit planes, dropped about thirty bombs on Cuenca today, killing twelve persons and wounding many. Until now Cuenca has been one of the quietest places in government territory since the war.

Catalan Troops Begin Drive.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Catalan troops, inactive for some time in the Spanish civil war, went into action again today and established a siege on three sides of insurgent-held Huesca in northeast Spain, it was learned here. Shock forces of the Valencia-Madrid government backed the Catalan militiamen.

The new activity of Catalan troops in northeast Spain follows two months' effort by Gen. Sebastian Pozas. He was ordered to Barcelona from Valencia to reorganize the forces of autonomous Catalonia, which is allied with the Madrid-Valencia government.

[Rebel reports gave no indication that the insurgent drive on the Teruel front had been stopped. Huesca, it was said, could hold out indefinitly.]

Ships of Three Nations Bombed.

ALGIERS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Airplane bomb attacks on English, Italian, and French steamships were reported today at sea 30 miles northwest of Algiers. At least three unidentified planes participated in the attacks.

The captain of the Italian freighter Mongioia was said to have been wounded in the lungs and a nonintervention observer, believed to be from the Netherlands, was wounded in the arm.

One of the planes bombing the Mongioia was a tri-motored monoplane with a yellow fuselage and gray wings and tail. The same ship took part in the attack on the British tanker British Corporal. The third ship reported attacked was the French steamer Djebel Amour, 2,908 ton vessel. The planes also swooped over the French steamer President Del Piaz, 4,929 tons.

BRITAIN ORDERS EXPULSION OF 3 NAZI NEWSMEN

Report Step Based on Espionage Charges.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—[Saturday.]—Three German newspapermen have been ordered expelled from Great Britain by Sir Samuel Hoare, British home secretary, it was disclosed this morning. They are: Herr von Crome, chief London correspondent for the Berlin Lokalanzeiger; Herr Wrede, his colleague, and Herr Langen, London representative of the newspaper service Graf Reichschach.

Complaints of espionage have been made against them, according to the News Chronicle, and the home office refused to renew their permits to remain in this country.

Inquiries Confirm Action.

Attempts have been made to settle the affair with a minimum of publicity, and it was only when direct inquiries were made in official quarters in London that the salient facts were confirmed.

"The home secretary has taken this action," a home office official announced briefly, "on grounds which he considers in the public interest."

Negotiations have taken place between Whitehall and Berlin, but the British government refused to budge from its expulsion decision.

Von Crome Widely Known.

The Lokalanzeiger is one of the leading Berlin dailies. Von Crome has lived in London as its correspondent for about three years and was widely known among the foreign press representatives here. His colleague, Wrede, has been stationed in London only four months.

The Graf Reichschach service which Herr Langen represented here for the last two months is a comparatively new agency, founded by the Nazi count whose name it bears. It was described as "one of the less responsible agencies," catering mainly to provincial newspapers and specializing in sensational stories from Spain.

HANDS OFF SPAIN GROUP ADJOURNS WITHOUT ACTING

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The twenty-seven nations nonintervention committee adjourned today amid tea and pleasantries for several weeks of vacation, apparently suspending efforts to isolate the Spanish civil war. A two hour session failed to dissolve the impasse over belligerent rights and withdrawal of foreign volunteers.

Members indicated a plan for placing observers in Spanish ports would be worked out by the secretary and the committee would reassemble later to discuss the two points that have blocked progress.

Ivan Maisky, soviet union representative, attempted to raise the question of withdrawal of volunteers—which he urged should be carried out before belligerent rights for Spanish insurgents are considered. But the earl of Plymouth, chairman, ruled him out of order.

BRITISH-JEWISH NEGOTIATION ON HOLY LAND URGED

American Delegates Split Over Proposal.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A majority of the American delegation to the world Zionist congress, favoring negotiations on the question of Palestine's partition with the British government, strove today to bring the minority around to their views.

A committee representing the majority called on Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the Zionist Organization of America and a declared opponent of the British plan to separate Palestine into a British mandated territory and Jewish and Arab states.

Predict Adoption of Measure.

It sought his agreement to the substance of a resolution drafted by the powerful Zionist labor bloc which would empower the executive committee of the congress to negotiate concerning the scope of the British proposal. There was no indication that Rabbi Wise had changed his attitude.

Some observers interpreted the resolution as an endorsement of the principle of partition. Most believed that, with the labor bloc's control of 45 per cent of the congress' votes, the measure would be adopted. Approval already had been given by some delegates opposed to the letter of the British plan.

The committee that visited Rabbi Wise included Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of a caucus last night at which the majority American decision was reached; Abraham Goldberg of New York, Rabbi Solomon Goldberg of Chicago, and Rabbi Barnett Brickner of Cleveland, all in favor of the resolution.

Propose Special Commission.

To win Rabbi Wise's approval, the committee suggested that the resolution be amended to provide for election by this congress of a special political commission which would negotiate in collaboration with the Zionist executive committee and examine any new proposals before a specially elected congress meets.

Lipsky said the labor bloc's resolution would in no way commit the Zionist world organization to partition. On the contrary, he said, it would postpone any decision until a popular referendum among Jews could give a mandate to a specially elected congress, and until the executive committee and political commission have had time to explore all phases of the situation.

REBEL ENVOY THANKS HITLER FOR HIS HELP IN SPANISH CIVIL WAR

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler and the new Spanish rebel ambassador exchanged warm compliments and confident predictions today.

Der Fuehrer suggested a "liveller" exchange of goods between Germany and its rebel friends and hoped for a rebel victory "for the sake of Europe" as well as Spain. The ambassador, Rear Admiral the Marquis Antonio de Magaz, said his country had "immense gratitude" for German support in the civil war.

"Without doubt many of the principles embodied in the third [Nazi] reich will find application in Spain," said the envoy, presenting his credentials at Hitler's mountain home. A new rebel-German trade treaty, signed last month, is a "happy portent that the ties which unite our two peoples will become ever stronger," he added.

BILL TO REFORM LOWER COURTS IN SENATE TODAY.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—The senate tomorrow will consider and probably pass the judiciary committee's procedural reform bill for the lower courts, which is all that is left of President Roosevelt's original proposal to reorganize the judiciary by packing the Supreme court with six and the lower courts with 44 additional judges.

The procedural reform bill, which is on the President's "must" program, was made the pending business today and it is not expected to cause a controversy tomorrow.

The pending bill authorizes direct appeals to the Supreme court and intervention by the department of justice in all cases in the District courts involving the constitutionality of federal statutes. It also would require suits to enjoin the operation of federal laws to be heard by a three-judge court, including one judge of a Circuit Court of Appeals.

Nipponese Push Drive in Northern Area.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 7 [Saturday].—The North China crisis, a month old today, appeared this morning to be headed in the direction of a real war, despite rumors of peace associated with the return to Nanking of Shigeru Kawagoe, Japanese ambassador. Kawagoe is reputed to be carrying Tokio's terms for a settlement.

The China Evening News, leading Chinese paper, forecast major fighting between Chinese and Japanese armies within a week. The fighting is expected to begin at Paotingfu, 80 miles south of Peiping, and at Tsangchow, 50 miles south of Tientsin. These towns, both in Hopei province, are likely to be the initial objectives of the Japanese troops now marching south from the Peiping-Tientsin area.

Battle at Great Wall.

A Japanese attack on the Northern Chinese lines near Nankow pass through the Great Wall south of Kalgan already is under way. The Japanese objective is the occupation of Chahar and Suiyuan provinces.

The dispatch of Japanese troops to the southern borders of Hopei province is expected to precipitate hostilities in Shantung province, where Gov. Han Fu-chu thus far has preserved "neutrality."

Lending credence to the belief that the undeclared war will soon spread throughout China, the Japanese yesterday began a mass evacuation of its nationals from the interior of central China. The evacuation centered at Hankow, several hundred miles inland from Shanghai on the Yangtze river, where Japanese marines were landed without warning yesterday and declared a state of emergency." Hundreds of Japanese civilians were loaded on steamers and started down the river to the coast.

American authorities at Hankow were reported to have advised all Americans in the district to leave. There are several hundred Americans in the area, most of them missionaries.

China Has Vast Man Power.

Unconfirmed Japanese reports said the Chinese government at Nanking is planning the early formation of a war cabinet. The national legislative yuan held a long secret session yesterday. It considered wartime legislation on military and financial affairs.

Of most consequence were the continuous, expanding conferences of high provincial militarists from all parts of the country. Many of them are in Nanking for the first time in many years. They have avoided the capital due to animosity toward Dictator Chiang Kai-shek. Their differences have now been forgiven in the face of a major danger from Japan.

Chiang Kai-shek is supposed to have a modern army of more than 300,000 men which has been trained for nearly ten years by German drill masters. In event of a genuine war, however, final dependence must be placed on the hundreds of thousands of poorly trained and equipped provincial troops. Due to their vast numbers and their long experience in domestic civil war they are considered likely to give a good account of themselves.

contention of their chief. Herr Muhs, secretary of state in the church ministry, was asked by a defense lawyer why the ministry had waited so long to take action. Dr. Dibelius was arrested only a few days ago. Muhs replied that he had no authorization to speak on the subject.

Dibelius Tells His Story.

Dr. Dibelius, who is 49 years of age, was calm and dignified on the stand. He explained that he had sent the letter protesting against Kerrl's statements to the minister himself with a note informing him that he was sending copies to Konstantin von Neurath, Nazi foreign minister; to Count Schwerin von Krosigk, minister of finance, and to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's chancellery.

He said he had expected at least one answer. When no answer arrived after a fortnight, copies of the letter were circulated publicly through the Council of Brethren. The pastor declared emphatically that if he had received a reply or a protest that his letter contained false charges, he would not have made it public.

"There is no sense in forgetting that we are in the throes of one of the greatest spiritual crises in German history," he said. "I have made it a point to fight chivalrously. Every Christian must, regardless of what happens, stand up for unrestricted teaching of the gospel. I am grieved to see the same lack of knowledge of the matter at hand in the speech of the prosecuting attorney as is found in many official quarters."

State Demands Prison.

The prosecuting attorney then made a fulminating speech in which he demanded that Dr. Dibelius be sent to prison for six months. He also denounced the Confessional pastors.

"They are turning their religious fight against the German Christians into a fight against the state," he cried. "If the assertions of Dibelius were true, the church minister would have to resign, which illustrates the seriousness of the situation. The punishment of Dibelius must be such that it will become known in the whole world, the same as his open letter."

When the court announced acquittal a group of Nazi officials of the church ministry who had been watching the procedure seemed stunned. Outside in the corridor friends rushed up to the Rev. Dr. Dibelius and his wife and two sons, who had attended the trial. The minister tried to escape an ovation, rushing to the pastor's small car which was parked in the street and in which he drove home with his family.

Nazi Labor Chief's Arm Broken in Auto Mishap

CAPTURE BANDIT AFTER ROBBERY OF CAFE IN LOOP

Screams of a cashier in a Harding restaurant at 21 South Wabash avenue yesterday started a chase that ended with the capture of a bandit, Peter Roberto, alias Joseph Madera, 18 years old, who said he once was a bodyguard for Father Divine, colored religious fanatic. Hundreds of persons witnessed the pursuit.

After eating a meal the bandit walked to the cashier's cage and ordered Miss Ann Seigal, 24 years old, 4355 West 21st street, to hand over the money. She surrendered $30, but screamed as he was leaving. Employés ran after him.

Roberto jumped into a cab he had hired on the south side and pressed a toy pistol against the head of the driver, F. Wolf, 5502 South Halsted street. Seeing Policeman Patrick McDonnell approaching, Wolf refused to drive. The bandit ran into a building at 5 North Wabash avenue, where he was trapped in a blind corridor.

CHINA IS BIGGEST BUYER OF ARMS IN U. S. DURING JULY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—China was the largest buyer of arms, ammunition, and implements of war in the United States during July.

State department statistics showed today that that nation spent $293,226 in this country for airplanes designed for aerial warfare. The remainder of its total expenditure of $309,870 went for rifles and carbines, revolvers and automatic pistols, ammunition, and nonmilitary airplane equipment.

Japan was one of the three largest purchasers, spending $203,578, of which $92,340 was for military airplanes and $97,415 for nonmilitary aircraft engines. Mexico spent $205,835.

Girl, 16, Aids in Robbery of Woman Bakery Clerk

A pretty girl, not more than 16 years old, helped a boy, not more than 18, commit a robbery last night. The victim was Mrs. Margaret Petkosek, 6321 North Artesian avenue, clerk in a bakery at 2305½ Devon avenue. The boy and girl, posing as customers, asked for a coffee cake, and after Mrs. Petkosek had wrapped it the boy drew a gun and forced her to give up $10. Then the two fled. SHELLS POUR ON MADRID'S FAMED CENTRAL SQUARE

Rebel Guns Resume After Few Days' Silence.

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Aug. 6.—Living in Madrid means nothing less than gambling one's life every hour of the day and night. After a few days of silence the guns of Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel forces today resumed bombardment of this beleaguered city, which has been under siege for nine months.

The insurgents still are at the gates of the city, where 2,500 persons have been killed and 4,800 wounded as the result of air bombing and shelling since the arrival of the insurgents outside Madrid last November.

[On Nov. 5 the rebels began the first artillery bombardment of Madrid. The next day they were four miles from the city.]

Shells Rain for Hour.

Five persons were killed this morning in the famous Puerto del Sol, Madrid's central square, while a dozen were injured, some seriously. I happened to be emerging from a subway at the time, but was prevented from doing so as shell after shell kept landing in the Puerto del Sol for nearly an hour, hitting buildings and tearing big holes in sidewalks.

Several more persons were killed when shells fell in nearby streets just off Carrera de San Jeronimo, Madrid's Michigan avenue, the Calle de Alcala, and the Gran Via. A few shells fell in the Plaza de Cibeles opposite the postoffice and the Bank of Spain. The throne room in the palace of the papal nuncio was damaged by a shell.

Check Rebels' Advance.

Reports from the Teruel front, between Madrid and Valencia in eastern Spain, showed the government now has been able to check the rebels' advance on the Cuenca road by occupying the heights commanding the insurgents' spearhead south of Toril, and throwing their best forces at the rebels' right flank from Frias de Albarracin, now totally occupied by the government following a bloody encounter which cost both sides many lives.

Government guns today heavily shelled the road from Teruel to Bezas, which is the rebels' right flank. Five insurgent bombers, escorted by three pursuit planes, dropped about thirty bombs on Cuenca today, killing twelve persons and wounding many. Until now Cuenca has been one of the quietest places in government territory since the war.

Catalan Troops Begin Drive.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Catalan troops, inactive for some time in the Spanish civil war, went into action again today and established a siege on three sides of insurgent-held Huesca in northeast Spain, it was learned here. Shock forces of the Valencia-Madrid government backed the Catalan militiamen.

The new activity of Catalan troops in northeast Spain follows two months' effort by Gen. Sebastian Pozas. He was ordered to Barcelona from Valencia to reorganize the forces of autonomous Catalonia, which is allied with the Madrid-Valencia government.

[Rebel reports gave no indication that the insurgent drive on the Teruel front had been stopped. Huesca, it was said, could hold out indefinitly.]

Ships of Three Nations Bombed.

ALGIERS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Airplane bomb attacks on English, Italian, and French steamships were reported today at sea 30 miles northwest of Algiers. At least three unidentified planes participated in the attacks.

The captain of the Italian freighter Mongioia was said to have been wounded in the lungs and a noninterventionist observer, believed to be from the Netherlands, was wounded in the arm.

One of the planes bombing the Mongioia was a tri-motored monoplane with a yellow fuselage and gray wings and tail. The same ship took part in the attack on the British tanker British Corporal. The third ship reported attacked was the French steamer Djebel Amour, 2,908 ton vessel. The planes also swooped over the French steamer President Del Piaz, 4,929 tons.

BRITAIN ORDERS EXPULSION OF 3 NAZI NEWSMEN

Report Step Based on Espionage Charges.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 7.—[Saturday.]—Three German newspapermen have been ordered expelled from Great Britain by Sir Samuel Hoare, British home secretary, it was disclosed this morning. They are: Herr von Crome, chief London correspondent for the Berlin Lokalanzeiger; Herr Wrede, his colleague, and Herr Langen, London representative of the newspaper service Graf Reichschach.

Complaints of espionage have been made against them, according to the News Chronicle, and the home office refused to renew their permits to remain in this country.

Inquiries Confirm Action.

Attempts have been made to settle the affair with a minimum of publicity, and it was only when direct inquiries were made in official quarters in London that the salient facts were confirmed.

"The home secretary has taken this action," a home office official announced briefly, "on grounds which he considers in the public interest."

Negotiations have taken place between Whitehall and Berlin, but the British government refused to budge from its expulsion decision.

Von Crome Widely Known.

The Lokalanzeiger is one of the leading Berlin dailies. Von Crome has lived in London as its correspondent for about three years and was widely known among the foreign press representatives here. His colleague, Wrede, has been stationed in London only four months.

The Graf Reichschach service which Herr Langen represented here for the last two months is a comparatively new agency, founded by the Nazi count whose name it bears. It was described as "one of the less responsible agencies," catering mainly to provincial newspapers and specializing in sensational stories from Spain.

HANDS OFF SPAIN GROUP ADJOURNS WITHOUT ACTING

LONDON, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The twenty-seven nations nonintervention committee adjourned today amid tea and pleasantries for several weeks of vacation, apparently suspending efforts to isolate the Spanish civil war. A two hour session failed to dissolve the impasse over belligerent rights and withdrawal of foreign volunteers.

Members indicated a plan for placing observers in Spanish ports would be worked out by the secretary and the committee would reassemble later to discuss the two points that have blocked progress.

Ivan Maisky, soviet union representative, attempted to raise the question of withdrawal of volunteers—which he urged should be carried out before belligerent rights for Spanish insurgents are considered. But the earl of Plymouth, chairman, ruled him out of order.

BRITISH-JEWISH NEGOTIATION ON HOLY LAND URGED

American Delegates Split Over Proposal.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 6.—(AP)—A majority of the American delegation to the world Zionist congress, favoring negotiations on the question of Palestine's partition with the British government, strove today to bring the minority around to their views.

A committee representing the majority called on Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the Zionist Organization of America and a declared opponent of the British plan to separate Palestine into a British mandated territory and Jewish and Arab states.

Predict Adoption of Measure.

It sought his agreement to the substance of a resolution drafted by the powerful Zionist labor bloc which would empower the executive committee of the congress to negotiate concerning the scope of the British proposal. There was no indication that Rabbi Wise had changed his attitude.

Some observers interpreted the resolution as an endorsement of the principle of partition. Most believed that, with the labor bloc's control of 45 per cent of the congress' votes, the measure would be adopted. Approval already had been given by some delegates opposed to the letter of the British plan.

The committee that visited Rabbi Wise included Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of a caucus last night at which the majority American decision was reached; Abraham Goldberg of New York, Rabbi Solomon Goldberg of Chicago, and Rabbi Barnett Brickner of Cleveland, all in favor of the resolution.

Propose Special Commission.

To win Rabbi Wise's approval, the committee suggested that the resolution be amended to provide for election by this congress of a special political commission which would negotiate in collaboration with the Zionist executive committee and examine any new proposals before a specially elected congress meets.

Lipsky said the labor bloc's resolution would in no way commit the Zionist world organization to partition. On the contrary, he said, it would postpone any decision until a popular referendum among Jews could give a mandate to a specially elected congress, and until the executive committee and political commission have had time to explore all phases of the situation.

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler and the new Spanish rebel ambassador exchanged warm compliments and confident predictions today.

Der Fuehrer suggested a "livelier" exchange of goods between Germany and its rebel friends and hoped for a rebel victory "for the sake of Europe" as well as Spain. The ambassador, Rear Admiral the Marquis Antonio de Magaz, said his country had "immense gratitude" for German support in the civil war.

A new rebel-German trade treaty, signed last month, is a "happy portent that the ties which unite our two peoples will become ever stronger," he added.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

NEW WAY TO AMERICA

By CALEB

THIS has been an agreeable, enjoyable summer in this "greatest of all summer resort cities." Without chafing or chaffering I have gone about my affairs. Other people have departed on vacations. I have watched them go, and turned back to the routines of Chicago with no reluctance or resentment. But today, I am restless and uneasy.

It is all due to a slight transposition in a usual set of circumstances. All people are exposed now and again to travel folders. I have always been able to view them calmly. Even large posters of the most alluring spots in foreign lands have hardly more than quickened my pulse. A luggage department has always been a little seductively suggestive to me, but I simply quicken my pace passing through one—and turn my head to neither right nor left.

Last evening, however, I was reading a copy of T'IEN HSIA MONTHLY, a splendid magazine published in Shanghai. I have read other copies of it. They have never harmed me or caused me ill effects. But this copy—inside the back cover—carried a steamship line advertisement. It didn't say, "Sailing from New York," or "from Chicago," or "from Montreal," or anything of the kind. I never skip more than a beat or two at such interest fraught proposals.

But this magazine said, "The New Way to America—to Europe and New York via Suez"! And "The Sunshine Route to New York, via Honolulu, San Francisco, Panama, and Havana"!

Ever since I read those lines, I have been racked by a peripatetic longing. The pleasantest part of a long and adventurous trip should be that sub-climactic part when the return journey is about to begin—when one sniffs the strange odors of a distant land, looks up at the sun or the stars, and thinks of waters lapping on home shores, under the same sky, under the same moon.

Autumn is just ahead. You'll never be younger. Why don't you go places? Why don't we all go places? The world will wag as well. The great unending rhythm of Chicago will continue—and you'll scarcely be missed. "The New Way to America!" If a trip going would be great—the trip back would be greater. I wish they hadn't advertised going away, in a way that means coming home. It just pulls me toward our Travel Bureau—that's all.

Wild Huzzas Greet Magic of Rubinoff Violin.

from his dark brow and tearing off his white gabardine jacket. "but I get nervous everywhere I go. I always get nervous. Maybe it's because I can't play cold—I have to put in my heart."

The nervousness, however, soon wore off, and as he finished his first number he flung his arms wide, violin in one, bow in the other, and embraced the crowd. From that time on he never withdrew. Once he became conversational by means of his violin—letting it, too, shout, or cry, or laugh. Always at the end came a wide boyish smile.

In the front row, watching anxiously, were an aged couple who seemed to be trying very hard to keep a shininess out of their eyes and a happy smile on their lips at one and the same time.

Look Straight at Their Boy.

They were Libby and Reuben Rubinoff, parents of the violinist, and this was the first of their son's concerts they have attended. Quiet, unobtrusive and not quite at ease up there in the front row, they looked neither to right nor left, but straight ahead and up, at Rubinoff.

But so did every one.

"Gee," complained a short young girl, far back in the crowd, as she adjusted and readjusted her mirror-periscope, "but this is worse than watching an airplane come down."

"Stop, then," suggested her companion.

"Naw, I can't," came the reply. "There's sumpin' about that guy. I think he's got the artist in him."

Great Sigh Goes Up.

And when it was all over, a great sigh went up from the audience, as, humming bits of everything from the biting love bug to Kipling's barrack room ballads, they turned regretfully away, leaving a park littered with their newspaper seats, but taking a mind stored with melody with them.

The concert was one of a series presented jointly by the park district and the Chicago Federation of Musicians, of which James C. Petrillo is president.

FLASH! IT'S RUBINOFF!

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A little after 9 o'clock last night a swarthy, heavy set, white suited man carried his fiddle out onto the stage of the Grant park band shell. A flash of colored light and an ear splitting fanfare from the orchestra announced to an audience which knew all about it anyway that this man and this fiddle were nothing less than David Rubinoff and his violin.

An ovation compounded of applause, cheers, oh's and ah's had barely time to get started when a gesture from the violinist cut it short. He was going to work right away.

Plays Own Composition.

Rubinoff leaned on the strings of his famous Stradivarius and coaxed from it a "Danse Russe" which had sprung, it was announced, from his own imagination. More applause. Then a shout of ecstasy as the master of ceremonies promised "Is It True What They Say About Dixie?" for the violinist's next tune.

And so on and on, with the colored lights flickering and the Chicago Philharmonic orchestra under Elias Brisken putting its whole soul into the job of following the soloist's soaring muse. A little later Rubinoff exchanged his violin for a baton and took the band through some special arrangement calculated to end all special arrangements. He exploited every device in the radio, movie and theater répertoire and added a baker's dozen from his own private collection.

How He Does It.

How does Rubinoff manage to fill tens of thousands of people with almost unbearable bliss? I think the answer is that the redoubtable Dave has learned how to assault the emotions of the generality of mankind in a manner completely strange to the average successful violinist.

He demonstrates in piece after piece the primitive power of pure rhythm. He nurses a phrase until his listeners become jittery with suspense and fairly clogged with pentup emotion. A split second pause, a quick picking up of the tempo, and men can breathe again! Rubinoff carries piquancy to the point where the invention of a new word for the quality becomes absolutely imperative. The man can tantalize his hearers mercilessly, withholding the expected note until a silent, psychical plea for it rises from every corner of the field.

That E String Tone.

And what a tone he pulls from the E string—more a lonesome cry than a conventional musical tone! The lower strings are extremely rich and resonant. That was a genuinely pure and beautiful tone in the "Danse Russe," especially during the double stopping.

His conducting displays the same general characteristics. Here, of course, there is still greater opportunity for startling tonal effects. Greater opportunity, also, for the gestures and changes of mien [pleading to angry to benign to ecstatic] which exercise such a remarkable effect on a sensitive audience.

ONE WAY TRAFIC AIDS HANDLING OF GREAT CROWD

Despite the record breaking crowd to hear David Rubinoff at the Grant park concert last night, park district police encountered little trafic difficulties. Otto K. Jelinek, park district trafic engineer, estimated that 20,000 automobiles were parked along the drives and in the parking lots between Roosevelt road and Monroe street.

Trafic moved swiftly, Jelinek explained, principally because of the one way drive system, made possible by the opening of the double drive from the Field museum to Monroe street.

Half the drive was used for parking area while the other was kept open for north bound cars. South bound trafic utilized the Inner drive. Jelinek said 110 park policemen augmented by 150 park guards were on duty to regulate the heavy trafic.

MAVILLA RAINEY OF INDIANAPOLIS CARNIVAL QUEEN

Miss Rainey a brown eyed brunette, 20 years old, with raven hair, was Miss Indianapolis and was chosen from among 18 entrants in the beauty contest.

She is a junior at Butler university and engaged to be married to William Richter, a civil engineer employed by the state at Indianapolis. Miss Rainey told interviewers that she wanted three things, to be married, to model, and to teach school. She is preparing herself for teaching by taking an educational course at Butler.

AN ENGLISHMAN IS SURPRISED BY PACE OF U. S. LIFE

Even though it was hot yesterday, Humphrey Clarke, of Gloucestershire, England, hated to leave Chicago without his coat. The coat contained his wallet which held $120 in cash, a passport and other valuable papers, he told the Warren avenue police. With Walter Karri-Davies, of London, England, Clarke is motoring across the continent. His coat dropped from their automobile at Jackson boulevard and Ogden avenue. Before he could retrieve it, a truck driver had leaped from his own vehicle, picked up the coat and sped away.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Sixty-eight young men and women of the north side sang last night in the Crystal ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel, competing for first place in the eighth annual Chicagoland Music Festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. They sang before a generous audience of their friends and neighbors, who smiled and murmured when their favorites appeared.

But the three who won—a slight soprano with red-gold curls, a rollicking, poised mezzo-soprano, and a shy young man—had sung as casually and as intimately as though there were no contest and no audience.

Winner Charms Crowd.

Miss Louise Hoe, 211 East Delaware place, 22 years old, who sang her way through college, won first place among the thirty-six sopranos with her spirited presentation of Dell'Acqua's "Villanelle." A slim figure in blue, her golden hair shining, she sang in a happy, detached manner that hushed the audience, and moved one rapt admirer to exclaim: "That girl—she's headed for opera."

But Miss Hoe has not had time to dream of opera. First, she says, she needs study.

"But it seems grand to be first here tonight. . . . I was afraid, but I am very happy."

A Winner's Personality.

In the mezzo-soprano section, with twenty-one fine singers competing, Miss Harriet Childs Atwood, 205 Oak street, Winnetka, took the honors. Miss Atwood is a tall, confident woman of 30, and she sang Horn's "I've Been Roaming" with a gayety that won her not only first place in her group, but the hearts of her listeners. Personality, they whispered, was hers. And charm and grace.

And all of it, Miss Atwood confided, was due to her accompanist, who has taught her, she said, to work and to think.

Male Victor Is Basso.

The winner in the bass section was a tall young man, John Backlund, 3804 North Marshfield avenue, who is 26 years old, a mechanical engineer, and an extra singer in the Chicago City Opera chorus. Although he trembled when the judge announced him winner over the twelve male entrants, there was no trace of nervousness in his rich rendition of Verdi's "Il Lacerato Spirito."

Second and third place winners in the soprano group were Miss Carolina Haas, 915 West Belle Plaine avenue, and Miss Elizabeth Huck, 2146 Larrabee street. In the mezzo-soprano group, Miss Ruth McCormick, 827 Lakeside place, and Miss Mildred Griffith, 2119 Sherman avenue, Evanston, won second and third places. Albin Duren, 1319 Carmen avenue, and Robert C. Ladof, 2229 Eastwood avenue, placed second and third in the male group.

Will Meet Other Finalists.

As regional winners, last night's victors will compete with winners from the west and south sides of the city in the Chicago-Cook county finals on Aug. 19 in the Drake hotel. From this grouping, two singers, one man and one woman, will be picked to compete against out of town finalist the morning of Aug. 21 to decide what man and woman will sing at Soldiers' field that night.

A similar preliminary contest for west side entrants in tenor, contralto, baritone ranges will be held on Aug. 10 in the Drake hotel. Judges last night were Maurice Rosenfeld, Samuel Chuba, and Frank Bennett. Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler served as chairman of the vocal contest.

U. of I. Students Win.

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—Two University of Illinois students were announced today as winners of the Champaign Music festival which was sponsored by the chamber of commerce. They will compete in the finals of the Chicagoland Music festival on Aug. 21. They were Miss Marion Corell, 454 Church street, West Chicago, and Edwin C. Platte, 8008 South Loomis street, Chicago. In the women's competition Mary B. Lehmann of Urbana was second and Miss Luna S. Brown of Beason, third. James Douglass of Urbana was second in the men's competition.

FLAG THROWER

Franz Hug, Swiss flag thrower, who will be featured at the Chicagoland Music festival on Saturday night, Aug. 21.

Spectators at the eighth Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field Saturday night, Aug. 21, will be given a new thrill this summer. It will be the appearance of Franz Hug, Swiss flag thrower, who will be seen in the center of the huge arena tossing the American and Swiss flags 50 feet in the air and catching them as they float to the ground. About him will be fifty champion baton twirlers, entered in the festival drum majors' contest, who simultaneously will twirl their batons in a thousand movements.

Franz appeared at the opening of the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin. In America he has been the main attraction at Swiss homecomings. Recently he appeared in Monroe, Wis., and Canton, O. By vocation a postman in his native city of Lucerne, his avocation has carried him to gatherings in London, Antwerp, Paris, Barcelona, Marseilles, and Milan.

The flag must remain fluttering through every movement without folding over, and the Swiss white cross must be visible for the duration of every movement. The flag is swung vortically in circles and turned horizontally first with one hand and then with two. It passes between the legs, over the back, encircles the body of the thrower, then flies high into the air and turns like a wheel. It must never touch the ground.

1 HURT, OTHERS FLEE AS HEAVY CORNICE FALLS

The quick action of Policeman John Loftis, who shouted a warning to a group of pedestrians standing beside a three story building at 1427 Madison street probably saved several persons from injury yesterday when a 45 foot chunk of concrete cornice fell from the structure.

One man, Christ Guerrieri, 31 years old, 3021 Polk street, was slow in moving away and fragments of the concrete struck him, breaking his leg and inflicting internal injuries.

The policeman, standing across the street from the building, heard the masonry crack a moment before the stone let loose. Realizing the danger of those near by he ran into the street shouting to those beneath the eaves to scurry. The heavy stone, weighing a ton or more, struck the sidewalk an instant after they fled.

ERSKINE JR. GOES TO JAIL ON CHECK FRAUD CHARGES

Albert R. Erskine Jr., 26 years old, adopted son of the former head of the Studebaker corporation, was arraigned before Municipal Judge J. M. Braude yesterday on a charge of operating a confidence game and was ordered held to the Felony court in $1,000 bond. Unable to make bond, he was taken to the county jail pending his hearing Aug. 16.

Erskine waived extradition proceedings after his arrest in Beverly Hills, Cal., on July 21. A warant obtained by Paul Schacht, credit manager of the Drake hotel, alleges that Erskine gave him two worthless checks totaling $200.

Civil War Torn Spain Provides Reading Ration

Authors Paint Pictures of Horror and Heroism.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

SPAIN fills the pages of this week's book ration . . . a civil war torn land sung in records of horror and of heroism.

Little Spanish Town's Tragic Fate Depicted.

"The Life and Death of a Spanish Town," by Elliot Paul. [Random, $2.50.] Published Monday. Joint choice of the Book of the Month club for August.

Elliot Paul, widely known American expatriate and joint founder of the famous magazine, Transition, in Paris, lived for five years in the peaceful little town of Santa Eulalia on an island off the Spanish coast. In July, 1936, he returned there hoping to find for himself the state of happiness which its inhabitants seemed to breathe in with its gentle warm air and to exude as naturally as the rosemary twigs gave off their sweet aroma—or [since this is a truthful tale] as naturally as the inside of the bus, on days when the windows had to be closed, "smelled like a deserted cheese factory that had just been used for shoeing camels."

Elliot Paul.

In their island paradise everybody worked or loafed as he liked, but nobody starved or went without a drink and nobody ever hurried. There was a long, leisurely, comfortable rhythm counted in metronomic lifetimes, each generation repeating itself in song and gayety.

Every man and woman and child and dog and donkey on the island knew every other creature, and Mr. Paul after five years was one of the great family. Santa Eulalia had a good life.

And then came July, 1936, and to quiet Santa Eulalia, which had enjoyed the peace of death, came a new life which was actual death. The long rhythm was broken. Each day was a unit in itself, to be lived for that day alone. Hatred stamped out friendship. Men were taken out and shot for an ignorance of their political beliefs—poor peasants who had no belief except that it was good to till the earth.

Mr. Paul is frankly on the side of the loyalists, but his book is no political treatise. It is exactly what its title declares—the detailed story of the life and death of a little Spanish town written by some one who loved it in life and mourns it in death.

Siege of the Alcazar Dramatically Related.

"The Siege of the Alcazar," by Maj. Geoffrey McNeill-Moss. [Knopf, $3.50.] To be published Monday. August choice of the Catholic Book club.

One of the most dramatic of all the events of this most bloody of modern wars was the long siege of the Alcazar, battered by shellfire, under aerial bombings, over mines, with the world believing that it must fall, for even if a fortress really were impregnable human kind can suffer just so much.

Those two months of boys' courage, upheld by womankind, and even by children, tell an epic tale which passes beyond politics, even beyond war, and becomes almost abstract tenacity. The holding of the Alcazar will go down in history.

Just what happened day by day in those long two months is told by Maj. Geoffrey McNeill-Moss, his narrative pieced together from a minute observation of the remains of the wrecked Alcazar, interviews with every survivor, detailed maps made, and diaries kept by the besieged as the days became grueling weeks.

The author presents a tale of heroism rarely topped in history. He is in sympathy with the forces within the walls as they died or—what was so much harder—lived, as heroes.

An Englishman Writes His War Experiences.

"Single to Spain," by Keith Scott Watson. [Dutton, $2.] Published last Monday.

Keith Scott Watson did his fighting in Madrid, not Toledo. He went to Spain to join the loyalists. He had a hard time getting into Spain at all, and he barely missed being shot out of it into eternity. But between his entrance and his exit he fought with the internationalist militia and was a newspaper correspondent, and of the two jobs the latter seems to have been the more hazardous.

With the kind of humorous casual acceptance of difficulties that has made English books of travel so popular Mr. Watson tells of his experiences in the Spanish war . . . a laugh for every sigh, bonhommie offsetting groans. He might be Peter Fleming exploring a Brazilian wilderness instead of another Oxford man shouldering arms in the international column.

Book Views in Brief

Press Agent Reveals Some Trade Secrets.

"Press Agentry," by Charles Washburn. [National Library Press, $2.]

Here is a chance to learn from a former reporter of THE TRIBUNE just why you spent $8.80 to see a show that was the worst yet. Charles Washburn is one of the big time theatrical press agents, and he tells you how he gets you to spend your money; how you can get other people to spend theirs. One of his accomplishments was keeping "Abie's Irish Rose" on Broadway six years and, he says, it's easy. As an example:

"Suppose you were representing a play called 'Boy Meets Girl.' For free advertising you might telephone the agency handling Lifebuoy soap, suggesting that Lifebuoy Meets Girl. . . . The soap spends money and your employer hails you as a master mind."

This work is really intended as a press agent's handbook, but it is refreshing and amusing as straight reading. C. L.

Autobiography Reviews Kaleidoscopic Career.

"Blood on the Moon," by Linton Wells. [Houghton Mifflin, $3.]

Linton Wells has had a lively life and tells about it with the forthright vigor of a seasoned foreign correspondent in his humorous and fast moving autobiography, "Blood on the Moon."

He has circumnavigated the globe nine times, visited all except five countries of both hemispheres, shattered various travel records on land, over salt water and in the sky, had a go at Hollywood from the writing end, been through many wars, and worked for a score of newspapers and news services.

His experiences with the then prince of Wales, his predictions of the imminence of another world war, and his contacts with world figures are illuminating and entertaining. Altogether, the kaleidoscopic career of Mr. Wells makes one of the most readable books of its kind; there's hardly a quiet paragraph in it. A. C.

Thomas Mann's Study of Freud Goethe, Wagner

Author's Lectures Bound in a Small Volume.

"Freud, Goethe, Wagner," by Thomas Mann. [Knopf, $2.] Published Monday.

THREE lectures which Thomas Mann, one of the greatest of living writers, delivered at the New School for Social Research in New York this spring, celebrating the fourth anniversary of the University in Exile, have been bound in a small volume.

The occasion of their delivery might lead the reader to expect some statement in them of the author's disapproval of Nazi Germany. Thomas Mann is not, like many of the great modern literary exiles, a Jew. He is, if I am not mistaken, a self-exile, by his life a protestant against Nazi dictatorship. The reader will look in vain for any direct attack on the Nazis, or, except by implication, any political beliefs at all, for these lectures were written as tributes to great creative thinkers.

Herr Mann analyzes carefully just what Freud gave the world—and incidentally finds something of that keen psychology in the work of Wagner. He ends his tribute to Freud with the declaration: "The free folk are the people of a future freed from fear and hate, ripe for peace."

"Goethe's Career as a Man of Letters" is exactly what Herr Mann discusses in his lecture on Goethe—and brings that career closer to "moderns who are but heat conductors between that greatness and our own time."

The Goethe lecture was first delivered in Weimar in 1932. The one on Wagner, the longest in the book, written for the fiftieth anniversary of Wagner's death, was delivered in 1933 at the University of Munich and has been printed in English translation in "Past Masters and Other Papers." The lecture on Freud was first delivered in honor of the eightieth birthday of Freud in Vienna in 1936.

BABY BORN AFTER MOTHER'S DEATH FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Temperature Is Reduced; Receives First Food.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—A tiny new born baby girl fought for her life against 100 to 1 odds today after being delivered from her dead mother in a stirring drama of modern surgery.

One minute after the death of Mrs. Mary Boccassini, 27 years old, who was incurably afflicted with tubercular meningitis, her 3½ pound infant was born through a Caesarean operation.

At 7:30 p. m. the baby's temperature dropped to 100.8 degrees, remaining at that point for the next three hours. At 4 o'clock hospital officials began feeding the baby two teaspoons of mother's milk at two hour intervals.

With her abnormal temperature dropping steadily as she lay in an oxygen tent, the baby was given a "pretty good chance" of living if she survived until tomorrow.

Sees Chances Improving.

"Every minute she lives increases her chances of surviving," said Dr. John Corbit, resident obstetrician and assistant chief surgeon of the Philadelphia General hospital, who performed the operation.

He said efforts were being made to reduce the baby's temperature to 99 or 100 degrees and hold it there.

The moment the infant was delivered she was placed in an incubator and oxygen administered.

She was fed one gram of sugar and water with an eye dropper.

The tiny baby's father, Dominick Boccassini, remained at home today, grief stricken over the loss of his wife. He had protested against the operation, preferring to "let the baby go with its mother if she must die."

Father Finally Agrees.

But he finally agreed to the doctor's plan after Common Pleas Judge Harry E. Kalodner had directed them to "save the child."

"I'm glad they saved the little bambina's life," Boccassini said today. "I'll do what I can for her, although that isn't much. I have employment only two or three days a week. One of my two other children, born by my first wife, is in an orphange. But I'll try to find a place for the new one."

QUIZ RAIL HEAD ON DEMOCRATIC BOOK PURCHASES

Senators Hear of Hunt for Salesman.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] today suggested that the Democratic national committee be asked whether the N. M. Lichtblau who sold $15,000 worth of the famous convention books, autographed by President Roosevelt, to a railway financier, was also known as "Nat" Lichtblau, a high pressure salesman who swindled a woman out of $12,000 worth of securities.

For the third successive day, Senator Wheeler, whose interstate commerce committee is investigating railway financing, interrupted his examination of Robert R. Young who recently purchased control of the 23,000 mile Van Sweringen system, to inquire about Young's purchase of $15,000 worth of the Democratic campaign books at $250 a copy.

Wheeler Questions Young.

Wheeler asked Young whether he assumed, in making his purchase, that the contribution "would have any effect on this committee."

"It is ridiculous to suggest such a thing," Young replied.

Young had told the committee he was solicited by two representatives of the Democratic national committee a few days before he acquired control of the vast railway system. He said the agents sought to make him purchase the books on behalf of the corporations in the system, but that he refused, using only personal funds.

Letter Read Into Record.

Wheeler then read into the record a letter from Watson Washburn, New York attorney, who said he had noticed that Young had identified one of the salesmen as N. M. Lichtblau.

"On behalf of an aged and indigent client, Mrs. Eva J. Hurst," Washburn wrote, "we have been searching unsuccessfully for two years to find one Nat Lichtblau, who, it appears, was one of a gang of high pressure salesmen who secured by misrepresentation our client's last $12,000 of securities."

"I would suggest," said Senator Wheeler, "that Mr. Washburn contact the Democratic national committee."

5 Detectives Reduced in Rank.

New York, Aug. 6.—[Special.]—A city-wide investigation of police "cooperation" with ambulance chasing lawyers was ordered by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine today. Five detectives specifically accused were reduced in rank and threatened with more drastic action when more evidence is available.

Ambulance chasers, the commissioner said, could never operate without the aid of police at least up to the rank of lieutenant.

Officers Accept Gifts.

The five detectives accused of accepting gifts or loans from Scott Anders, Jamaica attorney, were reduced to patrolmen. Thirteen others named in an Appellate division inquiry into charges of unprofessional conduct against Sanders will be broken, Valentine said.

"Later on," the commissioner said, "when the legal evidence is gathered, departmental charges will be preferred against them and if they are proven guilty drastic disciplinary action will follow."

Asked if the investigation would be confined to Queens police, Commissioner Valentine said, "No, right now it's all in Queens county, but it may lead to Brooklyn and other boroughs.

Must Be Collusion.

"You know, I've been a policeman, sergeant, and lieutenant, and I know that an ambulance chaser can't get to first base without the help of the lieutenant behind the desk, a telephone clerk or the cop making a report.

"This investigation will be far-reaching and thorough and every one connected with it in any manner will find himself in the trial room."

PRESIDENT MAY DODGE SENATORS' HARMONY FETE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt left Washington tonight to spend the week-end at his family home at Hyde Park, N. Y. He will return to the White House Monday or Tuesday morning. Aids felt, however, he might lengthen the stay to avoid the "harmony" dinner of Democratic senators Tuesday evening at a local hotel. According to invitations the President is to drop in and look around during the evening.

The President declined to discuss the possibility of a special session to consider farm legislation, saying that question is up to congress. He said he had not yet selected a successor to Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter, who retired from the Supreme court in June.

SENATE REFUSES ISLANDS PROFITS ON GOLD DEALS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—The senate passed and sent to the house today the Adams bill to repeal a $23,862,750 devaluation "profit" to the Philippine government. Senator A. B. Adams [D., Colo.] explained congress voted to pay in 1934 through a "misunderstanding" and rejected an appropriation of that amount the following year. Adams' repealer passed the senate last year, 56 to 11, but the house failed to act. Adams explained congress decided mistakenly the Philippine government was entitled to an increment on the $56,000,000 deposits in American banks when the gold content of the dollar was reduced.

Manitowoc, Wis., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—C. P. Shea, St. Nazianz, whose 12 year old son, Cornelius, was killed by an automobile driven by Philip Aubel on July 22, asked the court at Sheboygan today to place Aubol on probation after the death car driver had pleaded guilty to fourth degree manslaughter.

Upon the suggestion of Shea and Edward Konsavage, state probation officer, Judge Detling placed Aubol on two years' probation and ordered him to pay $446.20 to the Shea family and the court cost.

Lady Kingsford-Smith was presented to Mrs. Fred Noonan, widow of the navigator of Amelia Earhart's ill-fated world flight. The Kingsford-Smith memorial is situated on Earhart road at the airport.

CHASERS JAILED

Mrs. Frances Feeley, one of three sentenced to 30 days for accident claim conspiracy. They pleaded guilty.

Attorney Drake Berg and two other defendants who pleaded guilty on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Chicago Surface Lines by means of faked accident claims were sentenced to 30 days each in the county jail yesterday by Judge Peter Schwaba in the Criminal court. The others sentenced were Joseph Nieman, 50 years old, 2237 West 18th street, a coal dealer, and Mrs. Frances Feeley, 34, of 2243 West 71st street. Berg and Nieman testified for the state in the tiral of Attorneys Murphy O. Tate, Leo M. Tarpey, and George Welsh, and Dr. Andrew Rotche, a physician, who were freed of similar charges by a jury Wednesday night. The last remaining defendant in the state's extensive inquiry into faked accident claims is George L. West, self-styled ambulance chaser, who was the main witness for the prosecution.

COPELAND BACK IN NEW YORK TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

New York, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Tammany Hall broke out the first banner of the mayoralty campaign today as its anti-Roosevelt administration candidate, Senator Royal Copeland, arrived from Washington to plan his primary drive.

The sign, 50 feet wide and two stories high, appeared in front of the wigwam shortly after the senator emerged from a conference with Hall Leader Christopher Sullivan, commenting:

"Christy assured me of a united front in Tammany—we will start the campaign in earnest the middle of next week."

Just what united front Sullivan was referring to was not clear. A group of Tammany leaders was at the moment rallying with the anti-Tammany Democratic leaders of the four other New York boroughs around the standard of Candidate Jeremiah Mahoney.

INLAND TO CALL 1,001 WITNESSES IN STEEL HEARING

The national labor relations board yesterday granted the Inland Steel company the right to subpena 1,001 witnesses to the hearing on whether the company violated the Wagner labor act by declining to sign a contract with the C. I. O. Steel Workers' Organizing committee. From this action, it appeared that the hearing, now in its sixth week at the United States courthouse, will continue indefinitely. Secretary Benedict Wolf of the board notified Ernest S. Ballard, counsel for Inland, that his unusual request was approved. The board instructed the regional labor board office here to issue the suppenas 100 at a time.

Moreschi said Lestina confessed stealing 1,400 letters which netted him $1,700, in the last twenty-seven months. Moreschi said Lestina previously had served a prison term for forgery.

SENATE PASSES HOUSING BILL IN LIMITED FORM

New York Loses Out by Amendments.

sixty year periods and one-half of 1 per cent above the "going federal rate," which is now about 2½ per cent.

In addition to the loans, which are to be used for the construction of the housing projects, the bill authorizes the bureau to make so-called annual "contributions," or direct subsidies, aggregating not more than 21 million dollars a year to "assist in achieving and maintaining the low rent character" of the projects.

Government Loses Interest.

The bill provides that the subsidies shall not exceed the annual yield at the going federal rate of interest [at the time the contract is made] plus 1 per cent of the project involved. Thus the government loans the money to build the projects and then grants subsidies for the payment of the interest on the loans.

Even if the principal of the loans should be paid back—and Senator Byrd argued that it would not—the government would lose the interest, which would about to 1 billion 200 million dollars over a sixty year period.

"This program, which is intended to take care of only 175,000 families, is only a small part of the ultimate cost of the activity which the government is now undertaking," said Senator Byrd. "The mayor of New York [Fiorello La Guardia] has testified here that it will cost 15 billion dollars to eliminate the slums of New York alone."

TAKE PENSION FROM MOTHER OF $5,000 STATE AID

Gov. Horner announced in Springfield late yesterday that he had ordered the name of Mrs. Lucinda Thompson of Marion, Ill., mother of one of the members of his industrial commission, removed from the roll of old age pension beneficiaries.

This action was taken after it was revealed earlier in the day that Mrs. Thompson, whose son, Anderson M. Thompson, is on the state pay roll at a salary of $5,000 annually, has been drawing $8 monthly as a pensioner for the last thirteen months. Gov. Horner said no justification existed for putting her name on the roll, but pointed out that she had been certified by the Williamson county board.

Attention was drawn to the case in a political circular distributed in Marion which declared that several members of the Thompson family were on the state pay roll.

SERVES 50 YEARS WITH FIELD'S; NOT READY TO RETIRE

Just because Nicholas Hill has seen fifty years of service with Marshall Field & Co. is no sign that he is retiring, he let it be known yesterday when Fred D. Corley, president of the firm, presented him with a check for $500. The check and fifty American Beauty roses were presented at the executive offices in the Merchandise Mart.

Mr. Hill, who lives at 4148 North Troy avenue, started work in June, 1887, as a cash boy in the retail store. He became a page boy, a salesman, and then an associate buyer in the firm's wholesale house. When that branch of the business was liquidated a few years ago he was kept on as a watchman.

PRISON TERM FOR ANOTHER ON RIOT CHARGE

Covington, Va., Aug. 6.—(AP)—A Highland county jury in Alleghany county Circuit court today found Charlie Mundy guilty of a charge of assault and battery while a member of a mob, and fixed his punishment at two years in the penitentiary.

Mundy was the third sentenced to prison of sixteen union men indicted on identical charges growing out of a clash on July 7 between union and nonunion men at the Industrial Rayon corporation plant, in which six were injured.

Glenn Perkins and Ray Beatty were convicted and given terms of four and three years, respectively.

ADMIT CAR THEFTS AND HOLDUP.

Loring Deans, 24 years old, of the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue, and Joseph Chernicky, 25, 652 South State street, yesterday confessed stealing two autos and robbing a liquor store last Wednesday.

ASKS FOR ELECTION IN CHRYSLER PLANTS; PARLEY DEADLOCKED

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—Richard T. Frankensteen, organizational director of the United Automobile Workers, said today that he had informally requested the national labor relations board to conduct an election in all automobile plants of the Chrysler corporation.

He said a formal petition seeking an election would not be filed until "we see whether there is time for an election before the summer shutdown." He explained that if Chrysler plants close soon for retooling, in preparation for new models, the election might be deferred until they reopen.

Meantime, a conference designed to settle the dispute which has kept the Plymouth plant closed since Wednesday and made 21,000 men idle was adjourned at noon until tomorrow with the deadlock unbroken.

TWO MORE SUE TO TIE UP SCULLY SIRUP FORTUNE

Creditors Take Ex-Wife's Cue; Seek $11,000.

With final distribution of his father's $3,500,000 estate due within two days, when he is to receive a one-seventh share, the troubles of Daniel B. Scully Jr. continued yesterday to mount. Two creditors followed the example of his former wife by suing to tie up his inheritance to pay claims of more than $11,000.

Scully's father, founder of the D. B. Scully Sirup company, died Aug. 8, 1922, leaving his estate in trust for his widow and seven children.

The latest claims were filed yesterday in the Superior court by the North Branch Welding company, 1500 Kingsbury avenue, and Mrs. Anna Mueller, 5529½ Kenmore avenue. The company contends Scully has owed them $4,965 since April 15, 1932, and Mrs. Mueller asks a judgment for back rent amounting to $6,291 since July 12, 1934.

Scully was ordered Thursday by Judge Joseph B. David to reply within twenty days to a petition of his former wife, Mrs. Virginia Leon Scully Thorsen, 387 Moraine road, Highland Park, asking that he be cited for contempt of court for nonpayment of money due for the support of their two children.

Scully was the chief claimant among fifteen nephews and nieces who recently sought unsuccessfully to invalidate the will of their elderly aunt, Mrs. Mary Scully Fagan Wilhelm, who left her $500,000 estate to her husband, August Wilhelm.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Wise Old Duck

August 6, 1937.

THE boys on the Tribune farm near Wheaton are trying to think of a good name for the educated Muscovy duck in the barnyard. This old bird deserves an "honorable mention" of some sort because of her intelligence. Early in the spring she proved her originality by making her nest in the basement window ledge of one of the farm houses—away from the confusion of the barnyard. This week she passed another intelligence test.

Her first window ledge experience ended successfully when she brought out a healthy family of ducklings, so she returned there when she was making preparations for her second brood. She stayed comfortably on the nest for about two weeks, then the weather became too hot and dry to suit her. Her nest was on the west side of the farmhouse, so she was getting the full force of the afternoon sun, and the board foundation of her nest must have increased the heat. So she moved.

Settles in New Nest.

She took the nesting straw to the new location. Then when it was all set she rolled the eggs over to the new nest and settled down for the remaining days of her incubation period. Now the flockmaster has placed an old window shutter over her to give her a little more protection, and she seems perfectly contented with the new site.

The guineas in the barnyard have formed a sort of coöperative organization to mourn the loss of all their barnyard pals.

They are about the only ones left in the yard, now that most of the Muscovies have been moved to Half Moon pond, the turkeys are in the fields and woods searching for insects every day, and the chickens are in a separate yard.

The guineas have to stick together for companionship now that the barnyard has been depopulated. The other morning we saw seven adult guineas and about 45 chicks parading around the yard all in one bunch. As soon as the nights become a little colder we'll see the barnyard population rise again, but until then the guineas will have everything to themselves.

Sumacade.

The bright red berries of the smooth sumac may be seen in many corners of the farm these August days. This is the friendly [nonpoisonous] and useful variety which is so attractive throughout the year. Now that we've had our first taste of sumacade we no longer wonder why the Indians used to pick the red berries every summer and make this tonic drink. The tangy flavor of the drink easily justifies the Indians' faith in it as a tonic. It is tasty, refreshing, and different from any other drink we've ever had. Since the berries are quite acid, the sumacade makes you think of lemonade.

It was made by stripping the berries from the cluster into a small bowl of water. After the bowl is fairly well filled with berries, the fruit is rubbed [not crushed] between the fingers. The acid which flavors the drink is on the outside of the berry, and is transmitted to the water by light rubbing. The flavored water is then strained into a larger bowl or pitcher through a double thickness of cheesecloth. After being diluted, sweetened to taste, and iced, it is ready to drink.

RAIL STRIKE NO LONGER A BUGABOO.

Railway labor representatives, the railways, and the federal railway labor board have gone through the routine of awarding increased wages to the employés of fourteen nonoperating brotherhoods of railway workers. The next step will be to follow the same procedure with the five brotherhoods who ride the trains. The process is in ritual form. First the demand appears, followed by official notice to the railways. A strike vote is taken to strengthen the hands of the railway unions' representatives. The railways, of course, refuse the maximum demand, and the case moves up to the national mediation board, which negotiates a settlement. Logically, the interstate commerce commission must now authorize freight rate increases to produce the necessary revenue, and the public will do its bit next year by absorbing the inflated transportation costs.

Twenty years ago the threat of a railway walkout would have been front page news. Business men would have been frantically facing a nationwide stoppage of industry. It would have been a national crisis equal only to the prospect of war. Today a strike vote is merely a ripple in the course of events, and the members of the brotherhoods scarcely take it seriously. The possibility of the cessation of railway service is remote. But if it occurred, neither employers nor employés could win. Trucks, pipe lines, and waterways would offer service to a surprising volume of freight, while private automobiles, buses, and airplanes would provide accommodation for railway passengers. There is a seat for every man, woman, and child in the country's twenty-five million registered automobiles.

In addition to this twenty-five billion dollar array of emergency equipment industry has been steadily fortifying itself against an interruption in railway service. Many steam plants can substitute oil for coal at a moment's notice, and there has been extensive rearrangement of facilities to eliminate transportation of bulk commodities. The trend of modern business practice has been toward alternate forms of transportation for both raw materials and finished products. This is an outstanding reason why the number of railway employés has been reduced by half within the last decade.

The country is now in a position to get along with mighty little rail transportation if service is threatened or the costs reach uneconomic levels.

NOT THE HAM THAT WAS.

Apparently they are not treating our James Hamilton Lewis right in Washington. The senator is annoyed, which is a bad thing at his honorable time of life in the heat of a Washington summer. Senator Lewis is a chivalrous character if there ever was one, a warm friend and a generous enemy. He is not unlike the White Knight as Deems Taylor interprets him in his musical piece, "Through the Looking Glass." He canters briskly for two minutes and then falls off his horse with a great clatter. His admiring constituents have learned to expect that gallant dash toward the good, the true, and the beautiful and then to hear the clank of armor which reveals that the knight has been bounced out of the saddle.

Senator Lewis, although giving the matter his most unbiased and benevolent thought, cannot understand why the appointment of Agnes Van Driel as chief of the social security board's division of technical training was charged to the state of Illinois, when, as he says, "I have never been honored even by having been asked to present her name to the senate." Mr. Roosevelt went over the noble dome of our classic senatorial exhibit and that noble dome is unable to understand such treatment. The senator asks for an investigation of the procedure, which, if his colleagues see it with his apprehension, threatens a most important senatorial prerogative.

The noble dome is also wondering what has become of his recommendations for judicial appointment to the Supreme court. He has submitted to Col. Marvin H. McIntyre, one of three —soon to be ten—members of the White House secretariat, a mass of biographical material and judicial decisions which inevitably ought to result in the appointment of either Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrollton or of Judge Warren H. Orr of Rock Island. He has no assurance either will be put in the place of Justice Van Devanter, retired.

Although Senator Lewis ought to keep himself as cool as possible, he probably will be back on his horse again, on his way to the White House. If he doesn't fall off his nag he'll probably fall off the White House porch.

THE PERFECT CIRCUS-GOER.

One of our colleagues has been to the circus and returns to tell us of marvels which, after a half century or so of circus going, met his eye for the first time.

There was, he averred, a young lady who stood blindfolded on some manner of teeter-totter. Two others of her troupe leaped with vigor on the other end and catapulted her somersaulting upward to the shoulder of a collaborator, standing three-high on a pair of his mates. And a neat trick, too. But when he described the seal which played "America" the scales fell from our eyes.

That cunning fellow knew quite well that seals have been playing "America" for, anyway, a half century. Before that they played "Yankee Doodle." If he never heard a seal play "America" they must have had very inferior circuses down in Indiana, and that we doubt. They were very fine circuses—he admits—and they undoubtedly had musical seals.

What, then, was the reason for his gentle deceit? Simply that he was attempting to relive the delights of his childhood. He took his sons to the circus, but being more frank than most of us, confessed that they went somewhat reluctantly. And having gone, his pleasure was not complete until he found an audience for his description of the delights which greeted his eye.

If it weren't for the nostalgia of parents, circuses would be as dead as vaudeville. The ultimate delights of fatherhood must await that time when the offspring reaches sufficient maturity to sit through a performance without screaming to be led out just as the high wire act starts. And that's the reason there is never anything new about a circus, or at least why most of it never changes.

Understand, we are not running circuses down. We approve of them highly. We cite this unchanging quality as a virtue, not a defect. Shooting the man out of the cannon, for instance, leaves us cold. When we started going to circuses they didn't shoot men out of cannons. But the seal that plays "America"—now there's an act!

Some day, we suppose, modernists may put out a show with all new acts. If they ever do we're going to stop going. And then see what happens to the circus business.

$1,000 A ROOM.

The senate has fixed $1,000 a room as the top limit of cost for government housing projects under the $700,000,000 program. The figure was contained in an amendment to the bill introduced by Senator Byrd of Virginia, and supported, in large part, by senators from the less populous states, particularly in the south. Another amendment authorizes the expenditure in any one state of no more than 20 per cent of the fund.

The changes suggest that the cleavage in the Democratic party is growing wider and deeper. The housing bill offers little or nothing to the states which have no large cities. The primary purpose of the bill is to clear urban slums and replace them with modern dwellings. The bill sets up a 700 million dollar loan fund and a system of subsidies to encourage construction in the big cities. Senators from states which could expect little or nothing from the fund voted the limitation on costs.

It begins to appear that Mr. Farley is going to find it increasingly difficult as time goes on to hold together a party which seeks support in the urban, northeastern corner of the country as well as in the rural south. The two sections have little in common, socially or economically, and many of their interests are opposed. They could be held together by the plea of a national emergency and by the generosity of Santa Claus; but the emergency has passed and Santa Claus is now considering gifts not to farmers but to slum dwellers and urban land owners in New York and Chicago and a few other metropolitan cities.

There seems to be little doubt that the limit of $1,000 a room will prevent any considerable progress in slum clearance. The best opinion is that in Chicago, for example, the slums cannot be replaced for much under $1,300 a room, and the probability is that costs will run considerably higher. They might be pared a little if labor would accept a lower hourly wage rate in exchange for the assurance of steady work, but it is not likely that any reduction which would be accepted would be sufficient to bring the costs within the limit set.

The housing bill as it now stands cannot command the support even of those who believe the government should go into the home building business. As the bill has been amended, little, if any, of the 700 million dollars can be spent in the cities where the slum problem exists. In New York minimum costs will run even higher than in Chicago because land values there are generally higher. If the money is spent at all it will go to the small towns which have no slums or at least no slum problem. There the lower land costs and lower wage scales may make it possible to erect houses and apartments to cost not more than $1,000 a room. It can't be done in the cities by any technique now known and available.

Editorial of the Day

A NATION OF MOOCHERS?

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

By the terms of a bill just passed by the house of representatives, every veteran of the Spanish-American war is entitled to a pension of $60 per month. It may be that the veteran is a millionaire. It may be that he emerged from the war wholly fit physically and that he is not now disabled in any way. It may be that his service in the war was of very short duration. Nevertheless, the mere fact that he once wore a uniform gives him the right, if the bill is passed, to take $60 a month from the public treasury.

As the bill was on its way through the house, an amendment was offered to pay $60 a month to every veteran of the world war who has reached the age of 65, with no reference to disability or need. There are at present 12,929 veterans of 65 or more and the number will increase progressively, growing to an estimated 2,213,841 in 1962. The amendment failed of passage; nevertheless, it is a harbinger of a real effort, almost sure to come in the next few years, to provide service pensions for world war veterans. Fifty-five years after the civil war every veteran of that conflict became eligible for the pension rolls and now the house, 38 years after the Spanish-American war, has approved service pensions for those veterans. There are still two pensioners of the war of 1812, one a veteran's widow, the other a daughter.

Even if the country could stand the financial drain of present and potential pensions, the question arises as to whether or not the country should give a monthly handout to every man who dons a uniform, without regard to the nature or quality of his service, without relation to his personal fortune, regardless of his physical condition, is a man who spent 90 days in a home camp and emerged wholly fit from this brief hitch entitled to pay from the public treasury? If so, what becomes of the old fashioned ideas about the duties of citizenship and the demands of patriotism?

There is a vulgar word for this sort of thing. It is "mooching." Are we a nation of moochers, with every man's hope to be on one pension roll or another?

THE CITY COUNCIL is thinking about putting a tax on movie patrons, and while this is reprehensible it is nothing to compare with the tax the managements put on our patience with those double features.

THERE IS SOMETHING wistful about the church announcement by the minister at Blandinsville, Ill., who announced that the subject of his sermon would be "Tithing" and that all who did not tithe were especially invited. "There should be a large attendance," was his last line. Credit to L. R. S.

UNANSWERABLE ARGUMENT.

An insurance agent specializing in those burial policies made numerous calls on Aunt Dinah. She didn't want any; didn't have a living relative to leave anything to, she said. The agent seized on this as a scare weapon: "When you are on your deathbed, wouldn't it be nice to realize that one of our policies would assure you a decent burial?" To which Aunt Dinah retorted: "I never seen no daid people layin' in no streets."

Hattie of Momence.

THERE IS SUNSHINE on the open road and mountains at the end of it. Laurel and rhododendron grow on the slopes and the mists on top are not very different from the smoke that climbs from the stills in the hollows. What a letdown it will be if those mountains aren't as green as they appear 700 miles away!

RETURN AFTER A DECADE.

Only this meager span of years
And yet the change I see:
The very landscape now appears
An altered map to me.

This very land seems shriveled up
Like drying willow bark.
The well is gone; no barking pup—
Only the meadow lark

The windmill does not turn its wheel
And send out squeaking calls.
The house is cold and dark; I feel
Death has been near these walls.

And you; you show the shoulder stoop
A grubber always knows:
The same sounds come from sty and coop—
The corn stalks march in rows.

But you and much surrounding you
Are alien; distant; strange.
Ten years have run their thin sands through—
There's change; so much of change.

GENTLY TRODDEN.

There was a Union church in Hometown, and the Baptists and Methodists met in it. The Baptists held a baptizing that drew a record breaking crowd. This alarmed the Methodists, whose patriarchs feared they had been shunted to the background. But when they held their outdoor services people arrived by road wagon, buggy, horseback and afoot in such numbers that they occupied all the regular space along Paw Paw creek and took up half an acre of an adjacent cornfield. The Methodist minister was gratified, but worried for several months about the tramping down of the farmer's corn. But in the fall, when he asked about the damage, the answer was: "That part of the corn was the best in the whole field." . . . Your task, sir, is to guess to which denomination the farmer belonged.

BELCHER TO TAKE LISTENERS TO FILM DIRECTOR'S HOME

FROM O. B. SERVER we derive the material of a report that they made a mistake in the construction of a tavern sandwich the other day. The check for 20 cents was put between two slices of dry bread and a wafer of ham was handed the customer, who averred he couldn't notice any difference.

SHAKEDOWN OF SEVEN PILLARS.

Sir: After reading Lawrence's monumental "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" I, who thought I knew my English, threw up my hands in a gesture of academic frustration. O the verbal poverty! Casually T. E. gives us these: midden, sessile, havered, irredenti, diathetical, manticratic, pavidly, antinomian, gambit, thelemic, bionomic, chtonic, ruckled, riposte, tilth and refluent. (I am merely opening the book at random.) To the fore, men with Websters; out with the thesaurus . . . resurrect the dormant suffix and prefix! There's work in them thar lines.

Scene, an apartment building at midnight. The door of a flat opens softly and a tall man stands an instant with a revolver in his right hand. Between him and the open window, and silhouetted (is that spelled right?) against the dim light, are a man and a woman, close together. The intruder fires twice. Then he turns on the lights, looks at the couple and mutters: "Dear, dear, I'm in the wrong flat."

"AS STRAIGHT AS AN ARROW."

"As straight as an arrow" or as erect as an American Indian" are common expressions indicating correct posture. I have seen a goodly number of Indians on their native heath. Although they were well nourished, they presented anything but heroic figures. Perhaps Gall, Rain-in-the-Face, Spotted Tail, and Red Cloud were possessed of ideal carriage as young men, but not so in middle life. If one may judge from the plains Indians of a generation ago, they had much to learn about proper bearing. True enough, most of them toed in slightly, which, after all, is the ideal direction the foot should take in walking. We must regard the saying, therefore, as one that has come down to us from Cooper's Leatherstocking Tales.

But posture is important, and muscles play the principal rôle. The position of a joint, for example, or of the spinal column, depends upon the balance and pull of these structures. When one stands rigidly upright all the muscles are on a tension, holding the frame in perfect symmetry.

Childhood is the time for every one to build a foundation for a stalwart body. Sometimes children grow so rapidly that muscles fail to develop with sufficient power to hold the bones in proper adjustment. Certain types of chairs may allow the body to slide forward—to rest, as it were, on the small of the back and the shoulders. Of course, flabby youngsters who appear in good health but who really are not—those who are both mentally and physically tired—may present sagging jaws and eyelids, flat feet, and a general picture of the ne'er-do-well. Nervous children also are likely to assume fixed attitudes, holding the head to one side or bending it forward.

The key to the whole business lies at the junction of the spinal column with the hip bones. The entire weight of the trunk is supported at this point. Hence if the upper portion bends too far forward or backward, the center of gravity is displaced. In consequence the pelvis [hip girdle] may tilt.

One of our most annoying deformities is spinal curvature. With any change from the normal there is a tendency to produce a peculiar walk—one which may place the whole bony skeleton under considerable strain. In this connection we should recall that the body will endeavor to compensate for any change in position of the hip bones by bending the spine. For example, in what is called sway-back the pelvis is inclined forward, and naturally an abrupt curve in the lower portion of the vertebral column develops.

A common difficulty is rounded shoulders. These rarely exist alone, but are a part of some general postural failure. The points of the shoulders sag inward, the head bends forward, the wing bones on the back [scapulæ] fall downward and forward—just because gravity is operating. Many times this whole affair is due to an excessive forward bend of the lower third of the spine, and any attempt to correct it by drawing back the shoulders by means of braces, retracting the chin, etc., will fail unless attention is given to the vertebræ at the same time.

We can prevent most of these muscle-out-of-gear conditions if we will give some attention to the growing child. This means that good nervous energy must be available for the stimulation of muscles, and that the whole body must be exercised at the same time. Example is the best teacher. The youngster can be shown the proper position to assume and then, holding the body correctly, vary the types of activity—walking, standing, sitting, or even running. After all, it is largely a matter of habit, with some training. Dancing is an excellent exercise which cultivates not only muscular control and a good carriage, but poise and grace.

Only when bad positions become obvious will there be any necessity for the employment of casts, braces, or certain types of restorative harness. It is far better to use the natural pulleys [muscles]; to reënergize them and let them do the work.

CONSTIPATION.

A. E. W. writes: I was born in Russia. In my part of that country frequent bowel movements were looked upon as an ailment. Old people had a bi-weekly movement, while we children had a weekly movement. Our food was entirely different from that in this country. Everything was exceedingly well cooked, we had no fruits or vegetables to speak of, and we drank no water. We used various beverages, including apple peeling tea; peppermint leaves tea, dried berry tea, fermented milk soups, fermented flour drinks, sour milk, and sour milk drinks.

I have a 3 year old girl who was born in this country and we do not know whether she suffers from chronic constipation or simply has my native form of digestion. She eats very little but keeps good weight and is active and healthy in every respect, except that she does not have a bowel movement more than once a week.

My wife worries over her a great deal and does all she can to stimulate bowel movements with all sorts of preparations and laxatives. She can absorb a surprising amount of such remedies without showing the slightest effect. I maintain that the child should be left alone, for, considering that she eats only a few ounces of food each day, she cannot have a bowel movement like an American child, who takes a great deal of food and discharges most of it as waste. I believe that she has inherited our native digestive tendencies and should be taken off American food and given our native fermented foods, with yeast as a substitute for such as are not available. This, however, is just a layman's opinion.

We would like to have some practical, authoritative advice. Doctors who have seen her do not solve the problem.

REPLY.

One stool in 24 hours is usually considered the normal rate of progress of the intestinal contents; less than this constitutes constipation. This symptom should be combated by training, exercise, and diet, laxatives being employed only as temporary expedients. Successful treatment demands careful regulation of the child's routine, which must be continued for a long period of time. More depends upon training than upon anything else. Regular habits can be formed by children without difficulty.

The diet should consist of fruits, whole grain cereals, meat, vegetables, bran, and milk. Fermented milks may be of benefit. Honey and molasses, the latter added to cooked foods, may be included in the dietary. Water should be given in sufficient quantity.

DISEASED TONSILS.

Mrs. D. B. writes:

My little daughter has diseased tonsils. She has trouble with them in the winter. Would you advise having the child's tonsils removed this summer?

REPLY.

Yes, by all means. Seek a skilled throat specialist.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia.—Michail Soschenko, who has made millions of Russians laugh with his bitter satires on communist everyday life, is threatened with disgrace and arrest because he has made fun of the "confession fever."

He claims the "fever" is raging in Russia and is responsible for many sensational trials and executions during the past year. The story which threatens his downfall follows:

"A few days ago a two story wooden house burned down in Moscow. It tilted to one side and trembled under the weight of its seventy tenants and their belongings. The tenants suspected a crime.

"In the cellar the firemen found some burned rags and a kerosene can. A boy said he saw a man who had visited the Filatov family bring the can into the house the previous day. The house manager identified the visitor as a man named Baranov, and an uncle of Mrs. Filatov. He said he did not believe Baranov, a man of 60, was guilty of being a firebug, because he too had lost his home when the house burned.

"Baranov indignantly denied the accusation. A detective was listening. He said he believed that beside material interests there may have been class hatred behind the crime. Baranov became pale and began to shriek.

"The manager told the detective he had frightened poor Baranov out of his wits. The detective replied: 'He is only simulating. Many pretend to be crazy to avoid being suspected. If he is actually afraid then this crime must have a political character.'

"At the words 'political character' Baranov stuttered: 'I see you wish to pin paragraph 28 [state treason] on me. The crime was not of a political character. I can prove that. My reasons were quite different.'

"Upon hearing her uncle confess Mrs. Filatov fainted. The tenants wanted to lynch him. The detective saved him by rushing him to a police station. There Baranov amplified his confession. He said:

"'The man who built the house was a relative of mine. When we laid the foundation stone 40 years ago I was present. It was a tradition to put money beneath the corner stone. I threw in one five ruble gold piece and two silver rubles. There must be as much as thirty rubles beneath the stone. For twenty years I dreamed of recovering this money. Finally I decided to burn down the house.'

"The rascal is now in prison awaiting trial for destroying state property. This decadent representative of former bourgeoise times will receive exemplary punishment.

"The tenants decided to divide the wealth hidden under the foundation of the house. It was discovered the house had no corner store. There was no money.

"There are two possible explanations for this strange occurrence. The first is that the man was lying, that he had an attack of 'confession fever.' Or perhaps the money was removed by the owner after the bourgeoise ceremony was completed. Occupants of the house hope he will meet the fate that his confession entitles him to."

PROBABLY BARRED.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I owned and sold a farm in Wisconsin in 1919. I had purchased this land from two different parties. The land was to total 130 acres and therefore I sold it as such. At this date the buyer of the 130 acres intends to institute suit for a return of money for 11 acres which a survey sponsored by him showed is short. He also wants interest and taxes for 18½ years.

1. A warranty deed was given to the buyer in 1919. I have been a resident of Illinois for seven years and would like to know [2] how a summons is served and whether I must appear.

3. Would they be forced to sue in Illinois if I refused to appear in Wisconsin?

4. Would this suit be outlawed in Illinois or Wisconsin because of the age of the affair since no mention had been made of it until last November?

M. H.

1. As we understand it, his claim would be barred by the statute of limitations.

2. If suit were started here the summons would be served by a deputy sherif.

3. Yes, unless they could reach in Wisconsin assets belonging to you.

4. A suit barred by the law of the state where contract is made would be barred everywhere.

SEWER NOW OPEN.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—The sewer in front of our house has been blocked for a long time. The water extends about four feet from the curb into the street. We have tried to open the outlet many times by poking a 10 foot rod into the sewer, but without avail. Children of the neighborhood are constantly throwing stones and rocks into the water to such an extent that we cannot pull our auto up to the curb without first removing some of the rocks. Would appreciate it very much if the proper authorities are notified and this situation remedied. C. E. O.

In further answer to this complaint, I wish to inform you that the catch basin inlet was opened on June 16. This should alleviate the condition complained of. Thanking you for your interest and assuring you of our willingness to be of service in every way possible.

PROF. NORTON DEFENDED.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The critic of William Harmon Norton in today's Voice of the People questioned the right of Mr. Norton, as a geology professor at Cornell college, to discuss publicly matters not geological, but about which the unquestioned acuteness of his articles proved that he has a great deal to say. The same acute insight which turned Mr. Norton in his early years from teaching Greek and Latin to the study of the earth until he became a foremost expert of his day on underground waterways very properly may be turned to the equally devious and hidden channels of subversive propaganda of various sorts.

Incidentally, Mr. Norton has been almost as successful at making money as he has been in raising irises on his Iowa hillside or in teaching Greek or geology. Critics of his articles probably would use this fact to prove him an ignoramus in the field of economics just as these would contend that he has no right to discuss political institutions because he has given both his life and a modest fortune to a religious college devoted to the American democratic ideal.

ERGON.

Winnetka, Ill., Aug. 4.—The Chicago Sunday Tribune has placed its readers under a debt of gratitude for the outstanding articles on economic, social and religious topics published from time to time on its editorial pages during the last two years and written by Prof. William Harmon Norton, whose qualifications a writer in today's Voice of the People seems to question.

Prof. Norton's essays on capitalism, socialism, communism, war, the church in politics, coöperative commonwealths, and other topics of current importance, written in lucid and fascinating English, exhibit a breadth of knowledge and experience and a power of sane analysis which are a delight and an inspiration to his readers. The sly humor with which he at times punctures current fallacies does not lessen the force of his convincing arguments. His articles ought to be a weekly feature.

A WASTE OF KINDLING.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Almost daily one can see a veritable funeral pyre of wood being destroyed at the WPA housing project at Diversey parkway and Clybourn avenue. If one will look for the spot just west of the bend in the Chicago river about a block north of Diversey avenue one will invariably see a monstrous fire destroying remnants of boards and beams used on the project. I can safely estimate that these daily fires consume enough wood to heat the homes of ten poor families all winter. What pleasure can the government get in this sort of destruction when next winter poor families will be freezing? If the gates of this yard were opened to the poor to help themselves to the wood, what happy crowds could be drawn there! The writer has watched these fires for the past six months with fires of piles of wood over 10 feet high not uncommon.

The government is building projects to help the poor and yet it persists in destroying that which will really help them. Even if the wood were not given away but saved, it could be burned in the boilers to heat the project for two winters with that much saving in the coal bill.

S. A. J.

WHY DO THEY KILL EACH OTHER?

Chicago, Aug. 4.—The Tribune attacks the Roosevelt administration as if the administration were responsible for the destruction of cattle, hogs, cotton, corn and all the other items of consumption that are so much needed by the people of the United States.

Of course, The Tribune has nothing but sneers for men like Karl Marx and Frederick Engels, who, in their "Communist Manifesto," first published to the world in 1848, nearly a hundred years ago, had this to say:

"It is enough to mention the commercial crises that by their periodical return put the existence of the entire bourgeois society on its trial, each time more threateningly. In these crises a great part, not only of the existing products, but also of the previously created productive forces, are periodically destroyed. In these crises there breaks out an epidemic that in all earlier epochs would have seemed an absurdity—the epidemic of overproduction. Society suddenly finds itself put back into a state of momentary barbarism; it appears as if a famine, a universal war of devastation had cut off the supply of every means of subsistence; industry and commerce seem to be destroyed. And why? Because there is too much civilization, too much means of subsistence, too much industry, too much commerce."

Why, then, gentlemen, do you rave against the administration under a capitalist system acting in accordance with the operations of the capitalist system? If you wish to see a country where there are not and cannot be any laws enacted to destroy food and meat, you must turn to a country where private business and private profit no longer exist, namely, soviet Russia.

Ira Benson.

HEAR YE!

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Is there any way of stopping the barbaric custom of exploding aerial bombs at all hours of the night, even to the early morning? For two weeks past there has been a celebration in the neighborhood of Harrison and Morgan streets. Sleep has been impossible, the drain on the nerves deep. The din must have been exceedingly trying to the staf and patients of Cabrini hospital. Permission must have been given for such a demonstration, and I'll wager that the one who gave the permission does not live in the neighborhood. I hear that there will be another carnival not far from the location of the last one. Can the bombing be stopped, or shall we have to suffer because some petty politician sees a chance to curry favor with his followers?

Adolph Grennan.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Just how much is Henry Horner's word about "no aged man will suffer" worth in that old age pension grab? What becomes of all the millions of sales, gas, vehicle, sur, liquor, license, and what-not taxes? The 6 per cent, sales tax [figure a penny on each 15 cents equals 6 cents on 90 cents] is a welcome storekeeper's racket. But the relief and old age pension holdups are unworthy of a state that bellows so loud and funny about sovereignty and whose governor, as Connie the Chinaman would say, "is dolefully tearweeping" over the poor old men and hurries to Wisconsin in a crisis of starvation and dispossession threats to senile paupers and does—nothing.

Ethel Hulbert Will Become Bride Aug. 21

BY JUDITH CASS.

INVITATIONS have been received from Mrs. Milan Hulbert Hulbert to the wedding reception of her daughter, Ethel Plunkett Hulbert, and Frank Whipple Renwick Jr., on Saturday, Aug. 21, at 3 o'clock at 555 Stratford place, the Hulbert home.

The arrival of the invitations was the first formal news their friends had had of the engagement of the third daughter of Mrs. Hulbert and the late Mr. Hulbert to the son of the Frank W. Renwicks of Geneva. It was in this same quiet manner, simply by issuing wedding invitations, that the engagement of the former Olive Hulbert to John G. Ryan was announced two years ago.

It is hoped that Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will come from their home in New York to attend the wedding at 2 o'clock. Only the immediate families will be present at the ceremony, which will be read at the bride's home, and the reception following is to be a small one.

Sister to Be Her Only Attendant.

Miss Adele Hulbert, youngest of the four sisters—Miss Helen Hulbert is the second—will be the bride's only attendant, and Milan H. Hulbert Jr. will give his sister away. George Renwick will be his brother's best man. Following a honeymoon in Bermuda, Mr. Renwick and his bride will be at home after Oct. 1 in Dearborn parkway.

Miss Hulbert was educated at the Girls' Latin school and at Miss Fuller's school at Ossining-on-the-Hudson. She left her studies at Connecticut college to travel with her family, and since that time has been twice around the world. She was introduced to society several years ago at a tea at the Fortnightly.

Mr. Renwick attended the Northwestern Military academy and is a graduate of the University of Illinois and of the law school at the University of Illinois. He is practicing in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Hoelscher Jr. are entertaining at their Lake Forest home today for Miss Hulbert and her fiancé. Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Wilder will give a party for them a week from Tuesday, and two days later, on the Thursday preceding the wedding, the Edwin Whites will entertain at cocktails.

Hay Ride Tomorrow at Dunham Woods.

An old fashioned hay ride beneath the yellow moon is a form of summer entertainment that seems to be fading from Chicago's scheme of summer living. But childhood memories of jolting along in the fragrant hay have been brought back vividly to the two dozen young people who have received colorful invitations from the Webb Harrisons to a hay ride and picnic tomorrow evening at Dunham Woods.

A skylarking family of ducks rollicking in a wagon piled high with hay illustrates the fun that will be had tomorrow at the party. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison are entertaining for her sister, Miss Patricia Nash, and her fiancé, Oliver M. Knode Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney G. Haskins, the former Dorothy North, arrived yesterday for their annual sojourn at Northcroft, their sheep farm near Deerfield. With them is an English friend, Ross Wyld of London. Mr. and Mrs. Haskins will return to their home in England in October.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. North are leaving next Friday to spend a fortnight on the Jennings ranch near Glacier National park. Mrs. Francis S. North, Mr. North's mother, expects to join them there, and his brother, Francis S. North, who has been in Berkeley, Cal., for the wedding Thursday of Miss Margaret Wentworth to Malcolm S. Millard, probably will be there, too.

Mrs. Jabez Hammond Returns from East.

Mrs. Jabez Dean Hammond has returned after a stay at the Seigniory club in Quebec, stopping on her way back in Scarsdale, N. Y., where her son and daughter-in-law, the junior Jabez Dean Hammonds, and their two children have been living since May.

Mrs. Hammond's younger son, William B. Hammond, is completing a course at Northwestern university Aug. 15, and he and his mother will go north then to the Seigniory club, where they have spent several summers. In the fall Mr. Hammond probably will study at either Columbia or Harvard, and Mrs. Hammond is thinking of taking an apartment in New York for the winter, to be near him and her other son and his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Douglas and their sons, Donald B. Douglas Jr. and William C. Douglas, have gone up to the Seigniory club for August.

SATURDAY Cuff Notes. Had you heard about the bridge game in which Mrs. Lindbergh, Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Simpson, and Mrs. Mussolini cut for partners? Notes—Billy Goat—Life Guard. Mrs. Lindbergh drew an ace, Mrs. Mussolini a deuce, Mrs. Simpson a king, and Mrs. Roosevelt asked for a New Deal. Or maybe she drew a nine. . . . The best use yet seen for collectors' stamps is the pocketbook carried by Mrs. Loyal Davis, the surface of which is covered with foreign stamps under a coat of shellac. . . . Heavy Sheridan road trafic whizzes by only a few feet away, yet at the Saddle and Cycle club the rabbits and squirrels play about as if it were country. Dinner guests enjoying a prepandial libation on the terrace the other evening saw ten young rabbits, singly and in twos and threes, come out of the shrubbery and hop around. . . . Some motorists driving through Indiana on a very hot day, all very thirsty, passed through the little town of Bone Dry, bulletins Danville's Ruby Maffitt. . . . A tennis robot is on the market that sends out balls for practice play. Electrically operated, it holds five dozen tennis balls. . . . The thrill of the week was seeing Antonio and Renee de Marco dance. Light as thistledown, graceful as birds, gay and vibrant and sure, they are better than ever. Their dancing is an exciting demonstration of speed, timing, and grace. . . . Note for femmes. Renee's loveliest gown, perhaps, is pale blue satin, with water lilies woven in the fabric, outlined with touches of gold and her favorite pale magenta at the hem. Another is white satin, with field flowers painted on the fabric. Both from Lanvin. And the favorite accessory she brought back from abroad is her page boy miser's purse—three black suede pouches of varying sizes on a flat gold chain that may be drawn through the belt or looped over the wrist. One for change, one for hanky and vanity, one for bills. . . . The Decatur Review in a recent issue reported that a party of Decatur folk traveled to St. Louis to see the Municipal Opera's presentation of "The Battered Bride."

A SIGN in a tavern window on West Madison street which read, "Come and help us celebrate Billy the Goat's birthday," struck the fancy of some motorists the other day, so they stopped and went in. The birthday was a few days in the future, but the goat was there, and he shook hands like a little gentleman, accepted a cigaret and baaed his thanks. The owner of the tavern is so proud of him he has raised a goatee to match the goat's beard. He produced postcards Billy has received from all parts of the country from tavern visitors on vacation. Billy was to have a cake and candles for his birthday party and all the tobacco he could eat for a present, he told them. They planned to go back for it.

Jubilee Show Has Best and Worst in Art

No matter what you like, or don't like, in art, you'll find it on Navy pier at the charter jubilee art exhibition. The show opens tomorrow to continue through Labor day.

This is Chicago's artistic free for all. No medium, no school of expression, is banned. The sole requirement is that the artist be a Chicagoan.

As a result, some 994 works of art, ranging from an ivory miniature to a wood mosaic, now strew the 2,600 feet of wall and floor space at Navy pier. Their value, self-rated by the artists, begins at $1.50 for a pottery gazelle, ends at $10,000 for a hand shading eyes bronze Indian.

A few entries, a young guide admitted sadly yesterday, probably will not be hung. He pointed to "Possession," a large piece of white cardboard on which two figures were sketchily outlined in black. Beside it was a head of Dante, painted in brilliant oils on black velvet, the work of Albert Loich.

Nearby was "Proverb," a woodcut by Esther Penning. "Proverb" has a gorgeous gilt frame and a nice brown mounting, but the work proper consists of the words "All fear is bondage," printed in brown letters on a material resembling cedar.

"You'd better not pay much attention to any of those," the young guide said easily, as he walked away. "I doubt if any of them get on the walls. Why not? . . . O, I don't know. Some of them haven't frames, anyway."

Elsewhere, everything, anything, went. "That's the trouble with a nonjury show," the guide lamented. The best and the worst artists of Chicago alike are represented. Here are nudes or stiff flowers, lynchings or steel or beet workers, powerful dynamic modern art or calm, quiet conservatism. And even a few oils of the 1890 calendar variety.

Near one end of the pier hangs "Abstraction" by R. S. Wolff. This consists of lines of India ink scrawled around over splotches [more technically known as washes] of pink, blue, and green.

"Abstraction" isn't made for understanding, but if the observer must have understanding he may walk across the hall to "Windmill in Picardy," by Edward Cameron, to view sheep roaming before an old mill.

When the young guide came to "Debutante," by Lester J. Ambrose, he retreated hurriedly with—"That's the worst of the lot." A colorful oil, it shows a buxom, gray haired woman, elegantly gowned in purple, leading by the hand a plump young blonde in white slippers and nothing else. A minister clasps his hands in the background, and to one side are a cluster of elderly men in tails and top hats.

If you aren't interested in pictures, however, you might visit the showing just to see the frames, for they are as varied as the works they inclose. Most remarkable of these is the border of quilt patches of real calico, gingham, and print with which Amanda Anita Willets-Burnham almost obliterates her water color of the Chicago ghetto.

Most of the works are for sale, but Amanda Neatz sold her "Morning Glory" on the way over. A delicate pastel of soft blues and corals, showing sunrise over water, it has a poem in one corner:

"Inspiring to me
Is the colorful sky
As the sun filters through Tiny clouds passing by.
The glistening water
Like turqoise blue
The heaven reflecting
All beauty to you."

Poem and all went for $25.

Italian Censor Bans Comedy in Spaghetti Scene

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—Few people realize that spaghetti is regarded as a censorable and dangerous item in the movies.

The problem of spaghetti became of importance to Archie Mayo, directing "Adventures of Marco Polo" at United Artists. Mayo had to get around the official Italian prohibition on the use of spaghetti in comedy sequences and still show Gary Cooper, H. B. Warner, and Ernest Truex fumbling with the strings of food in a scene indicating the discovery of spaghetti by Marco Polo in 13th century China.

The Italian feeling against spaghetti in comedies is based on the fact that it is a favorite food in Rome, where eating it is not regarded lightly. Mayo solved his problem thus: "We'll make two 'takes.' The one used in this country and British countries will be made according to the script. Then we'll make a shot for the Italians and call it 'noodles. That oughtn't to offend anybody."

Universal studio has signed Preston Foster to enact the society detective, Crane, in a series of "crime club" thrillers.

Gail Patrick's 20 year old brother, Richard Fitzpatrick, is seen about as escort to luncheon and sedate parties for Betty Jaynes, blonde, blue eyed 16 year old Chicago grand opera singer. Betty is studying hard to be ready for her screen debut at M-G-M studio this autumn. She's on the pay roll while studying.

Noah Beery Jr., better known as "Pidge," has his best film rôle in a young career as Bud Mason, the boxer who comes up from preliminaries to world championship status in "The Iron Man" at Universal. Young Beery will be 24 next week. He is engaged to marry Maxine Jones, daughter of cowboy star Buck Jones.

Joyce Compton, who does a special song, "My Dreams Are Gone with the Wind," in "The Awful Truth," is supposed to stand on a crowded night club floor, just over air valves which at a signal send jets of compressed air upward to swirl her gown over her head. The wardrobe women took special pains with the lingerie Miss Compton wore, but some one neglected to take enough pains with either the gown itself or the air jets, for when the pressure was turned on at Columbia studio the air first ripped the seams of the gown apart and then blew the gown to the ceiling.

A landscape painting of a Catalina Island scene which was painted by Gary Cooper is hanging in a place of honor in George Raft's dressing room.

Robert Young has left with his wife and little daughter on a trailer trip to Mexico City, saying, "If I like trailer travel we won't be back short of three weeks, but if we find we don't like it we'll be back in three days."

Sees Fashion History in Two Paris Showings

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Fashion history has been launched by Molyneux and Schiaparelli. These two great designers displayed much that is new in silhouettes.

While Molyneux stressed his usual slim line for daytime, in fact more restrained than before, he presented an entirely different evening picture.

Three evening lines prevail throughout his collection; the newest inspired by the 1889 period when skirts were drawn in tight folds about the hips and permitted to fall in full gathers at the back to the floor. This style Molyneux shows in rich satins or moire, his favorite color being Derain green.

Another outstanding group consists of very molded evening gowns made trainless. They have very deep decolletage, some, less formal, being made with long, tight sleeves. The large majority are in black, either velvet or crêpe. With them mannequins wear huge round hats with upturned brims, some trimmed with feathers—a magnificent mode.

More familiar is the Second Empire silhouette which Molyneux has been using for some time. These, not as exaggeratedly puffed, are shown in velvet or satin over large hoops.

For the young Molyneux has waltz dresses of stiffened velvet with bell shaped skirts and tight bodices. One in flame red has patch pockets on the front of the skirt and the bodice buttoned down the back in little girl style. He has many realistic flowers at decolletages.

The Molyneux daytime silhouette is candle slim; his coats are either three-quarter or ankle length. These last, a sensation, are worn over frocks about 13 or 14 inches off the floor. They are of smooth wool, largely in black, though dregs of wine makes an outstanding model worn over a heavily crinkled crêpe dress of the same color.

Schiaparelli's collection is a riot of color and brilliance. She carries the embroidery theme to the nth degree on daytime as well as evening ensembles. Jackets or coats are embroidered in glittering tinsel jewels, gold thread, and many colored silks.

The most sensational item of her collection is a shoe hat with a heel sticking in the air at the back and a toe pointing over the face. Hats are high, like immense cuffs poised well forward and to one side of the head. They are made of fur, felt, or velvet and they add to the height, already accentuated by her very slim line. She also introduces new coiffure curls placed high on the head, with the nape left sleek and smooth.

There is not a bulge in the Schiaparelli collection. The lines are smooth and svelte and her combinations of color are breath taking. For example, she makes an evening ensemble with a velvet coat of wine red and a dress of sultry pink, her newest shade.

In daytime clothes she combined violent colors such as purple and yellow. For sports or informal town outfits there are many brilliant plaids used to line coats and make revers as well as berets of the Tam o' Shanter type. Dyed furs appear in this colorful collection. Moleskin takes on the hue of dark dresses such as blue or raisin.

There are so many novelties in this showing that it would take a day to relate them all. Outstanding are buttons of two kinds of wood made in many shapes, patent lether ones like violins, huge chunks of black composition suggesting licorice, and stars and jewel-like humming birds.

Black Chiffon Hosiery Makes a Trim Ankle

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Along with flounces, ruffles, underskirts of taffeta in vivid colors, ribbon trim, and ruchings that are fringed, comes the return of sheer black chiffon hosiery. When you see this seductive stuff teamed with inky black suede footwear, you will remember how eye filling thin black can be, especially stretched over slim ankles.

Black, so thin and transparent it's merely a midnight shadow, makes any ankle appreciably slimmer, and for that reason alone this hosiery is worth any one's pennies.

Gold old gun metal shade stockings, dark, slenderizing, but not quite as dark as the sheer black, have coal black heels and toes. This gun metal stuff is sheer, looks grand over any degree of sun tan and does a telling job of keeping the ankle lines visible and slim. Use these with black suede footgear and you have a combination hard to equal.

Thanks to some kind genius too much exposure of the foot is a thing of the fast passing summer. Short vamps, teetering high heels, clever cutouts over the instep, when there are cutouts, are what you'll buy nowadays.

Bow tied oxfords are back again, provocatively French affairs, looking unbelievably small even in the largest sizes. The black suede is smooth, dull and the color a good cave black. On warm days with thin black dresses they are grand with torrid copper toned hosiery. But when you slip into your newest dull black crêpe form fitting dress, your newest skyscraping black velvet bonnet with a fluttery veil, and black gloves, you'll wear black suede footwear with either black chiffon or the new gun metal chiffon stockings with black heels that show.

Underweight? Points Way to Gain in Flesh

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There are all grades of underweight, according to an insurance bulletin, and there are definite levels at which it may be unfavorable at any time of life. This level is in the neighborhood of 29 per cent below the average weight table. To alter favorable extreme degrees of underweight, the insurance people recommend as follows:

First. Examinaton should be made by a competent physician to determine that disease is not present and causing the underweight.

Second. All social, physical and environmental errors should be corrected. Hurried eating and stress and strain at mealtime should be avoided.

Third. Less energy should be expended and more rest should be taken. When possible, some extra rest should be taken during the day, preferably before and after meals.

Fourth. More food must be digested and assimilated each day than is needed, so that there may be storage of the surplus and a gain of weight. Special attention must be paid to the type of food eaten, care being taken to choose a balanced diet, food which is of a high caloric value and easily digested. The diet should contain between 2,200 and 3,000 calories a day. Fats in the form of butter, cream, bacon, nuts and vegetable oils should be taken in quantities large enough to make up a considerable portion of these calories. Extra milk in the form of cream soups and milk and custard desserts is another way of adding calories to the diet.

To keep the diet balanced include plenty of fruits and vegetables. Both of these are lacking in calories, but contain other necessary elements. The lack of calories in vegetables may be corrected somewhat by using extra butter or cream in their preparation. There is a tendency on the part of the busy persons to omit a part or all of a meal because of lack of sufficient time to eat. This is true especially of breakfast, which should be one of the heartiest meals of an underweight individual. Arise in time to eat a good breakfast and take plenty of time to eat a well balanced luncheon and dinner as well. A light, easily digested lunch, and a glass of milk and a few crackers taken at bedtime, as well as between meals, may be of benefit.

Exercise, if not vigorous, is beneficial to underweight, because it improves the circulation, stimulates the activity of the digestive organs, and thereby assists assimilation.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We had, the other day, a treatment that gave us more of a lift than anything we've found since we unpacked our bags after a vacation. It wasn't a fancy facial, or a body massage, but what is now known officially as a "pedi-sleek." It sets you up wonderfully. You simply prance out after it, feeling beautifully groomed and as though you had feathers instead of bones in your feet.

First there is a pedicure, given as you lie luxuriously in a comfortable treatment chair. The shaping, oiling, and grooming process is a tender bit of business; at its end each toenail is tinted in the tinge you choose. Almost every one goes a bit Flaming-Mamie at this point. Part of the fun of a pedicure is bright, bright polish. It looks perky—and makes the ten little toes look whiter by contrast.

Following the pedicure, if you have the "pedi-sleek" treatment complete, you have an expert hair removing session, with warm wax, that leaves the skin entirely free of so much as one lone hair. Because it's expert it isn't painful. Not fun, mebbe, but certainly not torture such as it would be if you tried it with your own unskilled hands.

It's after all this that you have the part we like best—a perfectly wonderful foot massage, cooling and ever so gentle, that relaxes every little muscle and leaves you unconscious of bothersome bones. The creaming, the massaging, and the suave manipulation all combine to make this the most restful kind of an interlude. When your treatment is all finished you feel at least a decade younger and you have that sense of well being that comes with perfect grooming. You could dance—and if the dancing is done in short skirts and toeless sandals you know that your feet will stand inspection. ELEANOR NANGLE.

BY ANNA NANGLE.

You'd never know it from the title, but this film teaches that serious people must never marry frivolous ones, because the wrong will have to be undone sooner or later.

Here we have Franchot Tone as a gifted young surgeon, interning at General hospital. Maureen O'Sullivan is a hard working young nurse—one of the prettiest you ever saw—who is his good friend. However, she's married to a no-good toper, and when a beautiful heiress comes in as an emergency case the young M. D. is an easy victim and marries her. They soon find that his work and her leisure don't mix.

There's a villain in the piece—a wealthy young blade who's studying medicine for lack of anything else to do. He always has bottles galore, and pays the other men to take over for him when he wishes to be elsewhere.

A series of accidents have every one dashing in and out of the hospital and operating like mad. An automobile and the villain contrive to get rid of the patient little nurse's husband and before the film is over two other main characters are shown on the table.

If you like hospital dramas with masked doctors and starched nurses, operating rooms, etc., this might entertain you, although I warn you it gets pretty preposterous and mawkish at times. There is one scene in which the nasty old Doctor Meighan sternly feeds his petulant patient by hand when the naughty girl won't eat her spinach.

The two feminine principals occasionally overplay their rôles, and the frequent crises become rather wearing after a time, although there are several spots which are mildly exciting.

Mr. Tone carries off a stupid part rather well, and both the ladies are at least nice to look at.

SYNOPSIS.

Michael Eden, heir to millions, postpones his marriage to Katharine McCann because his foster-father, John Millis, tells him his foster-mother is ill and needs him. Katharine's roommate, Joan, is engaged to Michael's friend, Terry Newton. Terry's uncle Amos Newton believes that Millis killed Terry's father, who was Michael's co-guardian. Michael signs a will making Millis his heir, expecting to change it after his marriage to Katharine. Mrs. Millis attempts suicide when she discovers her husband flirting with her nurse. Michael rescues her and takes her away. When he returns to the home of Amos Newton Katharine and he plan to be married next day, though Michael is ill. That night Michael, in delirium, returns to the Millis home, desperately ill with typhoid fever. Katharine obtains Dr. Kittredge to attend him. Ferenzi, a self-confessed poisoner, charges that Millis bought typhoid germs from him. Michael is moved to Amos Newton's home before it is discovered that Millis has been murdered. The body of Mrs. Millis is later found in the tower room. A note discloses that she killed her husband and then herself.

INSTALMENT XLVIII.

LOVE NOTES.

The first time Mrs. Scott tried to talk to Michael about Katharine she was frightened; Michael wept helplessly. But he went to sleep with a faint smile on his lips. The next day there was a picture neatly fastened to the footboard of his bed, a picture of a saucy smiling girl, whom Mrs. Scott would never have recognized as the desolate young woman of the chilly corridor, but who she knew must be Katharine.

How he got it and put it there they never knew, but at least he had been roused to make an effort. Hour after hour he would lie, staring at it. Then it would lose its spell, and he would turn restlessly to Mrs. Scott.

"Tell me again," he would order. His voice had a touch of gayness which warmed her heart.

One day, when she had finished, he picked up a piece of paper and wrote across it in a slightly unsteady hand: "Dear Kit: I love you. I love you as much as you love me. Some day I am going to be well again—after awhile." But he crumpled it up and tossed it into the waste basket. It was Mrs. Scott who secretly fished it out and sent it to dear Kit, with a very circumstantial account of how the young man was spending his waking hours.

But Michael still spent many hours brooding unhappily. Mrs. Scott spent much time with him, hoping to surprise him into confiding in her. It came at last.

"I think," he said coldly, "that I should see my father."

Mrs. Scott braced herself.

"I do not wish to see him, but it seems only decent. For a few days, just after my mother died, I felt right toward him. Now I am afraid of him again, and when I am afraid of a man I hate him."

Then the little old lady, who had been definitely instructed to say nothing to Michael of the death of John Millis, did a brave thing:

"You need never hate him again, Michael," she said steadily.

Something passed from one mind to the other.

"So he is dead," he said, and closed his eyes.

It was some time before he spoke again.

"Is John Millis dead?" he asked. His voice was as steady as hers.

"Yes, Michael. Your mother and he lie side by side, in the little churchyard at Montgomery. It was what your mother wanted."

"Did my mother leave any message for me?"

"Yes. They had to open the letter. Dr. Kittredge told me what it said. I remember every word. I thought it beautiful."

She repeated it slowly and tenderly, and Michael listened closely, and asked her to repeat it again.

"Thanks," he said, and closed his eyes.

From that time he began to gain. He even tried to sit up and test his strength. He demanded the barber every day. He even laughed once, a young laugh which was a great joy to those about him, after his long silence.

But he was a difficult patient. There were still long hours when he lay very quiet. The white ruin of his face was pitiful to see. He seemed little interested in any one around him. When Mrs. Scott had pieced together every fragment which she knew about Katharine and had told and retold it all, she grew desperate.

"Now you tell me," she suggested. "Tell me about this girl of yours."

Michael's eyes lighted, but he shook his head.

"Why don't you think of something to send her?" she coaxed. "Send her a grand big present which will shock her and make her laugh. Send her a grand piano or a limousine or a yacht. You have lots of money. You aren't Scotch, are you Michael?"

Michael grinned feebly.

"You don't know Katharine. I've tried to do all those things. There are women who would like that sort of thing. It won't be long——" he paused—"before she can't help herself. She'll have to take them from me. But if I suddenly tried to send them to her now—she'd be sure I was still entirely out of my head."

"She's a very funny girl if she doesn't like pretty things," Mrs. Scott said stubbornly. "And she might like to know that you are still alive."

"She knows that without my telling her. She knows I'm eating all I can and getting well as fast as I can. One of these days I'll be walking across the room. I don't need to send her a grand piano to convince her that the minute I'm myself again we're going to start all over again."

Later in the day Michael sent for Mrs. Scott and handed her a roll of bills.

"If you can find something that you think a girl would like," he said, "please buy it. I never bought Kit much but books and flowers and dill pickles."

That afternoon a jeweler appeared, with a tray which made Mrs. Scott's eyes bulge. Michael examined them, asked a few questions, then shook his head.

The jeweler looked haughty.

"Miles of them," Michael repeated.

He selected a lovely brooch of sapphires and tiny diamonds."

"Is this as pretty as any?" he asked of Mrs. Scott.

"It is the prettiest of them all," she said reverently.

He took it and nodded pleasantly to the jeweler. When she brought him his glass of milk, he pinned it on her white apron.

"O, no," she cried. "Send it to the dear young lady. Please!"

"I bought it for you," he said. "Thank heaven I found something that you liked. I've something else in mind for Kit. I'll tell you about it very soon."

In a week Michael began to see his lawyer every morning for a few moments. Terry reported excitedly to Joan that the old Eden house was to be wrecked; that they were already dismantling it. Joan, her eyes shining, showed him a note she had just received from an agent informing her that she was at liberty to present herself at the house and choose anything and everything she could use: that Mr. Eden was reserving nothing. Across the bottom of the letter was scrawled "Love—Mike."

"What do you get out of this?" Terry asked Katharine bluntly the next time they met.

Kit was looking uncommonly well, and smiled serenely. She was thinking of some crumpled little notes, very precious little notes which had been coming to her for some days now.

"My turn's next, Terry," she laughed. "Just have a little patience and you'll see!"

Join the senior Mr. and Mrs. Burke, who have been east for two weeks. The Burkes will return to Glencoe the end of the month.

The junior Mrs. Burke's father, Arthur J. Barrett, returned Wednesday from California, where he was one of the stag party that holds its famous Hi-Jinks every summer in the Bohemian grove in the Sierras near San Francisco.

Miss Carolyn Barrett is at present visiting French friends of the Barrets at Antibes on the French Rivièra, where the Barretts lived for several years. Miss Barrett is studying with professors who are on vacation from the Sorbonne. She will return home some time in the autumn.

Another Ball Game at Ravinia Today.

Ravinia festival executives and the Chicago Symphony orchestra will play off their 2 games each baseball tie at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Ravinia park, with about the same lineups as were used recently. The public is invited for the price of park admission, and may stay on for the evening symphony concert which will be conducted by Fritz Reiner.

Mr. Reiner's final concert will be given tomorrow afternoon, and the last concert of the season will be heard tomorrow night with Dr. Frederick Stock conducting. It will be Dr. Stock's first concert at the park since before the days of Ravinia opera, and the first he has conducted since his illness of last March.

Richards-Terra Nuptials Today.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Methodist church in Oak Park, Miss Adeline Evans Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross F. Richards, will be married to Daniel J. Terra, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Terra of Philadelphia. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Mildred Reese and Miss Helen Cavender of Oak Park will be the bridesmaids, and little Alice Elaine Emmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Emmons of St. Louis, will be the flower girl. The bride's brother, John R. Richards, will be best man, and ushering will be Robert Birk and Arthur Hammon of Oak Park.

Following a honeymoon in the northwest, Mr. Terra and his bride will be at home after Sept. 1 at 308 Ridge avenue, Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Maxwell [Mary Elizabeth Putnam] of Evanston are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter July 21 at the Evanston hospital. The infant, granddaughter of Mrs. Leigh Reding Putnam of Evanston and of Mrs. John Scott Maxwell of Brandon, Manitoba, Canada, has been named Mary Elspeth. Mrs. Maxwell is vice president of the Evanston Junior league.

Week-ends until Thanksgiving day will find Dr. and Mrs. John McKinlock at the house they have taken on the shores of the lake at Pistakee Bay.

Hartland Parish to Hold Centennial Celebration

St. Patrick's parish, Hartland, near Woodstock in McHenry county, will celebrate its centennial tomorrow. The Rev. Joseph M. Tully, pastor, has invited more than 5,000 Catholics from Chicago to participate in the all day program. The church was the nucleus of a large Irish settlement in early days.

Sunday Paper Will Announce Party Winners

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Who's coming to see "Wee Willie Winkie" with me?

If you're one of the hundreds of youngsters who wrote for invitations for my next big party, which will be at the Roosevelt theater next Thursday, you're probably wondering about that, too. The news will be in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE.

In my column you'll find the names of fifty boys and fifty girls who wrote the best letters and have been selected as my guests. It was quite a task to select them, I can tell you, because there were many good letters.

I've come to the conclusion that there are some boys and girls who forget to put their thinking caps on when they sit down to write their letters. In spite of all my warnings several of you wrote grand letters and then forgot to sign your names. I had another awfully good letter written by a little boy—but I couldn't send him an invitation, because he forgot to tell me where he lived. You'll never win an invitation that way. As usual, there were some little 10 o'clock scholars whose letters didn't reach me until late Thursday afternoon, after all the judging was over.

Some of you are bound to be disappointed when you look through the lists of winners which will be printed in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, but I think you'll perk right up and decide to try again when you see the announcement of our next party.

Appeal for Autos for Crippled Children's Outing

The Dorothy Kahn Club for Crippled Children, affiliated with Michael Reese hospital, has appealed for the use of 200 automobiles to help transport 900 crippled children to the annual picnic sponsored by the club in Lincoln park on Aug. 18. The children are pupils of the Spaulding, Jahn, Christopher, and Gompers schools. For many of them it is their only party of the year. Volunteers of automobiles were asked to telephone Mrs. Alvin Oppenheimer, Kenwood 4300, apartment 320.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Meat loaves, because they are fairly economical to make, because they may be served hot or cold, according to the weather, and because they keep well for several days, are among the best of main dishes.

I have gathered together a few of our best recipes for meat loaves. One is spiced with catsup and horseradish; one is a beautiful jellied layer loaf appropriate for a party; another is a nutritious liver loaf, and the last, the popular ham loaf.

Meat Loaf with Horseradish.

2 pounds ground beef
1 pound ground pork
¼ cup grated onion
½ cup horseradish
1 teaspoon mustard
2 eggs
1 cup cracker crums
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup catsup

Mix all ingredients except catsup. Pack into a greased loaf pan and pour catsup over the top. Bake at 350 degrees about 1½ hours.

Presidential Meat Loaf.

[Five layers.]

2 pounds beef
½ pound pork
3 tablespoons granulated gelatin
Seasonings
2 cups broth
12 hard cooked eggs
2 small cans pimientos
½ cup cold water

Cook the meat until tender in 3 cups hot water [simmering temperature]. Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in the hot broth seasoned to taste with salt, pepper, a little Worcestershire sauce and onion juice. Grind the meat, add seasonings, and mix half of it with about a fifth of the gelatin solution. Pour into a bread pan and allow to jell. When firm pour in a layer of mashed egg yolks, seasoned to taste and mixed with another fifth of the gelatin. When the second layer is firm add a layer of chopped egg whites and gelatin. Follow with a layer of finely chopped pimiento and gelatin, and combine remaining meat and gelatin for top layer. This is a firm, jellied loaf of very attractive appearance.

Liver Loaf.

1½ pounds beef or pork liver
1 medium onion
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
1 cup cracker crums
1 egg

Wash liver, slice and run through food chopper with onion. Add crums moistened with egg and milk. Mix well and pour into a buttered baking dish. Place in a pan of hot water, cover with greased paper, and bake for an hour or longer at 350 degrees.

Ham Loaf.

1 pound ground ham
½ pound ground veal
½ pound ground pork
2 eggs
½ cup bread crums
½ cup milk

Combine ingredients and add salt if needed. The ham often is sufficiently salty to flavor the other meat. Shape into a loaf and place in small roaster or in a baking dish. Pour a cup of hot water over the loaf and cover. Bake at 350 degrees for an hour and 15 minutes, uncovering for the latter part of the baking period.

A Charming Breakfast Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BREAKFAST FROCK.

There's quite a rage these days for breakfast frocks. No ordinary house dresses, mind you, for today's smart homemakers! This model has two versions. One has a V neckline with a smart rolled and semi-surplice collar. Matching cuffs adorn the sleeves and some of the same contrasting fabric is wound around the snug and gathered waistline. A small pocket is found on the bodice and two of them on the skirt of this wrap around model. Buttons do their share for chic, too. Prints are especially effective for this design. All the sturdy cottons and linens are ideal mediums.

The other version has a high neckline with a little collar. The sleeves are slightly longer, but still in the raglan styling. A tailored belt is used at the waist, and buttons are grouped for greater effectiveness. A plain shade in this model is pretty trimmed with a gay print. One brilliant idea is to match the trimming on this frock to the color scheme of the breakfast nook or kitchen. Nothing like harmony in the home!

Style No. 2810 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material, with 1 yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Child Should Enjoy the Food He Eats

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In a recent letter is this paragraph:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: My daughter refuses oatmeal unless she is quite hungry, when she may eat four or five bites, but no more. A doctor told me to take it away and give her no milk, fruit, nor anything else until lunch time, then give her oatmeal again. She might eat it then, but I don't know, for I have never tried that method."

I can't help feeling that this doctor doesn't know very much about children.

In the first place, oatmeal isn't that important. And certainly to keep serving a child oatmeal and oatmeal at successive meals until he [presumably] eats it is absurd. Such a performance would tend to set up a distaste for it, and assuredly the simple, natural process of eating would take on an emotional tinge.

Food, of all things, should not be made a peg upon which to hang disciplinary measures. I've had other procedures described to me in which a dinner plate of partly eaten meat and vegetables is put in the refrigerator and brought out and presented to the child again at the next meal time and then again in its identical appetizing [?] condition. Again, I must say "What absurdity," not to mention unkindness.

The mother who wrote the letter from which I quoted showed good sense and imagination in not following the advice given her in regard to the oatmeal. All she and most mothers of young children need is to have confidence in their own good common sense as applied to eating.

This common sense will not attach undue importance to any one food, especially to cereals. A child does need the elements contained in grains, but cereals can be varied, they can be skipped occasionally, or the grains can be eaten in other forms, as in bread, toast, muffins, and biscuits.

If a mother knows what a child's food needs are for growth and development, if she has the whole picture clearly in mind and treats her child's eating habits pretty much as she treats those of an intelligent grownup, that child is pretty sure to eat, over a period of time, what she should. Try it and see.

I don't say that all young children have appetites, because they don't. But I am convinced that most eating problems are unnecessary, are created by the grownups who have the care of the child.

Just try what I might call thoughtful common sense—or as some one has called it that uncommon attribute known as common sense—and see if I'm not right.

This subject will be continued.

For details on this subject write in for our leaflet, "Mealtime Troubles: or Why Your Child Won't Eat." It will be sent out on receipt of a large, 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in The Sunday Tribune.

Quiet Life Is Rich in Its Own Rewards

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Stella can't understand why so many of her friends feel sorry for her. They seem to think she is missing a lot in life because she doesn't crave excitement as they do. She's not interested in stepping out every night although she enjoys a good movie or play, and if she stops in some place for a snack afterward she likes to get home before the wee small hours.

According to her friends, she's leading much too dreary an existence. They tell her she doesn't realize what she is missing. She should step out as they do so that she will see things. They feel it is part of their young lives to keep posted on what's going on, taking in the places that people are talking about. They like to do this for the entertainment feature, because of the people they may see there and, of course, to enjoy a few dances.

All this does not appeal to Stella. She gets her pleasure in her own quiet way. She wouldn't get the same thrill out of seeing people whether or not they happen to be celebrities. It would be nonsensical for her to attempt to do the things which spell real fun for them.

But those girls who feel Stella isn't getting a kick out of life are all wrong. She's doing the things she likes to do, in a way that pleases her, and she is getting as much if not more enjoyment out of life than her friends. She gets to bed reasonably early, gets enough sleep and always is smiling and good natured. She enjoys a quiet contentment and happiness that is certainly easy on the nerves. Those girls who stay up late night after night, looking for excitement, lose so much sleep they become irritable. They can't do their work well. Naturally, don't enjoy it. They aren't up to par.

It's not surprising that men are attracted to girls like Stella when they begin to think seriously of settling down. She is even-tempered, enjoys her fun, can find happiness and contentment without racing madly about. Constant outside stimulant is not essential to her good nature. She can take her fun, and it's surprising how much real pleasure can be found in the quieter life.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

Way to Apply Eyeshadow.

T. C.: The correct way to apply eyeshadow is to put it on lightly to the lids, growing fainter, virtually indiscernible toward the nose, otherwise the eyes will seem to be drawn too closely together. Carry it only just beyond the eyes, fading into nothingness before you feel the bone of the eye socket.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The vivid imagination of an early New England woman is responsible for the "Milky Way" block, which is one of the loveliest of the first pieced patterns which came out to the west. Two shades of celestial blues, yellow, and white are the combination used in this block, but a combination of printed and plain materials gives the quilt the quaint charm found only in New England. The finished blocks measure 12 inches square, and fifty-six pieced blocks, surrounded by a three inch border, are required for a coverlet measuring 90 by 102 inches.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

THE FIVE NO TRUMP CONVENTION—REQUIREMENTS AND RESPONSES.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Any free five no trump bid [after a suit has been directly or tacitly agreed on] in the opening or responding hand is a forcing bid. Partner must do either of the following things:

1. He must sign off at six-odd in agreed trump suit when not holding A-K, A-Q, or K-Q of that suit.

2. He must bid a grand slam in the agreed trump suit, regardless of the strength or weakness of his hand, but always provided he holds the A-K, A-Q, or K-Q of that suit.

The agreed trump suit may be in the opening or responding hand, and the five no trump bid may be made by either partner. The phrase "any free five no trump" means a bid of five no trump which is neither preceded by the same player's four no trump nor is some conventional response to a previous artificial bid such as partner's four no trump bid or asking bid.

TODAY'S HAND.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Squeeze plays, of course, are common these days, but this one differed from the run-of-the-mine plays, as the lead of a losing card was necessary to effect the squeeze.

West	North	East	South

Pass	1 spade	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	3 hearts	Pass	3 no trump
Pass	Pass	Pass

"West led the diamond six. South won East's jack with the king and led a low club. East took the jack with the king and returned a diamond. I permitted this to run to West, who took the queen. The opponents had, by this time, won two tricks. West now switched to the three of hearts and I won the trick with the queen. On two more leads of diamonds, East discarded a club and a spade. On the ace and king of hearts East dropped another spade. The ace and queen of clubs now compelled West to ditch his thirteener in diamonds, and all hands were reduced to three cards, as follows:

"The lead of my club seven squeezed West, who correctly discarded the spade ten, his only chance now being to deceive me. I discarded the heart six from dummy and, when East won with the nine of clubs and returned the spade seven, I played the five, dropping the blank king and winning the last trick with the queen for four no trump. This score won the board [in match-point play], as the opponents made only three no trump. Yours truly,

"G. T. S., Pittsburgh, Pa."

I thoroughly agree that, as squeezes go, this was one of the most interesting types. The declarer is to be congratulated for his flawless execution.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

♠ A K 10 7 5 ♥ Q 10 9 8 ♦ 8 5 ♣ 8 3.

ILL. WESLEYAN PROGRESSIVE IN A CHRISTIAN WAY

Founded by Wisdom and Spirit of Pioneers.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—"There is a spirit in man. . . . An organization of Christian people whose faith made the republic possible. . . . It is through them that philosophy, with God as its postulate, science with God as its conclusion, and culture with religion as its culmination, will underlie our thinking, permeate our teaching, and guide our living. . . . The tenure and price of our liberties are involved in it. . . . An education that shall be American in all its essential principles."

Here on the campus of Illinois Wesleyan university, reading a rare and faded history while the locusts sing overhead and doves call from the great trees, one gets a glimpse of the wisdom and the spirit of such pioneer educators and preachers as Peter Cartwright, one of the founders of this institution in 1850.

Patriotic Motives.

Love of country was "not the least" of their motives. They felt the responsibility of the Methodist Episcopal church to the waves of population spreading through the valley of the Mississippi. Destiny pointed out to them this valley as "the depository of the great heart of the nation."

"It is here contended," the founders of Wesleyan stated, "that the state has not yet undertaken to furnish the highest education, and, from the nature of education and the constitution under which it operates, it may never assume such prerogatives.

"The highest education must meet the postulates of man's ethical and religious nature as perfectly as those of his intellectual. . . . The aim of the school of highest instruction should not be purely secular; its ideal should be the ideal of perfect manhood after the mode of Jesus of Nazareth. Instruction in science, in letters, in history, and philosophy should be given from the standpoint of the fundamental ideas of the Christian religion."

The emphasis today remains essentially the same, according to President Harry Wright McPherson, who, after five years, is retiring from this position to become executive secretary of the board of education of his church.

Uses Different Approach.

"It is not in opposition to state institutions," he says, "but it has a different approach. It is Christian education, but not sectarian. The state is shut out from a field which we keep open. We are not trying to force a Methodist attitude, but a Christian faculty keeps the emphasis on the moral and spiritual.

"There is nothing of the fundamentalist attitude here in education. We think we are sanely progressive. We teach evolution and everything else in a Christian way. We have got to expose our students to all sorts of social, economic, and political orders, but this is done by wide awake, sensible men. There is not a Red on the faculty. At the same time we do not want men with closed minds. We have no one here who is a fool."

After eighty-seven years pioneering, change and growth Dr. McPherson thinks that Illinois Wesleyan will "weather the storm" of the present tendency to "let the state do it" in education.

Inspires Quest for Truth.

The statement of "purposes today" includes "to acquaint students with, and inspire them to enter, the enduring quest for truth, beauty, and goodness." This seems to touch that plan for metaphysics or study of first principles, advocated by President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago for the higher learning, and invites attention to the opposition voiced by Harry D. Gideonse, associate professor of economics at Chicago, who writes in "The Higher Learning in a Democracy":

It is true that a clear and systematic indoctrination of some set of dogmatic first principles might be more comfortable to the young, the weary, and the frightened, but an educational institution not yet committed to outright indoctrination in some secular or formal religion will insist that broken rays of true light are preferable to the glamor of a spurious metaphysical clarity that has no relation to experience.

Disposes of "Chaos."

In other words, that "chaos" in education of which Dr. Hutchins writes is disposed of at Wesleyan and the smaller liberal arts colleges, where personal contact and training is stressed, by the purpose to "achieve Christian character and a Christian attitude toward the problems of the time." Even such an attitude seems wide enough to permit social division, but it is basically a thing of organic growth and endless vitality.

RITES HELD IN AIR OVER OCEAN FOR AIRLINER VICTIMS

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Aug. 6.—(AP)—From a plane circling low over the sea where a Pan-American-Grace airliner crashed with 14 persons aboard, Chaplain L. P. Johnson of the United States navy today read services for the victims.

The tribute was rendered 20 miles west of Cristobal, eight miles off the coast of Panama, where the big amphibian plunged into the water Monday. Wreaths were dropped.

None of the bodies had been recovered, but fragments of wreckage, recovered by naval vessels, localized the area in which they went down.

With the chaplain during the services were the widows of Pilot Stephen Dunn and Co-Pilot Lawrence Arnold Bickford, other relatives and Pan-American-Grace officials.

SEARCH CASKET FOR WILL, PLEA; AFTER MILLIONS

Claimant Believes Paper Hidden 7 Years Ago.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 6.—(AP)—A claimant to the $20,000,000 estate of the late Henrietta E. Garrett today asked the Orphans court to have her casket searched to see whether a will was hidden therein when she was buried nearly seven years ago.

The claimant is Mrs. Henrietta Garrett Ferguson of Haverford, Pa., who said she is the namesake of Mrs. Garrett.

In her petition she intimated that Mrs. Garrett's personal maid, now dead, may have hidden a supposed will in the casket because the last known will of Mrs. Garrett was not pleasing to the maid. Mrs. Ferguson received $10,000 in the known will and the maid $8,000.

Witnessed Will in 1924.

Mrs. Ferguson averred that she and Carthage Churchville, the maid, witnessed Mrs. Garrett's will in 1924; that afterward Mrs. Garrett told Mrs. Ferguson that she had made complete disposition of her estate. She also averred that the maid had ample opportunity to remove papers before the arrival of administrators.

"If Carthage Churchville did remove such papers," she said in her petition, "she did not destroy them but hid them in a place accessible to no one and known only to herself."

"The remains of Mrs. Garrett lay in a casket in a darkened room for four days after her death, the open casket offering a convenient receptaclie in which to hide her will."

Judge Allen M. Stearne issued a rule on the executors and the commonwealth of Pennsylvania to show cause why the request to search the casket should not be granted. A hearing will be held later.

Fortune Nearly Triples.

Mrs. Garrett came to her fortune when her husband, Walter, a snuff manufacturer, died in 1895, leaving her approximately $6,000,000. This had grown to $17,000,000 when she died in 1930. She left a will in the form of a letter in which she disposed of only $62,500 of the estate. Nothing was ever found to indicate she disposed of the remainder of the fortune.

Since her death nearly 20,000 persons from all over the country and foreign countries have filed claims as heirs. Hearings have been under way for many months. The state of Pennsylvania claims the entire undisposed part of the fortune on the ground there are no legal heirs.

GARAGE CHANGES ROUSE CURIOSITY OF ROGERS PARK

Curiosity of Rogers Park residents has been aroused recently by the changes taking place in a former garage at 7515 North Clark street. In the last few weeks the hardwood floor has been laid and the street windows screened by green blinds. The more observing also have seen Jack Summers, lieutenant of William [Big Bill] Johnson, supervising the work. Big Bill heads the remnant of the old time Skidmore-Johnson gambling syndicate and Summers manages one of his northwest side clubs.

Inasmuch as the North Clark street building lies near Evanston and the north shore, Rogers Park folk recalled that recently remodeling for gambling purposes of a tearoom at 335 Howard street in Evanston was halted by the suburb's police. Those who have been fortunate enough to get inside the refurbished garage, which is carefully guarded, have seen booths that resemble cashier's cages, a long counter, and air conditioning equipment being installed.

SOX LOSE TO BOSTON, 7-3; CUBS WIN TWICE

ALL-STAR GAME MAY DEVELOP INTO BATTLE OF PASSES

LOOK OUT FOR BAUGH, BUIVID AND HUFFMAN

They Offset Great Packer Pair.

Two for Dorais

AMONG the votes for Charles E. Dorais sent directly to The Tribune yesterday was one from K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler corporation, and another from Lawrence T. Fisher, vice president of the General Motors corporation.

Mr. Keller sent this message: "Kindly cast my vote for Charles Dorais to lead All-Stars in Chicago charity game. It is about time for the college lads to win. Dorais can do it. All our facilities are being employed to keep him on top."

And this from Mr. Fisher: "My personal vote goes to Gus Dorais, a fine character and an excellent coach. Our efforts are being directed to place him in first position."

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bears expected to overwhelm the All-Star football players by the power of Bronko Nagurski's line smashes. The Bears were held to a scoreless tie in 1934 and won the following year, 5 to 0, not by power but by a blocked kick for a safety and a field goal by Jack Manders.

Detroit's Lions expected to whip the 1936 All-Stars by the brilliant running of Dutch Clark and Glenn Presnell. The Lions had to come from behind to score the touchdown which tied the All-Stars, 7 to 7.

Packers Like to Pass.

On Sept. 1 this year at Soldiers' field Green Bay's Packers, champions of professional football, will depend on the accurate passing of Arnie Herber and the brilliant receiving of Don Hutson. In support the Packers will have long distance kicking by Clarke Hinkle and a running attack which has been called mediocre more because of comparison with the exceptional passing of the Green Bays rather than because the team can't hammer along the ground when it must.

But Green Bay's air ambitions can be duplicated. For the first time the All-Star squad possesses forward passers whose university records rival those of Herber, and receivers whose ability to receive the ball in any position will match the excellent catching by Hutson.

Watch Huffman Pass.

Indiana's Vernon Huffman undoubtedly will be given the passing assignment in the starting lineup of the college boys. There is cause for worry by the Packers if they will reread the play by play account of Huffman's work in the 21 to 21 game last fall against Purdue. Then, consider Ray Buivid of Marquette, and Sammy Baugh of Texas Christian. They'll be ready to step into the All-Star lineup and when either is given a pack field job, watch for passes.

Baugh, the offensive star for his eleven in 1935 and 1936, made his name synonymous with accurate passing. When Grantland Rice placed Baugh on his All-America team he wrote that he had seen Baugh "hit the receiver 38 times in one game." During this last season, although Texas Christian had lost many of its stars of the preceding year, and the team was badly crippled during a portion of the schedule, Baugh completed 92 passes in 170 attempts. These gained 1,100 yards and 11 of the passes scored touchdowns. There's the evidence that Slinging Sam can score bullseyes.

WALKER BREAKS WORLD RECORD IN HIGH JUMP

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Melvin Walker, American high jumper, broke the world high jump record today with a leap of 2.08 meters [6 feet 9 29-32 inches]. Walker missed his first two tries for the new record height, then skimmed over on the third attempt, barely touching the bar.

Walker's jump surpassed the accepted record of 2.07 meters [6 feet 9¾ inches] held jointly by his Ohio State university teammate, Dave Albritton, and Cornelius Johnson of Compton, Cal.

Americans won three other events in today's meet. Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kas., who failed to break the world mile record yesterday because he pulled up too soon, mistaking the finish line, won the 1,500 meters in the good time of 3:49.4. Perrin Walker of Georgia took the 100 meter dash in 10.7 seconds and Phil Levy of Stanford university won the discus throw at 49.30 meters [161 feet 8 63-64 inches.]

Acting Mayor of Detroit Calls On City to Aid Dorais

Gus Dorais' candidacy for head coach of the All-Star football team became a civic issue in Detroit yesterday when John W. Smith, acting mayor, issued a proclamation calling upon citizens to support the University of Detroit coach. Acting Mayor Smith told of his appeal in the following communication to Arch Ward, TRIBUNE sports editor:

"Have issued a proclamation urging all Detroiters to join the campaign to elect Gus Dorais, coach of the University of Detroit, to the job of head coach of the All-Star college team. Every city department has been instructed to have its employés vote and work for him. Best wishes for success in your annual charity game.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The double stake race policy of the Lincoln Fields Jocky club goes into effect this afternoon, and those who visit the course along the Dixie highway no doubt will be in for an afternoon of uncertainty and thrills.

The Dearborn handicap at 5½ furlongs for 2 year old fillies attracted an overnight field of thirteen. The Crete handicap, out of which may come the sprint champion of the meeting, drew an entry list of fifteen.

The favorite in the Dearborn will be Fantine, fleet filly from Keeneland farm owned by John Oliver Keene. Fred A. Burton's Deliberator likely will be the choice in the Crete handicap, although he will not be an outstanding one because included in his list of rivals is Thomas D. Taggart's fleet and game Marica, generally recognized as the best race mare in the country right now.

Rushaway Is Back.

Deliberator carries 122 pounds, Marica's impost is 117. They are the two high weights of the field.

The Crete also brings back into competition the one-time iron horse, Rushaway, which won the Illinois Derby and Latonia Derby on successive afternoons early in the 1936 season.

Rushaway never has amounted to much since those two big days, but after a rest he has trained well for his Lincoln Fields campaign.

Deliberator demonstrated at Arlington Park that he is one of the fastest horses in the country when he scored two victories there over the fleetest sprinters that could be mustered against him.

Fantine's strongest rivals appear to be the Midkiff and Wells entry of Dixieland and Cross Keys, the Ferguson entry of Dinna Do and Shining Heels, Joseph E. Widener's On Delivery, and the Oddesa farm stable's Oddesa Helen.

It's Up to Fantine.

The Dearborn will be Fantine's fifth start and it provides her with the best opportunity yet to place her name in the list of stake winners. Should Fantine end her career without having been first home in an added money event, the Bowdre fam-

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 6.—The Red Sox this afternoon ran their winning streak to ten straight, not counting a tie game Sunday, and the White Sox losing streak mounted to five in a row when the Bostonese whipped the Chicagoans in the opener of a four game series, 7 to 3.

The features of the game were two homers by Pinky Higgins, his seventh and eighth of the year, which drove in the first four Boston runs.

Other notable aspects of the entertainment were two successive strikeouts by Luke Appling, defending major league batting champion, the first with the run which would have put the White Sox ahead waiting on third to score. The other whiff came when the White Sox were one run behind and had runners on third and second with only one out.

Bonura Is Banished.

Zeke Bonura was banished for the first time in his major league career because Umpire Emmett Ormsby had his feelings hurt when Zeke threw pebbles on Mr. Ormsby's ample underpinnings. Zeke meekly explained that he thought he was throwing the pebbles at his own dogs, which by one of those human coincidences happen to be the same size and shape as Mr. Ormsby's, although the finger prints of the two men are different.

The outcome gave the Red Sox a full game lead, plus several percentage points, in second place. The White Sox on the trip to date have lost seven games and won four.

It's Not New York, Boys.

The first inning caused the Sox to take a furtive look around to make sure they hadn't stayed overtime in Yankee stadium. Cramer singled after Mills had fanned and went to second, while Piet was throwing out Cronin. The Sox thought Dietrich had struck out Foxx, but Umpire McGowan didn't concur, so Foxx walked. Then came the Yankee touch. Higgins lifted a homer over the left field wall, scoring Cramer and Foxx. McNair singled but was forced by Berg. Dietrich refused to be shaken and did some nice pitching while waiting for his mates to do something.

The only Chicago hit in the first three innings was a single which Dietrich made himself. The rest of the lads started production in the

League Leaders Run Up 30 Hit Total.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The pace setting Cubs snapped back to attention as hitters yesterday and in that way blew the wings off Boston's Bees in both ends of a double-header before a ladies' day throng of 33,000. The score of the opening battle, due mainly to a delicious six run sixth inning, was 12 to 6. The second affair was less boisterous, the Cubs doing most of their business with another sixth inning uprising, to triumph by 6 to 2 and move to a point five and one-half games ahead of the second place Giants.

The Cubs had most of their afternoon's fun at the expense of a couple of old gentlemen who once served with them. Bob Smith was the principal victim of the first game sixth inning that converted a fairly respectable argument into a rout, but three of his mates also got theirs at one time or another. And in the second game the first placers again proved that their old friends are always welcome. They blasted the one time Gallant Guy Bush off the landscape.

Bees Rout Carleton.

The Bees, at least, registered a moral victory. They made short work of Tex Carleton in the first game, and when the Lone Star slat can't handle them it's an event. They clipped him for two homers in the opening inning. Frank Demaree promptly retrieved these two runs with his No. 14 homer off Starter Ira Hutchinson. But Carleton was dented again in the second inning, so away he went, leaving the job to Curt Davis, who went through to the finish although not backward about allowing hits.

The Cub pitching in the second game didn't reach a complicated point at any stage because Leroy Parmelee went through a nine inning job for the first time in six weeks. For five innings he yielded only one hit, the bearing down being necessary because the ancient Bush could be assessed for only one run up to that point.

Guy Bush Weakens.

Bush, however, looked different in the sixth when the four decisive runs skipped home on singles by Rip Collins and Ken O'Dea and triples by Billy Herman and Bill Jurges.

The stormy sixth session of the first battle deserves a few words because of the fashion in which the seeming budding champions went in for extra base hits. They crowded seven hits into the busy inning, only one of which was a single. Two of them were homers authored by Gabby Hartnett and Stanley Hack. Three were doubles from the bats of Collins, Demaree, and Davis. Five of these six distance drives appeared while Uncle Smith was in service as a rescuer of John Lanning.

FIRST GAME

Carleton's first pitch in the opening game looked so choice to Johnson that he slapped it into the right field bleachers. After three more pitches Warstler planted a homer behind the short fence in left.

The Cubs tied it right up on Hack's single and Demaree's homer over the old brick wall in left.

Carleton was replaced by Davis in the third after Fletcher had walked, advanced on Mueller's single, and came home on Johnson's single.

Hutchinson pitched himself out of the game on his own blunder in the fourth when the Cubs scored three times. Frey doubled and Davis bunted to Hutchinson, who threw to third without noticing that Frey was hugging second. The throw went wild, Frey advancing to third and Davis to second. Galan grounded to Fletcher, who had no place to throw, so it went for a hit, loading the bags. Collins singled and Frey scored. Lanning then appeared and the two

Beats Lassator and Mad Money in Sprint.

The son of Cohort-Sportress ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:04 4-5 to beat Valdina farm stable's Lassator and Lemar Stock farm stable's Mad Money by a head. The old record was 1:05, made by Shepherd Boy in 1932. Mad Money and Lassator fought it out for pace making honors in the early stages. Co-Sport picked them up in the stretch.

The juvenile raced in the silks of Benjamin Friend, who had claimed him a few weeks back from Warren Wright's Calumet stable for $4,000. He mustered stout backing and paid $6.40 for a $2 ticket.

Dave Shaw, owner of Bird's Eye, tried to scratch the horse out of the first race yesterday because he didn't think he had a chance to win. The stewards refused his request. Then Bird's Eye stepped out to win the race at a mutuel betting payoff of $54.

Bow to Me, Woolford farm stable's 4 year old, worked 6 furlongs yesterday morning in 1:14 3-5 while tuning up for his next engagement, which will come in the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap.

Jocky Paul Ryan, at Lincoln Fields en route to Saratoga, hopped into the saddle on the favorite, Leading Article, to win the Monee purse. By a great stretch ride he got Leading Article up in the final strides to win in a photo finish by a head from the long shot Faust. Bartering Kate was third.

fly would very likely disinherit her and claim she wasn't truly a daughter of the great brood mare, Jeanne Bowdre.

Every son and daughter of Jeanne that has gone to the races has become a stake winner and Fantine may well keep this remarkable record going.

There is no more consistent brood mare in the land than Jeanne. J. O. Keene could have sold her for $100,000 some years back. One of Mr. Keene's neighbors, Brownell Combs, owns a great rival in Frizeur, which has foaled at least three great stake winners in Pair by Pair, one time star of the Mrs. John Hertz stable; Crowning Glory, which raced for John Hay Whitney, and Myrtlewood, which carried Mr. Combs' own colors to a world's record and eleven stake victories in two seasons.

Falters in Lassie Stakes.

Jeanne Bowdre's first foal died from an accident, but then came Disaster, which carried Joseph Widener's colors to many victories; Epitaph, one of the fleetest sprinters of the last decade, and Grandslam, mud running hero of the 1935 Arlington Futurity. Fantine's sire is Whichone.

Her most recent effort was in the Lassie Stakes and on that occasion she showed high speed for three furlongs but was not in her best racing condition.

BIRD'S EYE, well up from the start and raced wide after a half mile, gained slowly under hand riding after reaching the final quarter and won drawing clear. JOBIOSO forced the pace under restraint, crossed to the inside sharply after racing around KAIMASK on the stretch turn, and held on gamely under strong handling, but was not good enough. COTTINGHAM saved ground where possible, was under pressure the last three-eighths, and held on well.

Winner trained by J. Bainton. Went to post at 2:46. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving.

TWO TRICKS took command quickly, was rated under steady restraint to the final quarter, mainly withstood PARVA STELLA bid, and drew out in the final eighth. BERNARDINE W. began to improve her position after about three-eighths, continued strongly through the stretch, but was lucky to overtake PARVA STELLA. Latter, under restraint for a half mile, challenged gamely soon after reaching the stretch, but faltered after three-quarters, yet might have finished second had she been stoutly persevered with to the end.

PROSY alternated in the early pacemaking under only light restraint, began to draw away from WITAN when nearing the final eighth and, continuing with good speed, held clear by a head. GOLD STANDARD, a slow starter, failed to respond and brought to the extreme outside in the stretch, finished with good belated speed and outgamed COLOR BEARER at the end. Latter was under strong riding the final quarter and fought it out with determination.

Winner trained by T. Kinsella. Went to post at 3:48. At post 2 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

CO-SPORT, raced wide throughout but never a great distance back, moved up steadily when standing strong urging gamely in the final quarter and, getting to LASSATOR in the last 50 yards, got to the front when the latter stumbled within a few strides of the wire. LASSATOR displayed high speed from the start, was on the inside after the first quarter, swerved when punished, and was holding on doggedly when he stumbled within a few strides of the wire. MAD MONEY was under vigorous riding from the start, failed to keep up in the last three-sixteenths, but outstayed KNEE DEEP.

LEADING ARTICLE, hustled in the early stages but steadied around the turn, swerved out entering the stretch but sustained high speed when straightened and withstood FAUST'S bid. Latter, on the inside throughout, entered serious contention quickly after half mile and continued strong to the close, though failing to get up. BARTERING KATE lost much ground on the stretch turn, rallied quickly when straight in the last three-sixteenths, and held on with determination to the end.

SOLAR HAWK, going in his best form and benefited by the pace and fine luck, came through on the inside when racing to the lead with a rush after reaching the stretch and gradually shook off ANTENA in the last eighth. The latter, on the inside for a half mile, was forced wide when racing around PANIC RELIEF and held on with good courage under strong handling, but could not hold the winner. MO, in close quarters early and again on the stretch turn, swerved out when clear in the final three-sixteenths and weakened, but outstayed BLACK RIVER.

CENTENNIAL, on the inside after the first sixteenth, was rated under a steady hold for about seven-eighths, continued well under vigorous riding thereafter, and withstood MANHATTAN'S challenge. The latter began to move up when saving ground on the second turn, came to the outside of the leaders for the drive and, closing strongly, was wearing down the winner. REELAWAY, under stout restraint for about three-quarters, challenged resolutely when placed to urging, but weakened in the last sixteenth.

YANKS RALLY IN 9TH, 10TH; BEAT INDIANS, 7 TO 6

Winning Double First Ruled a Foul.

New York, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Everything happened at Yankee stadium today—but Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians did not beat the Yankees.

Lou Gehrig hits his 26th homer of the year with a man on third off Feller in the ninth inning to tie the score. Then Joe Di Maggio dropped a double along the left field foul line off Johnny Heving in the tenth to score the tying and winning runs in a 7 to 6 Yankee victory, their sixth in a row.

Feller allowed nine hits in nine innings, fanned 12 and walked ten. Hal Trosky kept him in the game with two homers, his 24th and 25th of the year. The first came in the sixth with two on base and staked Feller to a 4 to 2 lead. The second gave Feller a one run advantage in the tenth.

Myril Hoag opened the tenth with a single and Feller was replaced by Heving. Jack Saltzgaver then dropped a pinch single into right and both were sacrificed along by Frank Crosetti. Red Rolfe fanned for the second out, but Di Maggio smashed a long drive that was first ruled foul by Umpire Charles Johnston and then called fair in a reversal of the ruling by Umpire George Moriarty. Hubbell and Giants Whip Pirates, 6-3

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 6.—(AP)—The New York Giants defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 3, today as Carl Hubbell ended his two game losing streak.

Two Pittsburgh errors in the Giants' four run rally in the eighth were major factors in the New Yorkers' third straight victory. The triumph, Hubbell's first since July 18, was his fifteenth of the season. The Giant southpaw is the first pitcher in the major leagues to win fifteen games this season.

O'Grabmey Wins 5 Round Decision Over Davenport

Martin O'Grabmey, amateur middleweight, won a five round decision over Sam Davenport in the feature bout of the boxing show at Northwestern stadium last night. In the semi-windup, Tito Taylor scored a five round decision over Lem Collier. Other results:

SEMI-PROS PLAY DOUBLE-HEADERS AT THREE PARKS

Semi-pro baseball will be presented at three parks tomorrow afternoon, with the local clubs engaging some of the best opposition they have met this year. The first games at all parks start at 1:30 p. m.

The Chicago Mills play two games with the Carta Blanca Mexicans at Mills stadium. The Duffy Florals meet the Cuban Stars in a twin bill at 74th and Aberdeen streets, and the Spencer Coals, who have lost only one game in twenty-eight starts on their home field, will play a double-header with the Detroit Stars, first division members of the Negro American league.

other runs counted on Demaree's fly and a pass to Hartnett with the bases filled.

Cubs Cut Loose.

The Cubs picked up one in the fifth on a pass to Frey and Galan's triple and in the sixth turned the affair into a travesty with a cluster of six runs. Demaree started it with a double and scored on a single by Herman, who went to third when Moore fumbled. That was all for Lanning. Smith came in and took the real bruising. Hartnett hit a homer to left center. Jurges tripled and scored on Davis' double after Frey had fanned. A fly ball disposed of Galan but Hack home runned to right for two more. Then Collins doubled, so Smith was removed and Reis induced Demaree to pop out.

The Bees made the first impression on Davis in the eighth. One scored on singles by Garms, English and Fletcher. They peppered him for two more runs in the ninth on a pass to Reis and singles by Pinch Batter Mayo, Di Maggio, and Cuccinello.

SECOND GAME

The second game was a nice, quiet one hit apiece affair until the fourth, when Parmelee got the upper hand by one run. This was done when Demaree doubled to right center and scored on Herman's single to left. O'Dea also came through with a single, putting Herman on third, but nothing came of this because Jurges' sharp slash to Warstler was turned into a double play.

After Moore's single to right at the start of the second inning there wasn't another safe tap off Parmelee until the sixth, when both Johnson and Warstler singled with one out. This was stopped by a double play on Di Maggio's bounder to Jurges.

Cubs Get Four More Runs.

The Cubs fixed it up for themselves with that four run flare. Collins started it with a single to right and was bunted to second by Demaree. Herman banged a long fly to right center and it slipped out of Di Maggio's grasp for a triple, Collins scoring. Herman hiked home on O'Dea's single. Jurges lined a three bagger past Di Maggio and O'Dea registered. Jurges scored the fourth run on Frey's infield out.

The Bees scored in the seventh purely on Parmelee's wildness. Cuccinello walked, went to second on a wild pitch, to third on Moore's fly, and home while English was being thrown out. The visitors scored another in the eighth on a double by Mueller and a couple of outs. The Cubs countered with one run in their half on a double by Frey and a single by Parmelee off Reis, who succeeded Bush.

Bill Lee will go after his season's 13th victory for the Cubs today. The Bees' pitching probably will be handled by Frank Gabler.

Gabby Hartnett's homer in the sixth inning of the first game brought an afternoon off to Hugo Bonthron, 6920 South Lincoln street, one of the workmen engaged on the new bleacher job. The ball hit him on the head and downed him for the count, but he revived quickly and became a spectator.

The women fans apparently don't keep up on their baseball. They let loose quite a cheer when English, the Bees' third baseman, made his first appearance at the plate. It was a case of mistaken identity. They thought it was Woody English, the ex-Cub now with the Dodgers.

Lyons Will Pitch Against Red Sox in Today's Game

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 6.—Ted Lyons will oppose Lefty Grove in tomorrow's game between the White Sox and the Red Sox. Vernon Kennedy and John Whitehead have been nominated for the White Sox in Sunday's double-header.

Luke Sewell became ill after he had been announced as the catcher in today's game. Hot weather got him and he went to the Sox hotel.

Manager Dykes went to Fenway park early today and had a good cry on the shoulder of Eddie Collins, Red Sox general manager. He mentioned being soaked $100 for his tom-tom concert in front of the Sox dugout at the Yankee stadium.

Dykes still denies he called Umpire Brick Owens "a blind so and so." He insists he never mentioned Brick's vision or lack of same.

fourth. Radcliff singled with one down to get tabulating under way. Appling fouled out, but Bonura doubled to the flag pole, Radcliff scoring.

Boston Wastes Two Doubles.

The Red Sox attack on Dietrich from the first inning through the fifth consisted of two wasted doubles by Cronin and a single by Berg. The Red Sox argued that Manager Joe's second drive, with two out in the fifth

VAN SWERINGEN RAIL PLAN SETS EXPERTS AT ODDS

Senate Group Hears Views on Listing New Issues.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Senate investigators heard two New York Stock exchange experts express sharply conflicting views today on a plan for reorganizing the Van Sweringen railway system.

The senate railroad finance committee, concluding an eight month inquiry into the Van Sweringen setup, listened to a condemnation of the proposed merger by J. M. B. Hoxsey, member of the exchange's listing committee. Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] then introduced a dissenting opinion by John Haskell, executive secretary to the exchange's listing unit, who said the plan—affecting $91,000,000 worth of assets—is "distinctly constructive."

Plan Urged by Young.

For three days the reorganization had been advocated before the committee by Robert R. Young, New York financier, who recently purchased control of the 23,000 mile rail network. He proposed a consolidation of his two top holding companies, Chesapeake and Alleghany corporations. Investors in these firms would trade their present holdings for securities of a new consolidated company, also to be named Chesapeake corporation.

Hoxsey told the investigating committee: "It seems to me unwise to give any countenance to this plan as a whole," and urged that the new securities to be issued under it not be listed for trading on the New York exchange.

"The new common stock will have no present assets and no certainty of earning power and will be clearly a call upon the future," he testified.

Sees Control Unchanged.

Hoxsey insisted control of the entire system still would be concentrated in the hands of Young and his associates.

Haskell's memorandum contended it would not be "in the interests of the existing stockholders, the investing public, or that of the exchange itself to take a position against the plan." He observed that "objection to the plan as a whole would be the practical effect of action to de-list the presently listed bonds, preferred stock and common stock, with resulting loss of market to some 9,000 preferred stockholders, 22,000 common stockholders, and thousands of bondholders."

William Jackson, counsel for the exchange, interrupted to remark that the listing committee had not made up its mind whether to permit trading in the proposed new securities.

Homestake Mining.

Investors' Guide: indly send me all information on Homestake stock. —Miss L. C. K.

Answer: Being this country's leading gold producer, Homestake Mining company "struck a bonanza" when the United States began devaluation of the dollar in 1933 and finally fixed the price of gold at $35 an ounce in 1934, compared with the former price of $20.67.

Production of ore in the last four years has been little different from the average of the preceding decade, but profits have been sharply higher because of the higher price for gold. This is illustrated by the following table:

1936	1,384,000	$7,650,000	$30.46
1935	1,379,000	8,145,000	32.43
1934	1,441,000	7,104,000	28.29
1933	1,432,000	5,008,000	19.94
1932	1,402,000	2,456,000	9.94
1931	1,404,000	2,337,000	9.70
1930	1,364,000	1,493,000	5.94
1929	1,438,000	1,044,000	4.16

Per share figures above are based on the 251,160 shares of $100 par capital stock outstanding before an 8 for 1 stock split in June, 1937, since which time there have been 2,009,280 shares of $12.50 par stock outstanding.

Regular dividends of $1 a month and extras of $2 a month were paid on old shares from 1935 until the stock split. The new stock is paying 37½ cents a month, a rate equivalent to the one which prevailed on the smaller number of shares formerly outstanding. Except for 1920, dividends have been paid in each year since 1903. They have averaged $14 a year since 1923, including extras.

Dividends in excess of reported net income have been made out of reserves set aside for depletion of the mines and represent a return on capital invested.

In its report for 1936 the company said that it had more than 15,580,000 tons of ore reserves developed. It owns more than 450 claims covering 3,700 acres near Lead, in the Black Hill district of South Dakota. In addition, it owns Oro Hondo gold mining properties, the extent of which has not been reported. The company also owns water rights, timber lands, and a coal mine.

Homestake shares deserve a fairly high rating at present, but the investor should bear in mind the wide fluctuations in earnings, dividends, and stock prices which can be caused by changes in the price of gold. There appears to be little prospect of higher gold prices, and increased costs can be expected to hurt profits.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

SATURDAY. AUGUST 7. 1937.

May Acquire Stock from E. L. Cord.

Emergence of Lucius B. Manning, partner of Errett Lobban Cord in the diversified transportation interests of the Cord corporation, as the new controling head of the company, appeared likely yesterday as negotiations for the sale of Cord's interests were transferred from New York to Chicago.

L. B. Manning, who may get control of Cord corporation.

While secrecy surrounded the deal, it was reported that Cord is quitting because of ill health. Early this year he suffered a nervous breakdown and was confined to a Chicago hospital for some time.

Report Manning Gets Option.

Cord owns 29 per cent, or 658,703 shares, of the company's stock. Manning is said to have been given an option to buy part of this holding, which, with the 5½ per cent, or 123,389 shares, he already owns, would give him a dominant position in the concern.

While rumors have indicated that the New York banking houses of Emanuel & Co. and Schroeder, Rockefeller & Co. were to be the purchasers of Cord's interests, it is now believed they are acting for Manning or a group headed by him.

Cord corporation is a holding company whose principal investments consist of a 28½ per cent interest in the $9,203,500 Auburn Automobile company; 29¾ per cent of the $11,255,000 Aviation Corporation of America; 26.4 per cent of the founders stock of the $11,386,000 New York Shipbuilding corporation, and 33.4 per cent of the $5,554,000 Checker Cab Manufacturing company.

More Interest in Aviation.

Reports indicate that under the new setup Cord corporation will center its activities on aviation interests to a greater extent than in the past. Cord always has been an "automobile" man. Manning, on the other hand, has been interested in aviation. The corporation's activities in this field, formerly Stinson Aircraft and Century Airlines, and later in American Airlines, which is controled by Aviation corporation, are largely the result of this interest.

Some interests said Cord was "tired" of troubles with the Securities and Exchange commission. These difficulties extend back to last fall when stockholders ratified a 5 to 1 split of Checker Cab Manufacturing company stock and Cord corporation announced its intention to offer half of its 60 per cent interest in Checker to the public.

SEC Approval Withheld.

A registration statement filed with the SEC still has not been approved. Although the SEC denies existence of an investigation in the absence of any charges, it is known that SEC representatives not only have analyzed books of Checker but have extended their record combing to most other companies in the Cord setup. It is reported, without confirmation, that the SEC has spent almost a quarter of a million dollars in looking through various Cord records.

Negotiators who conferred here yesterday in Cord's office at 105 West Adams street refused to comment on whether the SEC is interested in the deal, and if so, in what way. It was reported in New York that the SEC was irked at premature publicity on the deal, but an unidentified "spokesman" there said Cord is in no danger of "getting in bad" with the SEC and is not in any financial difficulties.

Manning Joins Negotiations.

Principals in negotiations here included Manning, R. S. Pruitt, general counsel of the corporation, and John Flynn, formerly one of the SEC's leading attorney-investigators. Flynn said he is practicing law in New York now. He admitted representing New York banking interests, but declined to say which firm. In New York Cord was reported to be in Chicago. Here it was said he is in New York.

While Manning said premature publicity had cast doubts on the probability of completing the deal, New York interests took every precaution to prevent any further "leaks." They were as vague as the Chicagoans as to whether the SEC had inspired Cord's retirement or might be blocking the deal now.

Hints at Private Sale.

The secrecy as to any connection the SEC might have was increased by reminders that private sales of securities require no SEC approval if the securities are not distributed to more than 25 persons. Manning said the proposed deal does not contemplate any distribution of Cord securities.

The apparently well founded reports that Manning will take charge of the new management cast doubt in some quarters that the SEC could have inspired the deal because he and Cord have been intimately associated in business for many years.

The Cord-Manning association began soon after Cord came to Chicago in 1918 as an automobile salesman. Cord had been a race mechanic, driver, and operator of truck lines, used car stores, and new car rental agencies. Manning was in the securities business.

Slow Demand, Hedging Push Wheat Lower

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

Closing prices of principal September deliveries on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$1.12¾	$1.15¾	$1.11½
Corn	1.00¼	.99¾	1.04¾
Oats	.29⅝	.29⅞	.42⅛
Rye	.81⅞	.81¼	.79
Soy beans, Oct.	.99	1.00¼	.....

Grain markets again moved downward yesterday. Wheat closed 2½ to 3½ cents a bushel lower on North American markets. December and May corn, which represent the crop to be harvested this fall, lost slightly more than a cent a bushel.

Lack of support demand, increased hedging pressure, and weakness in Liverpool were responsible for the break in wheat. Aggressive speculative buying in evidence Thursday was absent, although there were some purchases of futures attributed to mills, presumably against sales of flour.

September Corn Higher.

September corn again showed independent strength and closed ⅝ cent a bushel higher, reflecting the sensational shortage in supplies of domestic grain from the 1936 crop. In the last five days the so-called primary markets have received nearly 3,000,000 bushels of corn, of which it was estimated less than 150,000 bushels were domestic grain. The balance was grown in Argentina or South Africa.

Domestic No. 2 yellow and white corn sold on the Chicago Board of Trade in carlots yesterday at a premium of 13¾ to 15 cents a bushel over the September delivery, which closed at $1.00½. Only 3 cars were received, making a total of 18 cars in five days. The decline in the December and May deliveries of corn was said to be the result of selling based on a forecast for rain over a large part of the producing area.

Speculators Withdraw.

Pressure on wheat came from speculators who had bought at higher prices and were withdrawing from the market. They regard the market's action as unsatisfactory in view of official and private reports that world supply and demand this season is the most closely adjusted in many years.

Grain traders so far have paid little attention to reports from Washington that pressure is being put on the administration to make loans on cash grain stored on farms. Prices equal to 65 cents for corn and 28 cents for oats delivered at Chicago have been suggested in trade gossip. Several years ago farmers borrowed money from the government on about 25,000,000 bushels of corn stored in farm cribs.

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS U. S. POWER PROJECT

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—The Fourth United States Circuit Court of Appeals today reversed a lower court decision and denied the West Virginia Power company an injunction to block a governmental power project on New river near Hinton, W. Va. The lower court had upheld the power company, and the government appealed.

In passing upon a point raised by the power company that the authority to acquire land by condemnation proceedings must be given by authorization of congress, the court held that such authorization had been given by implication and that this was all that was necessary.

The court further held that the project had been carefully considered by the federal government and duly authorized by the legislative and executive branches of the government. It held also that the project had been approved as a proper and necessary aid to flood control,

SENATE PASSES BILL TO CONTROL RECEIVERS' FEES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—The senate passed and sent to the house today a bill to regulate receivership fees and procedure in the federal courts.

The bill, introduced by Senator Borah [R., Idaho], would make illegal agreements between lawyers and interested parties on fees in receivership and bankruptcy cases. Judges would be prohibited from approving fees fixed by such agreements. They would be forbidden also to appoint relatives as receivers or attorneys in such cases.

AUTO OUTPUT FALLS AS TRADE PREPARES FOR NEW 1938 MODELS

Tapering off of production on 1937 models in preparation for the new 1938 line cut the output of American and Canadian automobile factories last week to approximately 79,736 vehicles, Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc., estimated yesterday. This compares with 86,403 units in the preceding week and 84,153 in the corresponding 1936 period.

Suspension of production in midweek by the Detroit Plymouth plant was principally responsible for the decline. Other manufacturers also curtailed operations as they prepared to shut down production on their 1937 models.

The agency estimated that the industry's output will recover to around 100,000 units next week with the reopening of Ford assembly plants. The Ford factories, however, will continue production of the 1937 models for only a short period. All manufacturers are preparing for their 1938 cars.

General Motors this week produced an estimated 48,425 units against 49,089 in the preceding week. Chrysler's output was placed at 21,900 against the preceding week's 26,900 units.

INFLUX OF GOLD RENEWED; LONDON PRICE DECLINES

New York, Aug. 6.—[Special.]—The engagement of gold in London for shipment here in substantial amounts was resumed today after a lapse of a month in which almost no shipments had been made. The change was due to a fall in London's gold bullion price to the equivalent $34.76, a cent under the shipping parity of $34.77.

Since July 7, when gold in London first went to a premium, the price of bullion there has remained near or above $34.77 almost continuously. It has dipped to a small discount a few times, permitting minor shipments of gold.

As a result of today's decline in the London gold quotation $1,498,000 of gold, practically all that was offered in the bullion market there, was engaged for shipment here. This was the largest engagement of gold in London since July 8. It brought the total of gold purchased in England for shipment to this country since the first of the year to $566,700,000.

The French franc declined and the British pound rose moderately in terms of American currency in exchange transactions. The franc closed at 3.75⅛ cents, .00⅛ of a cent lower. The British pound closed ¼ of a cent higher at $4.98½.

CHICAGO SCHOOL BOARD REDEEMS MORE WARANTS

The Chicago board of education yesterday called for redemption of an additional $1,901,808 on its 1936 tax anticipation warants, bringing total redemptions to date to $6,037,000. The call leaves a total of $27,869,000 of the board's 1936 warants outstanding.

Warants included in redemption call were $1,290,000 of education fund warants; $524,000 of the building fund, and $20,000 playground fund warants.

House Defies Roosevelt on Sugar Control

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—House members defied President Roosevelt today, passing sugar control legislation which he has said he would veto. Despite pleas of administration leaders the chamber refused, by a vote of 92 to 135, to strike from the measure an administration opposed provision restricting refined sugar imports from Hawaii and Porto Rico.

The bill now goes to the senate, where advocates said they will insist that it be passed in its present form.

Designed to replace the expiring Jones-Costigan act, the measure would set up a new quota system for division of the domestic sugar market among various producing areas.

No Roll Call on Bill.

There was no roll call vote in the house to show the exact strength of the bill's supporters, who are mostly from midwestern and western sugar-producing states and from seaboard refining states. The bill passed on a standing vote announced as 165 to 55, with many members not voting.

Consequently the question of whether advocates could muster the two-thirds majority necessary to pass the measure over a presidential veto remained unanswered.

Majority Leader Rayburn of Texas and Chairman Jones [D., Texas] of the agriculture committee pleaded with the house to accept the administration's views if it wants sugar legislation this session. They asserted the refined sugar import restrictions would "discriminate" against the island possessions.

Bill Contains Excise Tax.

The bill would levy an excise tax of half a cent a pound on refined sugar to finance benefit payments to growers complying with production control, child labor and wage and hour regulations prescribed by the agriculture department.

The rate of benefit payments to small growers is fixed in the bill at 60 cents a hundred pounds of sugar. The rate for large growers is smaller.

The house rejected amendments of Florida representatives for a Florida quota of at least 100,000 short tons annually. The bill would allow that state approximately 70,000 annually. The chamber adopted, however, an amendment subjecting imported blackstrap molasses used for distillation of alcohol to the excise tax.

UPHOLD LEGALITY OF IOWA FARM MORATORIUM ACT

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—Constitutionality of the extension of Iowa's mortgage foreclosure moratorium act was upheld today by District Judge W. W. Scott of Davenport. He held that the emergency which prompted this relief legislation has continued to exist.

This is to become the first test before the Iowa Supreme court of the validity of the action extending the moratorium to March 1, 1939.

Judge Scott's decision was delivered in granting a continuance to March 1, 1939, of proceedings of the First Trust Joint Stock Land Bank of Chicago to foreclose a $37,000 mortgage against the 320 acre farm of Adolph P. Arp, Scott county supervisor, and Laura P. Arp, near Eldridge. Attorneys for the bank plan to carry their case to the Supreme court.

FRANCE PLANS DECREES TO CURB HEAVY IMPORTS

PARIS, Aug. 6.—(AP)—The government announced today that it was about to issue a series of decrees to curb heavy imports, which were said to be setting up "ruinous competition" to certain French industries. The statement gave no specific instances concerning American imports. It said all trade agreements would be respected.

Six aricles at present allowed to enter France without limit will be placed on quotas, the announcement added. It said that during the first five months of 1937 some products, notably jute, had been imported in quantities "a hundred times greater" than in the corresponding period of 1936.

Duties of some articles imported on a quota basis will be raised. The protection to French industry will be given in return for promises of capital to speed up production and respect the 40-hour working week. It was announced that the government would demand adequate guarantees of these promises.

EDISON STOCK SPLITUP DATE WILL BE AUG. 14

The Commonwealth Edison company yesterday filed with the Chicago Stock and New York Curb exchanges notice that it would subdivide each share of its present capital stock of $100 par value into four shares of $25 par value, such subdivision to become effective at the close of business Aug. 14. The action is in accordance with authority given by the Illinois commerce commission on Aug. 3.

On Aug. 14 the company will mail stockholders three additional shares of $25 par value for each share held. The shares they already hold will automatically become $25 par value shares, but stockholders will be requested to send in their old certificates either to be restamped or exchanged for new certificates.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—Remington-Rand, Inc., said in an amended prospectus filed with the securities and exchange commission today, that labor difficulties in the last year have cost the company more than a half million dollars. Direct cost of strikes was placed at $500,000. Furthermore, the company said, labor troubles were responsible in part for the $800,000 spent in moving plants.

TRADE TREATY WITH SOVIET LIBERALIZED

U.S. Grants Favored Nation Treatment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—President Roosevelt today proclaimed the extension of a trade agreement between the United States and soviet Russia for another year. Under the pact the soviet government pledges itself to purchase at least $40,000,000 worth of American goods in the next twelve months. The American government in return grants all tarif concessions and trade favors accorded other nations under reciprocal trade treaties.

Renewal of the agreement was effected by an exchange of notes at Moscow by Joseph E. Davies, American ambassador to Russia, and Maxim Litvinoff, people's commissar for foreign affairs of the soviet union. It replaces the original agreement entered into July 13, 1935, which was renewed July 11, 1936.

Total Sharply Higher.

The $40,000,000 of American goods which the soviet union pledges itself to purchase within the year represents an increase of more than 230 per cent over the $12,000,000 annual average of American exports to Russia for the years 1932 to 1934, inclusive, before the original agreement was entered into.

In the 1935 agreement the soviet government pledged itself to purchase 30 million dollars' worth of American goods. Actually the Russian purchases mounted to 37 million dollars. In the 1936 extension the soviet pledged to purchase 30 million dollars of American goods. Actual purchases for eleven months of the life of the agreement to last June 15 totaled $36,000,000. Because purchases exceeded pledges, the amount of the pledge was raised this year.

Manganese Chief Advantage.

The principal advantage to Russia under the agreement is that she can send manganese to this country on the same basis as Brazil, which has a reciprocal trade treaty with the United States.

Soviet purchases in the United States during the last year consisted chiefly of machine tools, rolling mill and forging equipment, oil well and refining machinery and dies. American purchases from Russia were principally of manganese, matches, linen, flax, seeds, and fish.

The trade is on the American dollar basis and is carried on in this country by the Amtorg Trading company. If an American wishes to purchase soviet goods he must do so through a soviet controled export agency.

Coal Allowed to Enter.

Special attention was given to importation of coal. Russia is the only nation in the world besides the United States which produces anthracite. Russian ships bring the coal over as ballast. This practice has brought bitter protest against the agreement from coal areas.

Russia agrees to hold down exports to 400,000 tons, which is slightly less than the amount brought in during the last year under the trade agreement between this country and the Netherlands.

This is the first time Russia has been included under the most-favored-nation clause. All countries with which the United States has trade intercourse now are accorded most-favored-nation treatment except Austria and Germany.

Treaty Brings Protest.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Protests over the agreement entered into between America and soviet Russia were forwarded today to President Roosevelt by the Scranton Chamber of Commerce and other organizations in this region.

The agreement provides for Russia to send coal into the United States tax free. The removal of the tax will be a serious blow to the anthracite industry, civic leaders said.

CHEVROLET LIFTS RETAIL PRICES $30 ON MONDAY

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6.—[Special.]—The list price of Chevrolet cars and trucks will be boosted $30 Monday, it was announced today by General Motors corporation, which previously had scaled up the prices of its Cadillac, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, and La Salle cars. With General Motors following the Ford Motor company's recent price advance lead, it was held inevitable that Chrysler shortly would announce boosts in the prices of its competing lines.

Effective Monday, Oldsmobile prices are to be lifted $45. After Aug. 14 the lists for Cadillac models will go up $100 and La Salle units will increase $60. The advance in Buick prices ranges from $45 to $100, effective Monday, while no date as yet has been set for an advance in Pontiac prices.

Roosevelt Signs Bill Taking 'Sting' Out of Bee Business

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed a bill authorizing the secretary of agriculture to enter into marketing agreements with beekeepers. Congress earlier had renewed agricultural adjustment act marketing agreement provisions applicable to milk and other farm commodities, but honey was not included in the first authorization.

Stocks Easier Despite Firm Tone in Metals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 6.—Stock prices moved in a narrow range today and mostly toward lower levels. Metal shares were the only feature, reflecting an increase in the price of zinc. Steels were mixed, while rails and utilities followed a fractionally lower pattern. Volume for the day was approximately 680,000 shares.

The increase in the zinc price, following yesterday's rise in lead, revived reports that the copper price also would be advanced shortly, giving many traders ample reason to go into the metals market, it was held. Another stimulus to purchasing in this group was the firmer prices on the London exchange.

Metal Shares Advance.

Anaconda, Inspiration Copper and American Smelting came in for considerable attention, pushing fractions to almost a point higher. A long list of other metal shares made frequent appearances on the tape, also at higher prices.

U. S. Steel common and Republic Steel were most active in their division. The former, after an early upturn, turned reactionary on steady pressure to drop 1 point.

Republic Steel was turned over around previous levels and closed unchanged. Bethlehem and American Rolling Mills also worked lower, while Inland, Youngstown and National Steel worked fractionally higher.

Motors held firmer as interest dwindled slightly. General Motors and Chrysler both added small fractions, while practically all lower-priced auto issues receded. An exception was Continental Motors, which bulged a fraction on good volume.

Railroad Issues Weaken.

Despite an increase in car loadings, railroad issues were weak in a limited turnover. Among the heavier losers were Atchison, off 2 points; New York Central, off 1⅛, and Southern Pacific and Southern Railway, off 1⅜ each. The majority of other rails held their losses to fractions or closed around unchanged levels.

Those who expected an upturn in the utilities issues in view of their recent backward performance were disappointed, as the stocks in this category appeared on the tape at lower quotations. Only Commonwealth and Southern and United Electric Coal came in for any attention, the former in good supply for a fractional decrease and the latter in good demand for a gain of three-eighths of a point. The majority of other electric and power shares sagged fractions to 1 point.

Douglas Aircraft was a big loser among the aviations, dropping over 1 point. Farm equipments came in for some more battering. Case Threshing was the heaviest sufferer, declining more than 4 points. International Harvester dropped more than 2 points and Allis-Chalmers lost over 1 point.

NORTH. PACIFIC'S NET EARNINGS $544,042 IN JUNE

The Northern Pacific railroad, heavy carrier of agricultural and mining products, yesterday reported net income for June was $544,042, against a loss of $562,347 in June last year. Loss in the first six months of 1937 was $2,497,631, considerably smaller than the loss of $5,177,419 in the first half of 1936.

The Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Omaha railroad reported loss in June of $94,325, against income of $15,753 in June, 1936. Loss in the first half of this year was $1,744,162, against loss of $1,458,671 in the first half of 1936.

U. S. RUBBER CO. PROFITS LARGER THAN YEAR AGO

Other Firms Report Rise in Earnings.

The United States Rubber company, with the largest rubber plantations in the world, yesterday reported net income of $4,500,600 before surtax, or $1.29 a common share, for the six months ended June 30, compared with $2,187,902, with nothing left for the common, in the first half of 1936.

F. B. Davis Jr., whose company pays $7,000,000 tax in half year.

Many other companies also reported gains in earnings.

Part of the rise in U.S. Rubber profits was due to a change in calculating of inventories, explained F. B. Davis Jr., chairman of the board, in his report to stockholders.

"The cost of operations includes approximately $7,000,000 for excise taxes, sales taxes, social security taxes, property taxes, capital stock taxes, franchise taxes, stamp taxes, income taxes, etc.," said Davis.

Sales Larger Than Year Ago.

Sales for the six months totaled $94,775,939, an increase of $23,375,304, or 33 per cent, over those for the corresponding period of 1936.

The plantations had a profit of approximately $2,500,000 after provision for depreciation and amortization of $950,000, and all other charges. This profit was not included in that of United States Rubber company, Davis reported.

The Ohio Oil company reported consolidated net profit of $6,722,357 before surtax, equal to 70 cents a common share, for the half year ended June 30, compared with $4,476,564, or 43 cents a common share, in the corresponding period of last year. In the June quarter the company had a profit of $3,250,728, or 37 cents a share, against $3,471,629, or 40 cents a share, in the preceding quarter of this year.

Noranda Mines Earnings Rise.

Noranda Mines, producer of gold and copper, estimated net profit of $5,027,108, or $2.24 a share, for the first six months of 1937, best first half in the company's history. This compared with $4,203,445, or $1.87 a share, in the first half of 1936.

Profits of the Maytag company, washing machine manufacturer, amounted to $689,064, or 26 cents a share, for the quarter ended June 30. This compared with $616,206, or 21 cents a share, in the March quarter and $754,692, or 30 cents a share, in the June quarter, last year.

For the six months ended June 30 the company reported net profit of $1,305,269, equal to 47 cents a share, against $1,345,286, or 49 cents a share, in the comparable period last year.

The Louisiana Land and Exploration company reported net income of $468,000, or 16 cents a share on the capital stock, for the June quarter, compared with $499,500, or 16 cents a

Rail Freight Trafic Climbs; Week's Total Over Estimates

Railroad freight trafic last week slightly exceeded private estimates, totaling 782,660 cars, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. This was a more than seasonal gain of 11,680 cars, or 1.5 per cent, over the preceding week, but still well below this year's record of 806,168 cars established during the week ended July 3. A total of 780,000 cars had been predicted.

The second best week this year was that of the week preceding Memorial day, when a total of 794,885 cars were loaded.

Loadings last week exceeded the corresponding week a year ago by 35,131 cars, or 4.7 per cent, and were 187,363 cars, or 31.5 per cent, above loadings of the same week of 1935.

Gains were recorded over the July 24 week in all types of freight except grain, ore, and coke. The sharpest increase occurred in loadings of coal, which increased 9,856 cars to 118,622. The coal movement, however, continued below last year's figure. Ore shipments dipped below those of the preceding week this year, but exceeded shipments a year ago by 20,095 cars.

Detail Comparisons.

The association's classified report of loadings of various commodities, with comparisons for the July 24 week and a year ago, follows:

	Wk. ended July 31.	—Change from— Prec. wk.	Yr. ago.
Miscellaneous	307,633	+1,919	+13,245

The Dow-Jones seasonally adjusted weekly loadings index, based on the average of the last fifteen years as 100, advanced to 91.1 from 90.3 in the week ended July 24.

The Associated Press seasonally adjusted loadings index, based on 1929-1930 as 100, advanced to 79.5 from 79.1 in the preceding week and 76.1 a year ago.

New York Bonds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 6.—Bond prices in general were steady today with trading somewhat lighter in volume than was the case yesterday. Several foreign bonds rose to new high prices for the year on a few trades, while domestic railroad and utilities marked time. United States treasury issues were firm, but the turnover in federal issues was extremely small.

Gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded for Interborough Rapid Transit issues. Consolidation Coal of Delaware 5s rose more than a point in fairly active dealings and gains of fractions to more than a point were chalked up in Bethlehem Steel 4¼s, Central of New Jersey 5s, and Southern Pacific 3¾s.

Spurts of fractions to nearly four points in Karstadt Loans, a German issue, were outstanding in the foreign list. Karstadt 6s touched 44, a new peak for the year, but dealings were small. Some Italian loans moved up a point or so, including Milan 6½s.

Most United States treasury loans crept a little higher but failed to stir most top grade corporates issues out of the rut. Alleghany corporation 5s, stamped, dropped more than a point and small losses were registered in Baltimore and Ohio refunding 6s, Erie 5s of 1975, Illinois Central 3½s, Pere Marquette 5s, and Northern Pacific 4s.

Chicago Stocks.

Cord common stock again held the spotlight in trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, due to reports that bankers will acquire Cord interests. The stock rose ⅝ point to close at 4⅞. It accounted for the most active trading of the day at 4,550 shares.

Chicago corporation common dipped ¾, La Salle Extension rose ⅛, while Middle West and General Finance were unchanged. Nunn Bush Shoe sold at 18 in an initial trade of 50 shares.

Bank Stocks.

A decline yesterday of $15 a share in American National bank stock marked trading in Chicago bank shares. Continental Illinois dipped $2, First National eased $4, Harris Trust lost $5, and Northern Trust dipped $5. Lake Shore Trust and Savings rose $5 and Terminal National $2.50.

Grain Definitions—2.

Contract Markets—Terminal grain markets which qualify under provisions of the commodity exchange act.

Contract Months—Months during which grain is deliverable against futures contracts. These are also known as delivery months. The "nearby" delivery is the closest contract month. Deferred deliveries or futures are others being traded, excluding the nearby contract. The term "option" is sometimes used in referring to futures or contracts although this is not accurate.

In Store—Grain which has been unloaded from cars or ships and placed in elevators or warehouses.

Open Interest—The total of incompleted transactions in futures contracts which have not been closed out. All purchases must subsequently be sold or delivery of actual grain must be accepted. All sales must be repurchased or delivery of actual grain made.

Pit—Trading ring in the grain exchanges, usually consisting of a series of wide, circular steps, on which the brokers stand and transact their business.

U.S. COAL BOARD TO END QUARREL; HOSFORD STAYS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—C. E. Smith, bituminous coal commissioner, predicted today that the commission would give Chairman Charles F. Hosford Jr., a vote of confidence next Tuesday following Hosford's offer to resign the chairmanship last week.

"Is it out of fashion to have a little disharmony in the government?" Smith asked when newspapermen questioned him about reports that a row in the commission led Hosford to submit his resignation. "Now, like congress, we're going to have a love feast on Tuesday, the date of the next meeting."

Hosford refused to be quoted on the matter except to say: "I'm not going to resign." Commission officials confirmed reports that Hosford submitted his resignation during a tiff over personnel appointments and the minute book. The vote on acceptance was three to three. Hosford therefore, kept his position.

For July production was 9 per cent above June, with 4,556,596 tons against 4,183,762 in the preceding month, and 16 per cent above the 3,914,370 tons produced in July a year ago.

Operations in the industry for the month were at 78.49 per cent of capacity, compared with 74.46 per cent in June and 67.61 per cent last year.

Pacelli, 20th Ward alderman and ward committeeman; Bob Pacelli, orchestra leader, and Joe Pacelli, a pianist.

William C. McDuffiee has submitted his resignation as chairman of the executive committe and director of Richfield Oil corporation. Directors of Bayuk Cigars, Inc., yesterday elected A. Joseph Newman president of the company to succeed Harry S. Rothchild. Rothchild will remain as vice chairman. Newman was vice president and general sales manager.

NEW CROP HOGS CONTINUE RISE; OTHERS MIXED

Cattle Work Lower; Lambs Steady.

New crop hogs advanced again yesterday. The top price in Chicago rose 10 cents a hundredweight to $13.75, highest since 1935. Gains of 5 to 40 cents were registered in the east. Buffalo, the highest market in the country, quoted a top of $14.15 and Pittsburgh received $13.85.

Advances in the Chicago market were confined to light butchers under 220 pounds in weight. Other classes were steady to lower. Sows were mostly unchanged, while prices 15 cents to 25 cents under the high point of Thursday.

New High Mark Set.

A shipment of 300 pound Illinois sows brought a new 1937 high of $12.35, and 354 pound Illinois stock sold at $12.30, but the bulk of sorted 300 to 450 pound sows ranged from $11.60 to $12.15.

Buyers of cattle were more cautious yesterday, apparently awaiting the reaction of consumers to recent advances in meat. There was a poor clearance for practically all stock with a small holdover reported at the close despite the scant supply of fresh receipts. No top steers were offered. The best here sold at $15.75, with the bulk at $8.50 to $12.85.

Beef Cows, Hefers Easier.

Beef cows and hefers sold unevenly lower, grain fed hefers showing losses of 75 cents to $1, compared with the high point last week. Canners, cutters, calves, and bulls were steady to a shade lower. Stockers and feeders held firm.

A better demand prevailed for lambs at firm prices. Packers bought natives from $10.75 to $11.25, paying $9.75 to $10.25 for buck lambs and $9.50 or less for culls. Old ewes were steady to $5.75.

MANUFACTURERS OPPOSE MEASURE TO LIMIT TRAINS

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday urged manufacturers to oppose the McCarran train length bill which recently passed the senate and is now before the house interstate and foreign commerce committee.

"The measure has been urged by its proponents as a safety device, although it was originally pressed by the rail unions for the purpose of spreading employment," read the statement. "There is no evidence that accidents to employes on railroads have any direct relation to the length of trains."

The association contended that the proposed bill would impose an additional burden on railroads estimated as high as $237,000,000 a year, without allowing for the indirect cost involved in scrapping equipment and facilities now in use to accommodate longer trains.

HOT WEATHER BOOSTS SALES IN RETAIL FIELD

New York, Aug. 6.—[Special.]—August's hot weather spurred retail purchasing of summer goods in such volume as to establish further gains in many localities during this week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. Gains ranging from 3 to 8 per cent over the preceding week were reported at all leading centers of retail distribution. Summer clearance and August promotional events joined to incite consumer interest in a wider range of merchandise.

Emerging from the shortest period of summer recession in years, many more industries advanced operating rates as others maintained previous high schedules to build up stocks, according to the survey.

LATEST PORTRAITS OF THE FIVE LITTLE LADIES OF CALLANDER

These are the newest pictures of the Dionne quintuplets, received yesterday while Emilie was recovering from a cold which resulted in a news item. Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the girls' doctor, said Emilie caught her cold from an outside source and Papa Oliva Dionne, who lives across the street, thought he meant him. Words were passed as Emilie sat on the porch watching her sisters in their wading pool.

Armstrong, night auditor, and was then wounded by Armstrong while fleeing. The bandit was captured at the door by the doorman and held for the police. Armstrong fired three times from behind his counter, one bullet striking MacIsaac.
